ILLINOIS ADOPTS
NEW DEAL FOR
UTILITY RATESCompanies' Protests
Are Overruled.BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
(Picture on Back Page.)

The influence of the Roosevelt new deal in public utilities regulation became fully manifest in Illinois yesterday when the state commerce commission, for the first time in its history, instituted a hearing on its own motion for reduction of an electricity rate.

The commission, which under past administrations had confined itself to arbitrating rate differences between the utilities and the communities they serve, assumed the initiative for lower rates over the protest of James Simpson, chairman of the three utilities serving the Chicago area. The rate at issue is that of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, which provides electricity in 315 communities of Cook county and adjacent counties.

Simpson Pleads for Delay.

Referring from any direct challenge of the commission's right to institute the hearing, Mr. Simpson at the opening session in the commission's office, 1 North La Salle street, merely asked a postponement until such time as the policies of the national new deal become more clarified. He pleaded for consideration not alone of utility consumers, but of utility investors, and asked that the credit of the companies, now shouldering an extraordinary tax burden, be preserved.

Enunciating the policies of the commission's new deal, Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer overruled Mr. Simpson's plea. In a statement, buttressed with quotations from President Roosevelt and Gov. Horner, he sought to reconcile the seeming conflict between the President's primary policy of restoring commodity price levels and the secondary policy of cutting utility rates.

Lindheimer Overrules Plea.

"The commission is, of course, cognizant of general economic conditions, the current discussion regarding price levels and the purposes of the national recovery administration," Mr. Lindheimer said. "These movements have originated with President Roosevelt, who at the same time has stated the necessity for a reduction in electric rates. We do not feel, therefore, that an action to reduce electric rates, where they can be shown to be excessive, in any way conflicts with the national program."

Going further on this trend, Chairman Lindheimer took another leap from the books of the Roosevelt new deal and intimated that hereafter the commission will employ a new method of computing rates, which method may result in permanently lower income for the utilities. Whereas in the past the commission computed rates on the reproduction cost of utility plants, henceforth, he intimated, the computation will be on what he termed "historical costs"—namely, the amount of money actually invested in a plant.

Face Reality, Simpson Urges.

In all of the chairman's statement there was no reference to the principal point in Mr. Simpson's argument against a lower rate. The burden of that argument was that the utilities he heads, confronted on the one hand by reduced gross income and on the other by a mounting tax burden, had already experienced a net income cut which necessitated the halving of dividends or their entire elimination.

"Economic realities must be faced," said Mr. Simpson. "Any further rate reductions or increases in taxes are impossible at this time without seriously affecting these companies. This community, embracing the city of Chicago and the surrounding area, is dependent in a large measure for its prosperity and growth upon these three companies. Any injury to them affecting their credit or their service inevitably means great damage to the community at large. Any reduction in rates at this time is unthinkable."

Commission Has New Attorney.

Having overruled Mr. Simpson's request for a delay, Chairman Lindheimer directed the commission's new attorney to proceed with his case. The attorney is Harry A. Booth, protégé of David E. Lilienthal, former chairman of the Wisconsin public service commission and now a director of the Tennessee valley authority. This is the same Mr. Booth who once came near being barred from practice before the

INSULL SUFFERS
STORMY DAY IN GREEK HEARINGJudges Rebuke His Shouting Lawyers.BY DAVID DARRAH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 24.—In an uproarious four hour session Cristos Ladas, Samuel Insull's third legal paladin, today sought to convince the Greek Court of Appeals that the former Chicago utilities magnate was innocent of fraud in the transfer of collateral for loans or the paying of dividends on stock of the bankrupt Corporation Securities company, an Insull concern.

The court is hearing a petition by the United States government for Insull's extradition to stand trial on charges of fraudulent bankruptcy.

Ladas at times was caught in the toils of his own facts and figures. He came in for amused gibes from the court and prosecutor which started him shouting and strutting up and down until the court ordered him to lower his voice. Ladas finished speaking at 9:15 o'clock tonight. The court had listened to him since 4:30 p. m., with a short recess.

Adjourn Until Friday.

The hearing was then adjourned until 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. With today's session three lawyers have talked about twelve hours in behalf of Insull.

The judges today appeared to be extremely skeptical at some of the defense's evidence and the president of the court, Emmanuel Panagarakis, repeatedly told Ladas to keep to the point and not repeat himself. Once the judge stopped Ladas to a rebuke that he had heard enough.

Insull looked tired and worn and watched the bickering and wrangling between the judges and lawyers with bewilderment and dismay, for he did not understand what it was all about.

Judge Questions Deposition.

The first row between the court and the defense came when Ladas sought to show that Insull had done his best to satisfy the claims of his creditors and had even transferred real estate holdings to his creditors in large amounts. Ladas read a deposition from C. Wilbur Daniels, former assistant secretary-treasurer of the Corporation Securities company, as proof of the real estate transfers. Daniels is a co-defendant with Insull, having been indicted in the same case by a federal grand jury in Chicago.

Who Is Daniels?

At the mention of the name Daniels, Judge Digenopoulos asked ironically, "Who is Daniels?"

Prosecutor Reganakis replied: "One of the defendants."

"Do you have documents to certify as to these alleged transfers of real estate which Insull made to his creditors?" inquired the judge. "Why did he not transfer it to the receiver of his bankrupt company?"

Lawyer Stamps and Shouts.

Ladas replied that the receivers were only appointed two years later. Then he started to stamp up and down and shout.

"You cannot convince me with shouting," said Judge Digenopoulos. "Daniels is a liar and a perjurer. Rally, the other defense lawyers, jump to their feet and all started to talk at once."

Want the Facts of the Transfer.

"We want the facts of the transfer of such property if they are not made in the deposition of a witness who is also a defendant," said the presiding judge.

JUDGE QUESTIONS DEPOSITION.

There was further skirmishing as Ladas proceeded with arguments that Insull was not guilty of illegal bankruptcy under the laws of Greece and that he acted as a good business administrator who was unexpectedly the victim of the panic and depression.

Row Over Balance Sheet.

"Don't go too far, now," warned Judge Digenopoulos.

Ladas then sought to prove that the Corporation Securities company was a good going concern for the first two years.

"Where's the money?" Judge Asks.

Judge Digenopoulos interrupted.

"Yes, it and the Insull Utility Investment corporation gathered up the savings from the people and when the two companies went on the rocks the only assets found were a table and a chair."

BULLETIN.

AKRON, O., Oct. 25 (Wednesday).—After maneuvering through gusty winds and rain squalls for nearly ten hours, the Graf Zeppelin floated down to the giant Akron airdock shortly after 5 a. m. (eastern standard time) today for a landing. A ground crew, which had been held in readiness throughout the night, hauled on the Graf's trailing ground ropes, eased the cruiser into position before the 170-ton movable mooring mast which stood in the center of the field, and worked in floodlights and chill winds to fasten the nose of the Graf to the mast.

AKRON, O., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Buffeted about by gusty winds and rain squalls, Hugo Eckener's giant Graf Zeppelin, winner of many battles with the elements, cruised about the Akron air dock tonight, its scheduled landing postponed until morning.

En route to the Chicago World's Fair on a mission of good will, the Graf, which left Miami, Fla., at 9 p. m. (E. S. T.) Monday night, appeared out of the south at 7:11 p. m. (E. S. T.) and circled about the field waiting for a change in the weather.

Winds which rose and fell in velocity, swept sheets of rain across the vast field and landing conditions were anything but favorable.

Sixty-eight Aboard.

However, there was no word that the craft or any of its 51 passengers and crew of 47 had suffered any ill effects in the adverse weather. The passenger list included three children, one a baby of 11 months.

Periodically and in terse language the ship's commander contacted the airport wireless station near the huge hangar where the Graf Zeppelin was scheduled to spend the night, advising the waiting officials and ground crew that he felt constrained to cruise around until the wind dropped.

Battles 60 Mile Wind.

The disturbance climaxed a full day of flying in dirty weather for the transatlantic airship. Reports throughout its voyage from Florida told of low and low pressure areas which, in one instance, led Eckener to do some circumventing to avoid bad spots.

Appearing over the port here 22 hours after leaving Miami, the Graf shot a blue spotlight onto the field to light his bearings and then, in the teeth of a wind which at gusty moments reached a velocity of almost 60 miles an hour, drifted off to await a break in the weather.

The big digression started its present cruise at Friedrichshafen, Germany. Its home port, made an ineffectual trip to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and a

PRESIDENT NURSES
ANOTHER COLD BY STAYING IN STUDY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today for the second time in recent weeks was confined to the White House mansion with a slight cold.

Despite his absence, the recovery council, composed of key men—the administration's reconstructed and relief program, held its usual meeting in the cabinet room, presided over by Secretary Hull.

Mr. Roosevelt was described by White House attaches as being only slightly indisposed and it was said that probably he would return to his desk tomorrow. To the damp, cold weather was attributed the President's decision to remain in his study and give the cold a chance to pass.

The President went ahead with his work in the study of the executive mansion, however, devoting considerable time to the details of the new gold buying agency he is setting up in the reconstruction corporation.

rapid and uneventful voyage from South America to Miami. The ship left Rio de Janeiro last Thursday.

CHICAGO AWAITS ZEPPELIN.

Elaborate preparations were completed yesterday by World's Fair and city officials to welcome Dr. Hugo Eckener and his famous Graf Zeppelin. The huge airship is expected to arrive tomorrow, barring bad weather. If the weather prohibits the air journey here, the ship will remain at Akron, O., to await better conditions, but Dr. Eckener and his co-guest of honor, Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to America, will come here by train.

Present plans, dependent on the weather, call for the ship to be landed at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview. Some 200 soldiers from Camp Whistler at the Fair grounds, will assist in making the landing, according to Dr. Rolf Jaeger, German consul. The guests will be escorted from the airport to the Fair where a 19 gun salute will be fired in honor of Ambassador Luther.

Quake Rocks
Los Angeles
Business Area

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 25 (Wednesday).—(AP)—An earthquake of minor intensity was felt over a considerable area of southern California at 11 p. m. last night. The shock was sufficient to awaken many who had retired, but no damage was reported.

The quake apparently was centered in the foothills near Pasadena and it was felt in a lesser degree throughout the lowlands surrounding Los Angeles.

Earth Settling Shock.

The intensity of the shock was described by Dr. Harry O. Wood, in charge of the seismological laboratory of the Carnegie Institute located in Pasadena, as not as severe as the tremor of Oct. 2, which caused light damage and the death of one person from fright.

The quake was believed to be an earth settling shock following the severe quake of last March 10, when damage amounted to millions and more than 120 lives were lost.

Burglar Alarms Set Off.

In Glendale scores of burglar alarms were set off by the shock and canned goods tumbled from high shelves. Cracks were reported in the Bell police station.

In Los Angeles the quake shook a few stones loose from the old courthouse, condemned since the March quake.

According to Dr. Harry Wood of the Carnegie Seismological Laboratory at Pasadena, the center of tonight's earth movement seemed to be close to Pasadena, but the vigor of the movement was estimated slightly less than that of Oct. 2. The shock expended most of its force in the foothills above and to the east of Pasadena.

NEW CRUISER
CHICAGO STRUCK
BY BRITISH SHIP

(Picture on Page 5.)

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The new 10,000 ton cruiser Chicago of the United States navy was rammed during a fog today by the British steamer Silver Palm of the Kerr line while the cruiser was bound from San Pedro to San Francisco. An officer died of injuries and a sailor was killed; another officer is missing.

J. W. Troy, Newport, R. I., chief pay clerk aboard the cruiser, was killed.

First Lieutenant F. S. Chappelle, marine corps, of Waterville, N. Y., died of injuries. The body of Junior Lieutenant W. A. McFarland, Haverhill, Mass., was not recovered. It is believed to be hidden by shattered bow plates.

$1,500,000 Is Asked in Court

Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, a divorcee, well known in New York society, filed the predicate of a suit for $1,500,000 against Harold F. McCormick yesterday in the Circuit court.

Her action is for breach of promise to marry, it was stated in New York by her attorney, Henry A. Uterhart. He said that Mrs. Doubleday, who now lives in California, has a number of love letters written to her by Mr. McCormick, and charged that the Chicago capitalist proposed marriage to her about a year ago. Reports of their engagement to marry were published about that time, but neither of the principals would confirm them.

Attorney Uterhart said that in his opinion Mrs. Doubleday had "a real case" against Mr. McCormick. She brought the case to him only a few days ago, he added, and for that reason he was not familiar with its full details.

To Present Letters in Court.

He could not recall the phraseology of any of the letters which his client plans to offer in evidence, but he asserted that they were definite enough in their statements to back any of the claims Mrs. Doubleday is prepared to make when her case goes to trial.

The declaration in the case will set forth, Attorney Uterhart said, that Mrs. Doubleday met Mr. McCormick in Paris about two years ago. They were introduced, he said, by Cyrus H. McCormick, brother of Harold.

Their friendship, the lawyer said, was renewed in June, 1932, while Mrs. Doubleday and her mother, Mrs. John James Tanner of New York, were house guests at the Cyrus McCormick home. As a result of their renewed acquaintanceship, Uterhart charged, Mr. McCormick became "an assiduous devotee" of Mrs. Doubleday.

Tells of Another Meeting.

"Last year, when Mrs. Doubleday was on her way to her home in Santa Barbara, Cal., she stopped at Cyrus McCormick's home for a visit," Attorney Uterhart said. "She met Harold McCormick again there, and when she left for California he followed her. They were seen together many times at the Olympic games, and there followed rumors of a marriage."

Mrs. Doubleday returned to Chicago late in the year, and there followed a correspondence between the two in which he told her that he loved her. He arrived in Chicago in November, 1932, and asked her to marry him.

"Shortly after he went to John Hopkins for an operation. It was after he left the hospital that he appeared to have changed. 'Marriage is not for me,' he said. That was in March, 1933."

Harold McCormick Silent.

Mr. McCormick declined to discuss the suit after the filing of the predicate yesterday afternoon. When he found reporters and photographers waiting in front of the old family home at 675 Rush street, which he occupies, he got out of his limousine and posed for photographs. But to questions he replied:

"I have nothing to say."

"But can you tell us something about the nature of the action?" he was asked.

"No," Mr. McCormick replied. "I really have nothing to say."

His attorney, John P. Wilson, with whom he held a conference as soon as he received word of the court action, also refused any comment.

At her home in Santa Barbara yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Doubleday was asked to sign a column 3.

moved to the few places where it was freely purchased. The low demand reduced its value. The value of gold is determined by world supply and demand, not by location.

Quoting Prof. Warren:

"Beginning in 1925 there were gradual efforts to return to the gold basis. Americans took a leading part in urging and financing this return, not realizing that the return of demand for gold would raise its value and cause a price collapse. France returned to the gold basis June 25, 1928, and the gold panic was soon on. It is still here."

"The effect of any given rise in prices is the same regardless of the cause. If for any reason the price level is restored it does not mean that all prices will rise equally. Many prices have not declined or have declined little. Restoring the price level would relieve them of the necessity of declining. The major ones are debts and taxes. If commodity prices were raised, buying would begin because rising prices cause buying. Jobs would be available. Houses would be in demand. The debts and taxes on the houses and farms could be paid and the debts would not have to be cut by bankruptcy."

"Distribution Little Affected."

"Cost of distribution would rise very little. Therefore, prices paid to farmers and other producers would rise much more than retail prices."

"By reducing the weight of gold in the dollar any desired price level can be established. The future course of prices would depend on the future supply of gold and future demand for gold. Revaluation is a simple emergency measure. It does not make provision for future stability."

ASK MORE INFLATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24. (Special.)—Radical inflationists are at the new monetary policy adopted by the President, but are still not satisfied that it has gone far enough. A meeting today called by Senator Elmer D. Thomas (Dem., Okla.), inflationist spokesman, ended in a break with the radical group calling for immediate inflation of the currency and the more conservative wing maintaining that direct inflation should be held back for possible use in case the rise of commodity prices under the gold purchase plan slows down.

Rosenwald on Committee.

Leaders of the latter group were James H. Rand Jr., chairman of the Committee for the Nation, and Leasing Rosenwald, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and an active member of the committee. Significance was lent to their stand, since the new monetary policy of the administration is almost exactly what the Committee of the Nation has long been advocating. Prof. George F. Warren and Prof. James Harvey Rogers, who prepared the plan for the President, have been close advisers of the committee.

Mr. Rand and Mr. Rosenwald refused to sign a resolution later carried to the President by Robert M. Harrison, New York cotton broker, and former Mayor Hylan of New York, representing the Monetary Reform League. The resolution contained applause for the policy of a managed currency, but to it was added the recommendation that the President "immediately use his power to directly expand the currency sufficiently to restore the price level."

Seeks to Make It Mandatory.

Senator Thomas announced his intention of introducing legislation at the next congress to make inflation mandatory upon the President.

Though unable to agree in the demand for inflation, Mr. Rand welcomed the gold purchase program and the plan for a managed currency.

"From now on," he said, "the United States is going to compete for the world's output of gold. The significance of this lies in the fact that recovery from every serious depression which the United States has experienced has always been signaled by an influx of gold into this country, or else by the discovery of new sources of gold."

"Symmetallism" Predicted.

He predicted the use of silver as a currency base jointly with gold. Importance was lent to his prediction as forecasting, possibly, the administration's plans, because of the close fashion in which President Roosevelt has followed the path recommended by the Committee of the Nation. Moreover, Prof. Warren, who is considered the chief author of the new program, has advocated a joint gold and silver base—or "symmetallism," a dollar being exchangeable for a stated amount of gold plus a stated amount of silver.

"A wide use is bound to be made of silver but not on a free silver basis," Mr. Rand said. "A better idea, in my opinion, would be the issuance of 1 billion to 2 billion dollars of treasury notes backed by one ounce of silver, representing 75 cents, and 25 cents in gold. With silver denied convertibility of such a plan, in addition to its other uses, would have a great safety value, for should silver rise above the minimum price of 75 cents an ounce fixed for it, the government could sell silver bullion and use the proceeds to retire notes outstanding."

COL. MCCORMICK SAYS NRA PERILS CONSTITUTION

Likens It to Government by Star Chamber.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24. (AP)—Col. Robert H. McCormick, publisher of The Chicago Tribune, said here tonight that "one act of congress has purported to wipe out our constitution and our inherited rights."

Addressing the eleventh annual conference of the Western States Taxpayers' association, Col. McCormick described "the present scheme of government control of industry and trade" as a recrudescence of the "medieval English star chamber form of government."

Procedure under the national recovery act runs beyond this ancient procedure," Col. McCormick said.

A Nation of Subjects.

"From a democratic people governing themselves and electing representatives," he said, "we are today little, if any, better than a nation of subjects, dominated and domineered over by an army of officials modeled after Russia, Italy and Germany."

"Whatever one may think of the purpose or practical benefits of the present scheme of government control of industry and trade, there should be no objection to a straightforward definition of it. The scheme will be neither better nor worse for this. It is a reestablishment of the medieval English star chamber form of government."

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN AGAINST GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF BUSINESS

New York, Oct. 24. (Special.)—An educational campaign holding private initiative above federal control of business is being launched by the Heckscher foundation. It was announced today by Ralph Strathmore, director of the foundation's vocational guidance bureau.

The announcement halled the declaration against bureaucracy by Alfred E. Smith in an address at Chicago on Monday, and called on business leaders to "strike back at those who seek to shackle and hinder industry."

"As the result of a survey just completed by the foundation," the announcement said, "we believe the incentive for rising above the mediocre positions in life would be lost, and eventually we would have men and women of a lower order of workers if the plan of the federal authorities to level individuals irrespective of their abilities and natural talent were to be brought about."

"Leaders in industry should not only cling to their individualism, enterprise, and resourcefulness, which have made them what they are, but should actively step up and resist any encroachment or attempted regulation both on behalf of themselves and their children, as a further civic duty."

trator whose edict you have offended in your lives and the law back of the edict says the verdict is final.

"The verdict may mean your complete ruin. Your right to do business may be taken from you. You are fined and sent to jail. Your family may be destroyed. No inviolable principle of the constitution can do anything to save you. You are as helpless as a man who offended the Tudor king and stood before the king's favorites in the star chamber."

"Neither you nor any other citizen of the United States has ever had such a thing happen to him before in his own country, not since 1775, not even under the section act."

"Whatever may be said for the purposes of the recovery act, such are its consequences."

Milk Pool Meeting Today.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24. (AP)—With southern and eastern Wisconsin still completely untouched by the farm strike, its leaders reported they were winning many notable victories "with out a fight" through friendly action by dozens of creameries, cheese factories, and condenseries.

Farmers are awaiting action by directors of the cooperative milk pool, the state branch of the farmers' union and the Northern Michigan Milk Producers' association, which will meet in Appleton tomorrow and probably will last for several days. Walter M. Singler, president of the milk pool, would not forecast what action it or other organizations will take.

12 Creameries to Close.

Bloomer, Wis., Oct. 24. (AP)—Representatives of 12 creameries in Chippewa and Dunn counties decided at a 3 p. m. meeting ending early today to close the plants for five days, starting Friday, in sympathy with the national farm strike.

Picket at Council Bluffs.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 24. (AP)—Pickets were active again tonight on three highways leading into Council Bluffs, but truck traffic was light and few loads were being halted by the farm holiday groups.

The pickets set up camps and prepared to stay for the night, but a chill wind made things uncomfortable for them. Leaders of the pickets said that a conference would be held tomorrow with Council Bluffs labor leaders, at which time the farm forces would seek to enlist the aid of the labor groups.

MILK COMPANIES SIGN PROVISION FOR 1 CENT BOOST

Dairy companies handling about 90 per cent of the milk and cream sold in Chicago and suburbs, belonging to the Milk Council, Inc., voted yesterday to sign the amendment to the Chicago milk code which had previously been signed by the Pure Milk association, farmers' cooperative, and had been approved by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Announcement that the council members would sign the amendment immediately was accompanied by the provision that the signed code would not be handed over to the agricultural adjustment administration in Washington "until the present trade agreement has been enforced" by the federal government.

The amended milk code, if filed with Secretary Wallace, would increase the price of milk from 10 to 11 cents a quart in the metropolitan area from Waukegan to Chicago Heights and from Naperville to Gary, Ind. It also provides that the entire increase in receipts for milk will be passed back to farmers who participate in the Chicago milk market.

Spokesmen for the milk companies pointed out that failure of the government to enforce the price standards and other provisions of the code proved a serious handicap in conducting their business.

MILK DUMPED AT CREAMERY IN WISCONSIN

12 Others Close to Help Farm Strikers.

BULLETIN.

Duplainville, Wis., Oct. 24. (AP)—One hundred and twenty-five dairy farmers, claiming to represent the Waukesha, Milwaukee, and Washington county units of the Wisconsin co-operative milk pool, voted against joining the National Farmers' Holiday association strike "at this time."

Wausau, Wis., Oct. 24. (AP)—About 100 farm strike pickets invaded the Laabs cheese plant at Milan today and dumped 10,000 pounds of milk from vats.

The strikers then entered stores and demanded provisions, but left without further disorders. Attendees at the cheese plant said the pickets apparently came from a distance.

Timber was piled on roads leading to milk bottling plants at Stratford.

U. S. READY TO LAUNCH VAST HOUSING PLAN TO CLEAR CITY SLUMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24. (AP)—Secretary Ickes announced today that incorporation papers for the federal housing administration, now being organized within the public works corporation to construct low-cost housing to eliminate slums, will soon be filed in Delaware. An office will be maintained at Wilmington.

It was reported that the housing corporation would be incorporated for about 200 million dollars. All the necessary money will be transferred from the public works corporation and become a revolving fund to construct additional buildings.

Under the plans nearing completion the housing corporation would exercise the right of eminent domain wherever necessary to acquire land upon which to build apartment buildings. After the buildings had been completed, the corporation would decide whether to rent the buildings as its own agent, or to sell them outright to investors.

Although Mr. Ickes some time ago denied that the decision to enter actively upon construction of the low-cost projects was influenced by the delay in construction by private sponsors who have obtained more than $40,000,000 for "limited dividend" buildings, it was said today there was dissatisfaction with the progress of this work.

The housing corporation, it was said, might take over some of the limited dividend projects that have been approved if it was found that controversies were holding up construction. One city, it was added, is being prevented from erecting a slum clearing program because owners of land have raised the price since the project was approved. The corporation, by exercising the right of eminent domain, could take over the land without risking great delay.

articles and showing that wheat, corn, and oats had declined far more than have the other commodities from their high point of this year.

The delegates came from Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota.

They adopted a resolution calling for the establishment of concentration points where farm products can be sold on a cost of production basis, as often happens, below that level.

With the cry, "This is war, nothing less," the farmers decided without official vote to resort to picketing. Ten counties from northwest Iowa, northeast Nebraska, and southeast South Dakota were represented.

It was decided by a motion that milk would be allowed to go through the picket lines until it was determined what action would be taken at Chicago, Des Moines, and Omaha.

Raises Sheep Prices.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 24. (AP)—The Nebraska farm strike today made its mark on the sheep market here.

United States department of agriculture observers at the South Omaha yards said a fear the strike might tend to curtail receipts tended to keep up competition for killing classes, this resulting in prices generally 25 cents per hundred pounds higher for lambs and sometimes 10 cents higher prices for matured sheep.

Only Criticism Comes from Druggists' Group.

The new retail code under the NRA, which goes into effect next Monday, was heralded here yesterday as the dawn of a new era for the much butted retailing industry. With few exceptions, retailers were declared to favor the code.

Retail druggists, however, who are included in the pact but have not received specific instructions from Washington concerning the provisions for their branch of trade, declared that their business would not be benefited by the general code. It was believed, though, that this note of dissent would disappear when more details are forthcoming of the code's appendix, which applies specifically to drug stores.

Officials of the Better Business Bureau termed the code a boon to retailers

NUDISTS' LEADER IS FOUND GUILTY OF INDECENCIES

Sentence Deferred Pending Appeal.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Allagan, Mich., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Fred Ring, 40 year old leader of the Sun Sports league, a nudist colony which flourished six miles from Allagan before a raid was made on Labor day, was convicted today by a jury in Circuit Judge Fred F. Miles' courtroom of charges of open, indecent, and obscene exposure of his person. Mr. Ring's is about a 115 pound person.

Attorneys for Ring, a former Kalamazoo dancing master, announced they would appeal the case. Judge Miles said he would pass sentence some time within the next three weeks, when Ring's attorneys had made plans for an appeal. They will then have twenty additional days in which to perfect the appeal. The maximum sentence is one year in jail and a $500 fine.

"I expected it when I saw that jury," said Ring later.

Dancing Class Gone, Too.

"We might as well smile about it," said Mrs. Ring, who, unless it is dismissed, faces trial on similar charges. Meanwhile Ring has lost his dancing pupils, and the Ring household in Kalamazoo is none too prosperous.

The jury was out one hour and fifteen minutes. Judge Miles in his instructions to the jury said that Ring was charged with open exposure, indecent exposure, or obscene exposure. Whether it occurred on private property or public made no difference, he said.

"There is no definition of indecency or obscenity in this case," he said; "the delicacy of the subject forbids discussion of it."

"If the jury believed he had exposed himself or caused his wife, daughter, or others to do so, they should convict him," he said.

In his closing argument to the jury, Prosecutor Welborne S. Luna's voice rang through the courtroom again and again with the phrase "nekkid" and "uncovered." He repeated it in low and earnest tones, in shrill and outraged tones. He tossed his arms in the air in what appeared to be a well deliberated frenzy and shouted: "Think of it, gentlemen: nekkid and uncovered in the presence of women and children."

Displays Pictures to Jury.

He cleared his throat and hesitantly asked the jurors if they would take a look at the picture Editor Douglas Alcock of Allagan made, so they might see for themselves how "nekkid" and "uncovered" those followers of Fred Ring were. The picture was passed around. Most of the jurors gave it a glance, however, and hurriedly averted their eyes.

At the conclusion Ring mopped his high forehead with his fringe of gray hair, took off his glasses and wiped them. He was carefully dressed. The only bareness which he revealed was a bare, neat little ankle. His silk socks were rolled down almost to the tops of his oxfords.

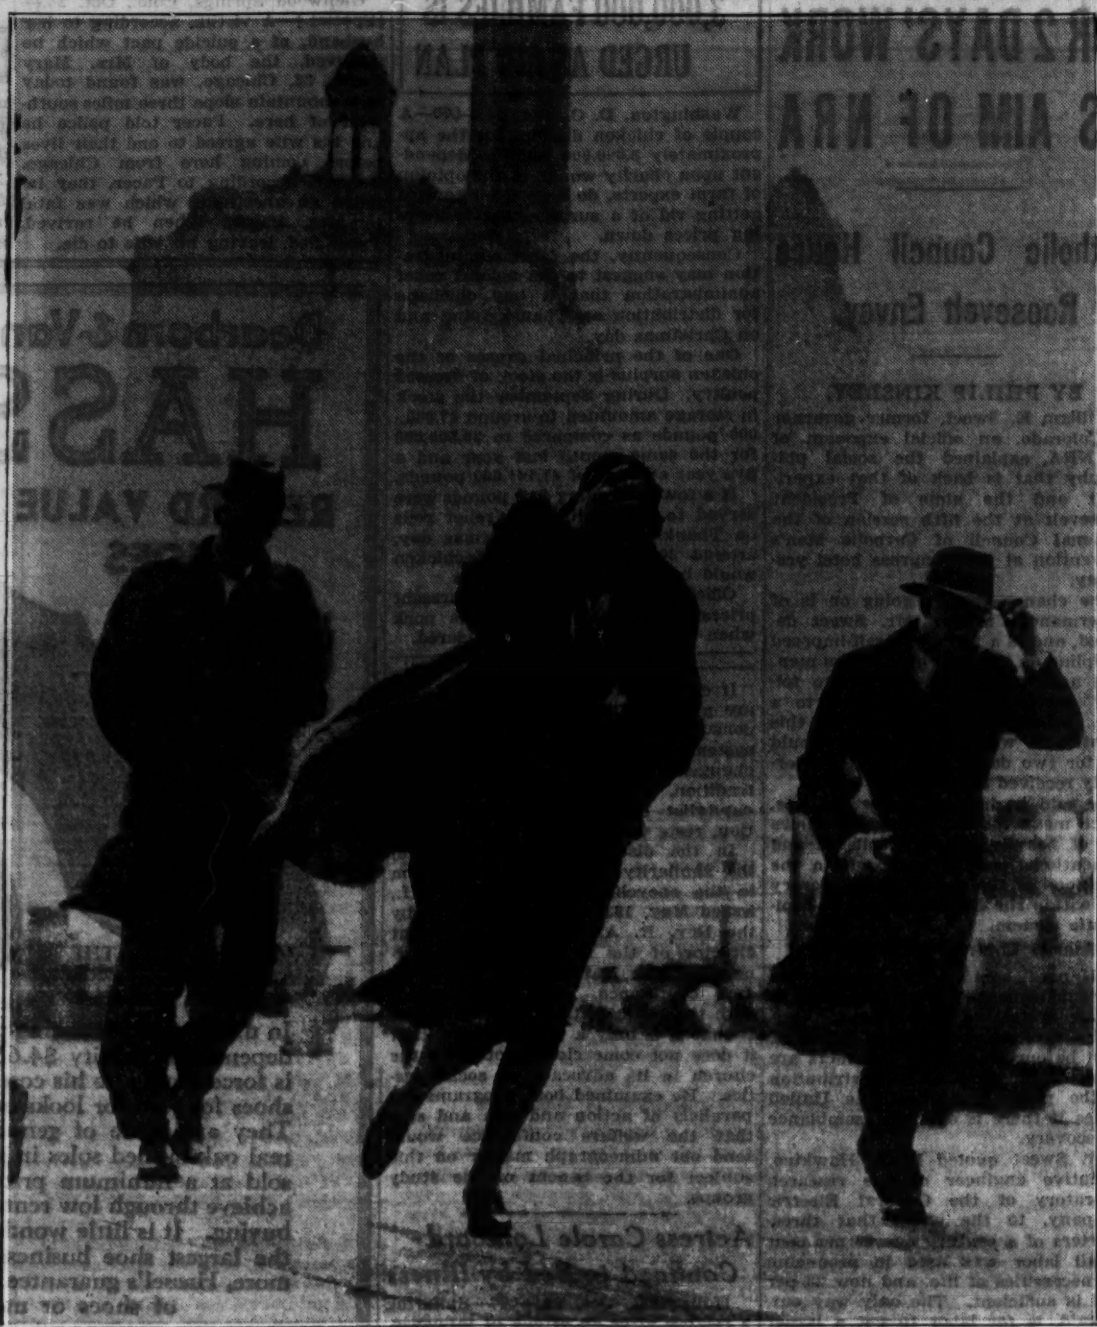

Attorney Hoffman in his opening argument alluded to Mrs. Mary Angier as "a second Carrie Nation" who was willing to help out the six strong officers who made the raid. He pointed to three of them, Prosecutor Luna, Sheriff Fred Miller, and Deputy Sheriff Claude Gibson, seated side by side. Sheriff Miller smiled and showed his two deep dimples in his cheeks.

"Now, if I took a sun bath in the heart of the woods in Allagan county, alone, I wouldn't be indecent, according to the statute, but if Mr. Luna and I went together and took sun baths we'd both be guilty of indecency," said Hoffman. He pointed out that times and changes came in the world, and that it was not practice nudism to any considerable extent in Allagan county, on Swan creek, because of mosquitoes in summer, frost in the fall, and snow in the winter."

No Defense Testimony.

Although Mrs. Ring, dressed in a high necked brown sports dress and brown felt hat, and the elder Ring daughter, Frances, 17 years old, were waiting in court prepared to testify for Ring, Attorney Hoffman decided to rest his case without introducing any testimony at all. He made the decision after Judge Miles ruled against any testimony that might be given by Dr. John R. C. Carter, Detroit diagnostician who was to testify for the defense.

City Swept by Gale; Colder Weather to Follow

Scene on Michigan avenue yesterday near the Tribune Tower as pedestrians were struggling against the wind, which at times attained a velocity of 48 miles per hour. The forecast was for a considerable drop in temperature last night.

12 INCHES OF SNOW AT DULUTH; OCTOBER RECORD FOR 47 YEARS

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 24.—(P)—Duluth was covered with twelve inches of snow today, the first heavy fall of the season. Other sections of the state reported several inches.

The snow failed to hamper lake traffic, but northwest storm warnings were ordered on the upper lakes, with northwest winds reaching gale force on Lake Superior. The fall was the heaviest for October in 47 years.

Colder weather was forecast. Bemidji reported the lowest temperature—22 above.

GALE, THEN A FREEZE HERE?
Chicago was threatened with the first freezing weather of the season in the prediction yesterday of Forecaster C. A. Donnel, who said the temperature would fall to 32 degrees early this morning. The wind yesterday reached gust velocities of 48 miles per hour. Precipitation was predicted for Chicago and suburbs and snow was forecast for upper Michigan and Wisconsin. Snow fell yesterday in Montreal for the first time this season.

Dr. Carter was sworn as a witness and Mr. Hoffman asked him a hypothetical question regarding the benefits of sunlight and air on the unclad human body. An objection was made by Prosecutor Luna and sustained by the court. Dr. Carter appeared disappointed.

Attorney Hoffman asked Judge Miles if there were any need, in that case, of his putting on any of his expert witnesses. Judge Miles, a squarely built, silver haired man with a much ruddier complexion than the undersized and rather pale exponent of nudism who sat before him as a defendant, replied: "He made it clear there was no need at all, unless they could testify as to the benefits of sunlight on Fred Ring's nude body displayed on Swan creek, Allagan county, Sept. 4, before men and women and children."

Attorney Hoffman asked that Mrs. Mary Angier, who spends her winters in Wheaton, Ill., and her summers near Allagan, be recalled to the witness stand. Mrs. Angier, who is 60 years old, had testified as one of the state's star witnesses the day before regarding the Labor day raiding party of which she was a member.

Hoffman read extracts from testimony she had given at the preliminary hearing of the case before Justice of the Peace Faldus E. Fish, as follows:

Q.—You didn't see him [Ring] naked at all, did you? A.—Well, all the men—

Attorney Hoffman—May I have an answer, judge?

Mrs. Angier—All the men were naked when we went up the bank.

Q.—Did you see Ring naked?

Justice Fish—Answer the question.

A.—I didn't look at each individual man.

Attorney Hoffman—You couldn't swear you saw Ring naked, could you? A.—No, I couldn't swear I did.

After reading the passage Attorney Hoffman asked Mrs. Angier if she had so testified. She said that she had, but that she hadn't understood the question.

Attorney Hoffman—Did you say you were a semi-invalid?

Mrs. Angier—Yes, I am.

Attorney Hoffman—But you got up the hill first [in the raid], didn't you?

A.—That requires some explanation.

Q.—But you were first up the hill, weren't you?

Judge Miles—Answer the question.

A.—I was.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The revelation that the ministry of interior has decided to take drastic action against the gambling staffs of two Riviera palaces—the Palais de la Mediterranée at Nice and the casino at Juan-les-Pins—on the grounds that they have been running a crooked game for years was made tonight by Maitre Paul Deudon, Nice lawyer and deputy. The casinos were built by Frank Jay Gould, American millionaire, and were run by others who hold leases.

Deudon said he had been hired by the French union of casino employees to investigate alleged irregularities of the two superdives and that he has enlisted the support of the government in cleaning up Riviera gambling.

Asks Complaints from Suckers.

Deudon said that the minister of interior in a decree dated Oct. 20 has forbidden 34 croupiers and officials of the two casinos from ever engaging in any gambling activities in France again.

Criminal indictments may follow, Deudon said, "if the thousands of foreigners who have been fleeced in recent years in these two establishments have the courage to come forward and file complaints."

No official notice of the alleged ministerial decree has yet appeared and it was impossible to confirm Deudon's statement from official sources. The deputy said, however, that he has a letter from Camille Chautemps, minister of interior in the defunct Daladier cabinet, announcing action against the gamblers.

Gould Not Involved.

Gould is not personally involved in these charges, but former agents of his to whom he turned over the gambling concession last year are hit by the ministerial order, according to Deudon. Gould, who spent about $5,000,000 on the casinos at Nice, could not be reached at his home near Paris tonight, but his lawyer said he had heard nothing of the affair. According to friends, Gould was never concerned with the gambling profits.

The government became seriously interested in the case owing to evidence submitted by Deudon showing that the gambling officials not only have gyped the customers, but in the last four years have diverted more than $1,000,000 from the state's share.

"Despite all efforts to hush up this scandal I am determined to go on with it," Deudon said. "A glaring example of the crudeness with which the croupier gang worked was in their taking 7,000,000 francs [about $250,000 at par] in a half an hour from the British sportsman, Jack Coats. Coats knew he had been swindled and filed a complaint, which was later smothered."

INDEPENDENTS ASSAIL DRAFTS OF MOVIE CODE

A resolution requesting President Roosevelt to investigate the circumstances attending the writing of three drafts of a code for the motion picture industry before affixing his signature to any, was adopted yesterday by 300 representatives of 3,500 independent motion picture theaters who met in the Congress hotel.

The resolution contained the charge that all three of the drafts prepared by Sol A. Rosenblatt, deputy NIRA administrator for amusements, carried provisions which would "sanction and legalize many of the monopolistic practices fostered on the industry to the detriment of the public."

The independent protest centered principally on the monopoly they contend is now enjoyed by big producers and their affiliated agencies in the distribution of pictures on the block system. Under this procedure an exhibitor must buy a block of pictures in order to get the picture he wants. The independents contend that the codes drafted by Rosenblatt were prepared without consideration of their rights. The independents are members of the Allied States Association of Theater Owners, Distributors and Exhibitors.

WANT OUTSIDE BANKS TO BID ON CITY FUNDS

An amendment to the city code which would authorize City Controller Upham to seek bids on city deposits from banks outside Chicago was recommended to the city council for passage yesterday by its finance committee. The amendment would be based on an enabling act adopted by the general assembly recently and approved at a referendum.

Prior to the passage of the enabling act the controller could deposit funds only in Chicago banks. If the amendment is adopted by the council the controller would be able to ask for bids from banks in all cities in the United States, with a population of 100,000 or more. The city now has on deposit approximately $7,000,000, but a few years ago had upwards of $10,000,000. The interest rate is 1/2 of 1 per cent, but the aldermen hope through wider competition to raise the rate.

The committee also authorized the controller to cancel 200,000 bills, some of which have been pending since 1907, which were rendered for inspection and other city services. None of the bills are for over $10, and the total amount involved is about $200,000. The controller advised the aldermen that the bills are uncollectible.

INSULL SUFFERS A STORMY DAY IN ATHENS HEARING

Rebuked by Court.

five chairs. What became of the millions of capital sunk in them? Where are the stocks bought with the people's money?"

Ladas appeared to be cornered and started going through his papers while Rhallys took the floor for a few minutes and sought to explain. Lazaros also pitched in and both the court and spectators listened to the hubbub with amusement.

Judge Digenopoulos was especially ruthless in challenging Ladas' statement of facts. He asked on one occasion, "Why did Insull give $3,000,000 in collateral on a $1,000,000 loan?"

Questions Truth of Figures.

When Ladas went into details and figures on another occasion the court asked, "How are we to know all these figures you quote are true?"

Prosecutor Regan asked: "Were the gifts Insull was making to the Chicago opera taken out of poor people's money?"

Insull's attorney then attacked the grand jury system of American justice, saying it is one-sided. He said the certified accounts and reports of the insolvent of the Insull companies contained garbled figures either because of bad faith or ignorance of the ruling. Judge Christos Stavropoulos rebuked Ladas for not quoting the American bankruptcy law correctly when seeking to elicit in proof of his argument.

Cites Wigmore Disposition.

In subsequent arguments Ladas claimed that the deposition written by Dean Emeritus Wigmore of the Northwestern University Law school, which was submitted Saturday and which Wigmore was hired to write by Floyd E. Thompson, an Insull attorney, showed that Insull was not guilty of fraudulent bankruptcy even in the United States. The court reminded him again that it is not concerned with interpreting American laws.

"If instead of the grand jury findings which we have before us we had the decision of a penal court against Insull, do you suppose we, as a Greek court, would examine it to see if according to American laws a crime had been committed?" asked the presiding judge.

Ladas, sometimes shouting and always illustrating his arguments with gestures, waded on with the defense and was admonished several times by the court not to repeat himself. Finally one judge said:

"We're getting tired of this, but you may continue if you like."

Says Bankers Don't Want Insull.

The general trend of Ladas' arguments for Insull was that he could not have intended fraud since he also lost all of his own money. He also said Insull is not being sought after

MARTIN INSULL FACES EXTRADITION HEARING IN CANADA TOMORROW

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Another fight to extradite Martin J. Insull, brother of Samuel Insull Sr., and wanted for trial in Chicago on charges of embezzlement, will begin Thursday in the Ontario Supreme court.

Martin Insull now lives in Orillia, Ont. He applied unsuccessfully last month for leave to appeal against a judgment of Justice A. C. Kingstone refusing to appoint a commission to examine witnesses in Chicago on questions raised in the extradition application.

In the coming reopening of extradition proceedings, Justice Kingstone will preside.

by his creditors, but only by government prosecutors.

"None of Insull's creditors are against him," Ladas shouted.

"Not the big bank creditors, but all the small stockholders are against him," interposed Prosecutor Regan.

"The stockholders are not creditors, they are associates," returned Ladas.

Presents Another Novel Point.

One point made by Ladas as to why Insull should not be extradited was that it is profitable to the telephone and cable companies to have him here.

A million and a half dollars worth of cablegrams have been sent out of Greece about Insull, he asserted.

He ended with an emotional appeal for Insull, picturing him as a tragic old man, a wreck of his former power.

Insull's attorney then attacked the grand jury system of American justice, saying it is one-sided. He said the certified accounts and reports of the insolvent of the Insull companies contained garbled figures either because of bad faith or ignorance of the ruling.

Judge Christos Stavropoulos rebuked Ladas for not quoting the American bankruptcy law correctly when seeking to elicit in proof of his argument.

DIVORCEE SUES H. F. MCCORMICK FOR $1,500,000

Charged in Action.

terday, Mrs. Doubleday refused to discuss the suit, referring an inquirer to Attorney Uterhart in New York. Mrs. Doubleday said she had just left a hospital, but would not reveal the nature of her illness.

The practice was filed by attorney William B. Gennell of the law firm of Orin, Drucker, Bishop & Boutwell, New York City.

Attorney Gennell and other partners in the firm said that they had merely acted as correspondents for Attorney Uterhart, and were not familiar with details of the case.

Under the rules of the Circuit court, the practice which is merely formal notice of intention to ask damages, must be supplemented by a declaration by Nov. 9.

Given Divorce in Paris.

Mrs. Doubleday, who was Rhoda Van Bibber Tanner, was married in 1915 in an elaborate ceremony in New York to Felix Doubleday, member of the wealthy New York publishing family.

She divorced him in Paris in 1925, a few days before his second marriage to Elizabeth Heymann, a beautiful Viennese blonde.

Felix Doubleday is the adopted son of Frank N. Doubleday, the publisher. In a divorce settlement he agreed to pay Mrs. Doubleday a fifth of his income, with a minimum of $3,000 a year.

Last year in New York Mrs. Doubleday obtained a judgment for $3,314 against her former husband for defaults in his payments.

In making the award the court found that Doubleday had maintained the cost of a life of luxury, self-indulgence and extravagance in New York, Paris, and London, while ignoring the claims of his former wife.

Previously Mrs. Doubleday had obtained a judgment for $6,200 against him in a London court.

Their Engagement Reported.

Mrs. Doubleday's friendship with Mr. McCormick first attracted attention in August, 1932, at which time reports of their intended marriage were published.

Mr. McCormick was quoted as saying at that time: "I have known Mrs. Doubleday for years. She is the most charming woman I have ever known. I will not affirm or deny any reports. Ask Mrs. Doubleday."

To this suggestion Mrs. Doubleday replied: "All rumors are absurd. Mr. McCormick and I have been friends for years."

Last November, the month during which Mrs. Doubleday's lawyer now says Mr. McCormick proposed marriage to her, Mr. McCormick met her train when she passed through Chicago on her way home from a visit in California.

At that time she denied that she intended to marry him. As an heir to the great fortune of his father, the first Cyrus H. McCormick, founder of the harvester business, Mr. McCormick has always occupied an important position in the business and social life of Chicago.

He became vice president of the Harvester company in 1922; president, succeeding his elder brother, Cyrus Jr., in 1928, and in 1932 became chairman of the executive committee of the International Harvester company, a position which he still holds.

His first marriage, uniting two of the greatest financial families of America, was to Edith Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

They were married for 26 years, during which they were leaders of Chicago society, living in their castle home at Lake Shore drive and Oak street. They were for years the principal supporters of the opera in Chicago and gave liberally to various philanthropic and educational causes.

The death of one of their children, John Rockefeller McCormick, as a result of scarlet fever, caused them to endow the McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases, where in recent years Drs. George F. and Clyde Dick of the University of Chicago developed an anti-toxin for scarlet fever.

In 1921 Mrs. McCormick obtained a quiet divorce here on grounds of desertion. She and her former husband became reconciled in later years, and he visited her several times last fall as she lay dying in the Drake hotel.

A year after his divorce Mr. McCormick married Ganna Walska, the opera singer. That marriage, too, ended in a divorce, which Mr. McCormick obtained in Chicago on charges of desertion. Mrs. Walska refused to make her home in Chicago, preferring to remain in Paris, Mr. McCormick testified.

EDITH MCCORMICK'S FAMED VILLA TURICUM IS SOLD FOR $51,624

Villa Turicum, the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick at 701 South Sheridan road, Lake Forest, was sold at a sheriff's sale yesterday at Waukegan for $51,624 to the American National Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

The estate was valued at $2,000,000 in a petition filed recently in the Circuit court of Cook county by Edwin Krenn, friend and companion of Mrs. McCormick. He sought to prevent the sale, charging that it would damage his rights to five-twelfths of the McCormick estate under Mrs. McCormick's will. The petition was denied on Sept. 29, by Judge George Fred Rugh.

The property sold yesterday included the 52 room residence, the caretaker's house, and 208 acres of the estate. The remaining 60 acres was not included because it was previously encumbered.

The bank obtained a judgment on a $50,000 note signed by Mrs. McCormick in 1932, with interest and court costs, in Cook county. A transcript of the judgment was sent to Lake county and a levy placed on the Villa Turicum property.

SEES 6 DAYS' PAY FOR 2 DAYS' WORK AS AIM OF NRA

Catholic Council Hears Roosevelt Envoy.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

William E. Sweet, former governor of Colorado, an official exponent of the NRA, explained the social philosophy that is back of that experiment and the aims of President Roosevelt at the fifth session of the National Council of Catholic Men's convention at the Congress hotel yesterday.

The change that is going on is of a permanent nature, Mr. Sweet declared, and is a form of a self-imposed discipline on the part of business men. This and "other experiments to follow," he predicted, would lead to a new distribution of profits in this country, in which a workman would get for two days' work what he formerly received for six days' work.

He said he believed these changes, which mean the end of great fortunes and of heavily endowed colleges and foundations, can be made within the traditions of the American democracy and within the framework of the capitalist system.

Aim Is Controlled Capitalism.

"If not," said ex-Gov. Sweet, "we may find some sort of a radical change in our system of government. Controlled capitalism, not state socialism, must be our objective. The facts are clear: There must be a redistribution of the profit system of the United States if there is ever any semblance of recovery."

Mr. Sweet quoted L. A. Hawkins, executive engineer of the research laboratory of the General Electric company, to the effect that three-quarters of a century ago 80 per cent of all labor was used in producing the necessities of life, and now 33 per cent is sufficient. The only way out, he said, is for labor to get a larger share in the profits of the machine.

Compels Planned Economy.

"From now on the witchword is mass consumption," said Mr. Sweet.

CHICKEN DINNERS FOR 3,000,000 FAMILIES IS URGED AS AID PLAN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A couple of chicken dinners for the approximately 3,000,000 families dependent upon charity would, in the opinion of farm experts, do a good bit toward getting rid of a surplus that is keeping prices down.

Consequently, the farm administration may suggest to the federal relief administration that it buy chickens for distribution on Thanksgiving and on Christmas day.

One of the principal causes of the chicken surplus is the stock of dressed poultry. During September the stock in storage amounted to around 47,000,000 pounds as compared to 30,600,000 for the same month last year and a five year average of 41,141,000 pounds.

If a fowl averaging five pounds were served to the families on relief rolls on Thanksgiving and Christmas day, around 30,000,000 pounds of chicken would be taken off the market.

Officials said chicken at present prices was about as cheap as pork when nutritive value is considered.

"It compels a planned economy. We are going to balance production and consumption under the Democratic system of government. Whether these changes come under the Democratic tradition, within the framework of the capitalist system and the constitution, rests with us."

In the discussion which followed, the similarity of the NRA program to the encyclical of Pope Pius XI, issued May, 1931, was pointed out by the Rev. R. A. McGowan, assistant director of the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare conference. The only trouble with the NRA, Father McGowan said, is that it is only a partial effort, that it does not come close enough to the church in its advocacy of social justice. He examined both programs for parallels of action and aim and said that the welfare conference would send out mimeograph matter on this subject for the benefit of the study groups.

Dies in Suicide Pact, but Husband Survives Attempt

Glenwood Springs, Colo., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—A victim, according to her husband, of a suicide pact which he survived, the body of Mrs. Mary Pacer, 32, Chicago, was found today on a mountain slope three miles southwest of here. Pacer told police he and his wife agreed to end their lives before coming here from Chicago. Sunday, according to Pacer, they inhaled an anesthetic which was fatal to Mrs. Pacer. When he revived, Pacer fled, leaving his wife to die.

Film Actress Asks Divorce, but in "a Friendly Spirit"

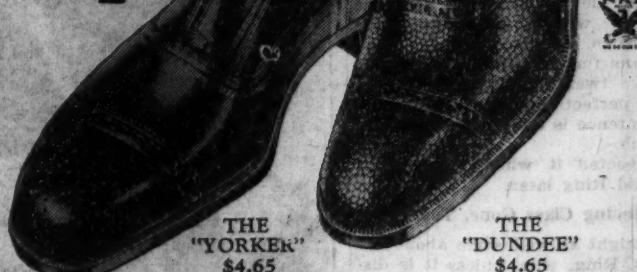

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Careers which kept them 3,000 miles apart were blamed for the divorce action which Barbara Barondess, movie actress, has on file here against Irving Jacobs, New York American distributor of foreign motion pictures. Miss Barondess claims her husband failed to provide. She asks no alimony, saying "my divorce is filed in a friendly spirit."

SPIKE O'DONNELL TELLS COPELAND HIS CRIME CURES

Hoodlum and Senator in Tete-a-Tete.

A two day investigation by the United States senate subcommittee on racketeering and kidnapping ended yesterday with a report by Senator Royal S. Copeland (Dem., N. Y.), the chairman, that valuable information had been gathered in Chicago for the federal drive against those crimes.

The most informative witness of the session was United States Attorney Dwight Green, the chairman said. His suggestions for broadening the interstate commerce act to enable federal prosecution of racketeers will be of great help to the subcommittee in its recommendations to congress for the passage of laws designed to curb crime, Senator Copeland declared.

Copeland Meets "Spike" O'Donnell. After the hearing had ended there occurred an incident which climaxed the committee's stay here. There was presented the unusual spectacle of Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, the south side hoodlum, and Senator Copeland discussing ways and means for fighting crime in a highly informal tete-a-tete held in a corridor of the Palmer house outside the committee room.

Senator Copeland had wished to permit O'Donnell to testify at the hearings but Senator Louis Murphy (Dem., Ill.), another member of the subcommittee, objected.

The cigar chewing O'Donnell was indignant when word was brought to him that he could not tell the senators how to stop racketeering. He paced up and down the corridor while he dispatched his attorney, Jay J. McCarthy, into the hearing room to argue with Senator Murphy. But the latter was firm in his refusal to agree to the appearance of O'Donnell.

Gangster Waits for Copeland.

When the hearing was terminated, the gangster was waiting for Senator Copeland. The senator was introduced to O'Donnell and the two faced each other while a crowd pressed around them to view the spectacle and strain their ears in order not to miss a precious word. The following colloquy ensued:

SENATOR COPELAND—I wanted you on the stand to ask you one question: How to keep the youth of the country from becoming criminals?

O'DONNELL—And I could have told you plenty.

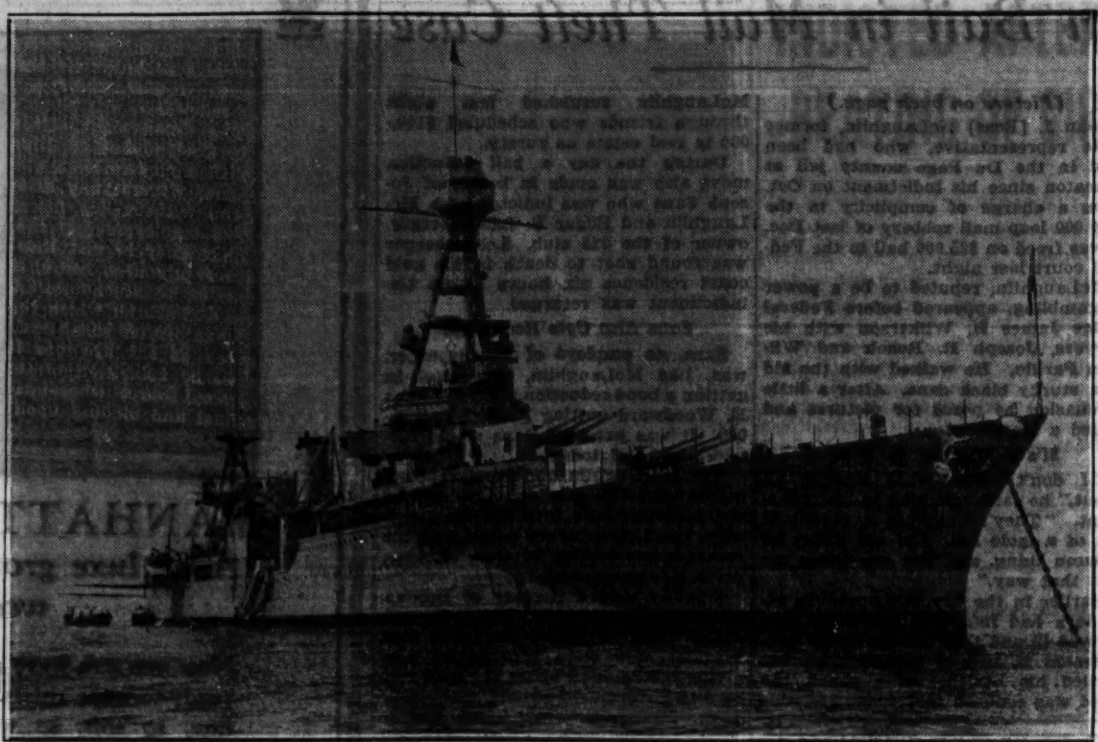

SENATOR COPELAND—As a doctor and former health commissioner of New York, I know that healthy babies become healthy adults.

O'DONNELL—Well, then babyhood is the toughest, sometimes.

SENATOR COPELAND—Yes, I should have liked to have heard your testimony.

O'DONNELL—Listen, I'm going to tell you something. I could tell you plenty without puttin' the dukes on nobody. A judge in there yesterday said I offered to bump off a couple of guys for $30,000. Look me over. Look me over from top to bottom. I'm on the level. Now, the Lord laid down the law of self-preservation—

SENATOR COPELAND—I don't think it was the Lord.

O'DONNELL—Well, maybe Moses did it. Maybe some smart racket guy wrote the book for all I know. But it's a good law, ain't it? When they try to rub me out, I can't shoot cream puffs back at 'em, can I?

SENATOR COPELAND [weakly]—I guess not.

O'DONNELL—Now, about this crime business. All you need is honest cops and a little cooperation from the courts. I want to say something about Tom Courtney. I'm not saying it because he likes me. He tried to iron me out a few weeks ago. But he's done more to wipe out rackets in a few months than any other state's attorney. And I know.

SENATOR COPELAND—What was more of this and then the motion picture cameramen dragged O'Donnell away to orate for the strikers. He termed kidnapping "the lowest form of racket" and spoke of the respect and honor he feels for his family.

SENATOR COPELAND—What did you waste time on that fellow for? He asked Senator Copeland. "I wouldn't throw away thirty seconds of my time on Spike O'Donnell."

Copeland to catch a 3 o'clock train for New York included John "Jake the Barber" Factor, Steve Sumner, militant head of the Milk Drivers' union; Mayor Kelly, Chief Justice Stoneby of the Municipal court, and former U. S. Attorney George E. Q. Johnson.

Testimony of Johnson.

Former District Attorney Johnson, who sent Al Capone to prison for income tax fraud, was the first to testify. He declared that local police have not been trained sufficiently to enable them to cope with organized crime. Federal investigators show a much greater degree of success in such cases, because even when the testimony of the agents support their case with documentary evidence, he said.

Mr. Johnson recommended that the government give financial aid to social welfare organizations which are struggling to correct conditions of environment in areas which are "the breeding ground of criminals."

Stoneby on Stand.

Chief Justice John J. Stoneby of the Municipal court next took the stand. Prefacing his remarks with the announcement that felons had been decreasing since 1927 in the Chicago area, he recommended abolition of the coroner's office as one improvement. "The coroner's office is obsolete in a large city where the grand jury and courts are in session most of the time," he said.

The chief justice suggested that the appellate court be empowered to correct trial errors rather than remand a case for a new trial and that the higher court adjust the punishment in accordance.

Mayor Kelly joined several other officials in his approval of a national registration and identification system. He said he favors national control of firearms and a central bureau of permits in this matter. Senator Copeland remarked that nearly half of the suspects in the showup line at the detective bureau were on parole or had been pardoned for some crime. The mayor said that "the crying mother and neighbors are bound to have their effect on humans" in awarding of lenience to those who have been convicted for the first time.

Sumner Assails Gangs.

Sumner repeated the oft-told story of how gangsters tried to "muscle" into the milk drivers' union, formed thirty years ago and known as a reputable organization. Sumner said he had fortified union headquarters and defied the gangs. He was applauded for his vigorously expressed opinion of hoodlums.

"Gangsters are the loudest, most cowardly skunks on the face of the earth," he declared, shaking his gray head emphatically.

"If they want fight, we'll give it to them. Still people will shiver when you talk about Murray Humphries, Capone, or 'Three Finger Jack' White. That's the whole trouble—the frame of mind of the people."

He was so unimpressed of whose toes he stepped on when he spoke of the higher courts which have been criticized by many witnesses for their reversal of criminal convictions.

Assails High Court "Birds."

After recounting the difficulty with which a conviction was obtained in the trial courts, Sumner fumed: "I say birds" because that's the kind of fellows they are—let the gangsters go. Ed Shurtleff (Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff) at Woodstock turns the fellow "Fur" Sammons out and now God knows where he is—the worst kind of a murderer."

A writ of habeas corpus signed by Judge Shurtleff freed Sammons from the penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence for murder.

"I'm going to kick and holler against these fellows as long as I'm able to do it, and that might be 50 or 60 years more," Sumner said.

Factor for Federal Intervention.

"Jake the Barber" Factor, who is accused of swindling British investors in a $7,000,000 stock deal, and whose extradition to England has been sought for more than a year, appeared eager to impress upon the committee his conviction that only federal intervention can halt kidnapping.

"The kidnapers aren't afraid of the city police," Factor said. "As far as kidnapping is concerned there is only one way to curb it—get the government into it."

Factor reportedly paid more than $100,000 for the release of himself, and previously, of his son, Jerome, 15 years old. He spoke nervously, in a low voice, as three newswatch camera operators focused their machines on him.

"This was my personal experience," Factor explained. "Which chain negotiations were going on, I found this out."

"I asked them to send a letter to my wife. They wouldn't do it. They were afraid to have anything to do with the mail because they know the federal government never lets up."

Tells of Torture Tactics.

In answer to questions of Senator Murphy, Factor described how he was terrorized while a captive of the kidnapers. Sometimes they struck him when they believed he was not telling the truth and they often threatened torture, once bringing out a blow torch and threatening to burn his feet.

KEENAN NAMED U. S. PROSECUTOR IN CRIME CASES

Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant attorney general, was notified yesterday in Chicago that he had been appointed by President Roosevelt as assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division. The appointment places Attorney Keenan in direct charge of all criminal cases prosecuted by the government.

Mr. Keenan has been attending the sessions here of the Senate committee investigating racketeering. The promotion was seen as a reward for his work in the prosecution of the kidnapers of Charles Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma oil man, and Mary McElroy, daughter of the city manager of Kansas City.

HARRIS TO GET HEARING MONDAY IN THREAT CASE

Edmund R. Harris, Baltimore architect, who was arrested Monday in Los Angeles on a charge of sending an extortion letter to Mrs. Mary Cave Hall of Chicago, will be given a hearing in Los Angeles next Monday, according to dispatches from that city. The government is seeking his removal here.

Unable to provide $5,000 bond, Harris was held in jail on the west coast. He denied to reporters that he had written a letter demanding $5,000 from Mrs. Hall. The indictment charged that he threatened to reveal alleged discrediting information about Mrs. Hall to Mrs. Howard L. Willett, wife of a teaming company executive, who sued Mrs. Hall for $10,000 damages for alienation of affections.

Richman Means Value

The word value is the most abused word in the English language. It means different things to different people. Here, at Richman Brothers, it means not price alone, but fine fabrics, expert tailoring, handsome styles, a large selection and absolutely perfect fit... all at one low price.

To convince you of this, we don't make a lot of big claims and absurd price comparisons. We give you credit for having common sense by telling you the plain and honest truth. We make our own clothes in our own tailor shops and sell them in our own stores, direct from factory to you, without middleman's profit.

We also buy and sell for cash and pass the savings along to you in two ways: (1)... better quality; (2)... lower price.

Please remember that we've been making clothes for 54 years and ought to know how... so if you want a really fine suit, topcoat or overcoat... one that will feel right, look right, fit right and wear right, come in and try on our new fall and winter models.

TWO CONVICTED MURDERERS LOSE NEW TRIAL PLEAS

One Must Serve 199 Yrs. in Penitentiary.

Kenneth Rucker, 29 years old, was denied a new trial yesterday and sentenced by Judge Benjamin P. Epstein to serve 199 years in the penitentiary for the murder of Leonard Smith, colored garage attendant. Motion for a new trial in behalf of a codefendant, Russell McAtee, 42 years old, also was rejected and he was sentenced to 60 years in the penitentiary.

Both Rucker and McAtee were convicted and their punishment fixed by a jury in Judge Epstein's court last Thursday. Evidence showed that Rucker, accompanied by McAtee, shot Smith to death during the robbery of a garage at 5013 North Kedzie avenue last March 5.

Rucker's sentence was the sixth 199 year penalty imposed since the opening of the crime war. The sentence was invented by jurors to combat the possibility of early parole. A murderer may be paroled after serving 20 years of a life sentence, but must serve 66 2-3 years under the sentence of 199 years.

Argue Over Confession.

Most of the day's hearing yesterday in the trial of three gunmen for the murder of Harry Mueller, cashier of the First National bank of Niles Center, was taken up with argument as to the admissibility of the confession of Frank Keglitz, one of the defendants.

The other defendants on trial in the court of Judge William V. Brothers are John Scheck, now under sentence of death for the courtroom murder of Policeman John G. Sevik, and Carl Grundhoefer. Defense Attorney James M. Burke held that the confession of Keglitz had been obtained by police brutality and should not be admitted into evidence. Keglitz testified outside the presence of the jury that he had been beaten by four policemen before he confessed to his part in the bank robbery.

Rules Jury Must Decide.

Assistant State's Attorney Emmott Moynihan and Policeman John T. Kelly told the judge that the confession had been voluntary. After hearing this testimony Judge Brothers ruled that the question involved was one of fact for the jurors to decide. The jury was recalled and began hearing the evidence introduced during their absence.

Attorney Burke, representing Keglitz, and Attorney Emmett Byrne, representing Scheck, after practically admitting the guilt of their client in questioning jurors, have objected strenuously on every technicality that has arisen during the hearing. Both attorneys had admitted their clients were present during the fatal bank robbery, but have pointed out that neither fired a shot. The state has charged that Grundhoefer is the actual killer of Mueller.

The sentencing of Rucker and McAtee and four other sentences yesterday brought to 473 the number of criminals sentenced since the opening of the crime war.

BINGA CONVICTED JUNE 2, BUT CASE IS STILL PENDING

Granted More than 40 Continuances.

Jesse Binga, 68 years old, south side Negro banker who was found guilty of embezzling $33,500 from the Binga State bank, now defunct, has not been sentenced or allowed a new trial although a jury decided his guilt last June 2. The long list of continuances in the Binga case were discovered yesterday as the clerk of the Criminal court was preparing a summary of old cases which have not been settled.

Binga has been under indictment for more than 30 months and his case has been continued more than 40 times, according to the records. He was tried once under the administration of John A. Swanson as state's attorney and the jury disagreed. He was convicted under the administration of State's Attorney Courtney and his motion for a new trial has been continued six times.

Faces 1 to 10 Years in Prison.

Binga was indicted April 4, 1931, on a series of charges of embezzlement and conspiracy. He was convicted on an embezzlement charge and faces a sentence of 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary if his new trial motion, now pending before Judge James F. Farley, is overruled.

The evidence at the trial showed that Binga, as president of his bank, had taken funds from the bank and its customers, the money of the customers having been entrusted to him to purchase stock in a proposed national bank. Binga took the stand during his trial and made a general denial of the charges, but the jury convicted him.

The court record of one indictment, which has practically the same entries as for the entire group of charges, follows:

PAIR ARE INDICTED BY JURY ON CHARGE OF $50,000 EMBEZZLEMENT

James H. Stone of the Homestead hotel, Evanston, for many years a prominent figure in the shoe industry, and Mrs. Elizabeth C. Burnett, 2101 North Sayre avenue, were indicted yesterday on charges of embezzling some $50,000 from the National Shoe Retailers' association, with headquarters at 8 South Michigan avenue. Stone was manager of the association offices for five years and Mrs. Burnett was cashier and bookkeeper for seven years.

The defendants were released in bonds of $10,000 each after the indictment was returned by the grand jury before Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

It is alleged the money was taken over a period of five years and in a novel manner involving the use of a fake rubber stamp bearing the name of former Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder on bogus postage receipts, according to the indictment.

Stone and Mrs. Burnett, it is charged, drew checks to cash, ostensibly for the purchase of postage stamps, and then raised them, making a $100 check out of one for $1, for instance. Using fake blanks, they then made out fake postage receipts so that the purchase of the company's books could not detect the peculations. It is alleged.

The rubber stamp with Postmaster Lueder's name is said to have been a combined name in a true bill charging stamps reading "R. McArthur," "C. Lueder," and "Postmaster."

Mrs. Burnett waived immunity and went before the grand jury to tell the whole story of the embezzlement. She is reported to have testified that she first caught Stone raising the checks and later assisted him in the transactions under his orders.

Stone and Mrs. Burnett were also reported named in a true bill charging forgery, which has not been returned.

order of court to March 27.

March 27—Continued by order of court to April 4.

April 4—Arguments heard on motion to quash and continued to April 5.

April 5—Further arguments heard and continued to April 28.

April 28—Motion to quash indictment overruled and case continued to May 15.

May 15—Held on court call.

May 17—Jury trial demanded and case held on court call.

May 18—Case went to trial.

June 9—Jury found Binga guilty; a motion for a new trial was made and continued to June 23.

June 23—Motion for new trial continued to July 14.

July 14—Motion continued to Sept. 13.

Sept. 13—Motion continued to Sept. 29.

Sept. 29—Motion continued to Oct. 30.

Oct. 30—Motion continued to Nov. 4.

All continuances in the case before December, 1932, were during the administration of the former state's attorney. Binga has been represented in the Criminal court by Attorney John Cashin Jr.

U. S. Court Gets Appeal

in Malone Contempt Case

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday took under advisement the appeal of Attorney Henry L. Blim from a sentence of three months in jail imposed by Federal Judge John P. Barnes for contempt of court. Blim was charged with making false and evasive statements to the grand jury investigating alleged income tax evasions by William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission. Attorneys John Elliott Byrne and Edward J. Hese argued that Blim had given the grand jury all the information at his disposal. Assistant Attorney General Leslie E. Salter defended the sentence. Blim is at liberty on a $5,000 bond.

Boss McLaughlin Is Released on Bail in Mail Theft Case

John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, former state representative, who had been held in the Du Page county jail at Wheaton since his indictment on Oct. 6 on a charge of complicity in the $250,000 loop mail robbery of last Dec. 6, was freed on $25,000 bail in the Federal court last night.

McLaughlin, reputed to be a power in gambling, appeared before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson with his lawyers, Joseph R. Roach and William Farillo. He walked with the aid of a sturdy black cane. After a little persuasion he posed for pictures and issued a statement.

It's a Mystery to Him.

"I don't know what this is all about," he said, referring to his indictment. "They're making a mountain out of a mole hill. I'm not guilty of a damn thing, and you can quote me just that way."

Earlier in the day McLaughlin's attorneys had informed the court that he was ill and that his continued confinement in lieu of $50,000 bond was perilous to his health. As a result the bond was reduced to $25,000, and this

McLaughlin furnished last night through friends who scheduled $100,000 in real estate as surety.

During the day a bail reduction move also was made in behalf of Joseph Sans who was indicted with McLaughlin and Edgar B. Lebensberger, owner of the 235 club. Lebensberger was found shot to death in his gold coast residence six hours before the indictment was returned.

Sans Also Gets Reduction.

Sans, an employee of Lebensberger, was, like McLaughlin, successful in getting a bond reduction. Judge Charles E. Woodward cutting his bail to $25,000. It was expected Sans would furnish the bond today.

The McLaughlin and Sans developments were the only new incidents of the investigations into the mail robbery, the Lebensberger death, and the recent assassination of Gus Winkler, north side gang chief.

Winkler was a partner of Lebensberger in the 235 club. Police investigators have expressed the belief that Winkler was slain because he was giving information about the mail robbers to government agents.

LINK WINKLER'S NAME TO SLAIN TAVERN OWNER

Calumet City police were puzzled yesterday over the motive for the murder of John Polinski, better known as Plyn, 27 years old, Calumet City tavern owner and reputed alcohol dealer. Plyn was ambushed and shot to death on Monday night as he left his home at 904 Westwood avenue, Calumet City, in response to a telephone call from Andrew Daniels, bartender in Plyn's beer tavern at 101 East 155th street.

The name of Gus Winkler, slain gang leader, was injected into the inquest, which was continued until Nov. 2. Assistant State's Attorney John Long said that he had received an anonymous telephone call in which the caller said that Plyn had once been a partner of Winkler's brother-in-law.

Neither the name of the Winkler brother-in-law nor the identity of the caller was disclosed, and Plyn's widow denied that her husband had had dealings with any one in the Winkler family. Mrs. Plyn testified that she had heard shots after her husband left their home and ran out to find him dead near his automobile. Other witnesses said they had seen the killer's car speeding away.

The police learned that the call from the bartender had been a request for Plyn to go to the tavern to arrange for an orchestra. Miss Angeline Kaminski, sister of Mrs. Plyn, testified that three gunmen had stopped her two weeks ago as she was riding in Plyn's car. They fled, she said, after looking in the car. She did not recognize them.

OXYGEN IS FOUND SOURCE OF MOST OF SUN'S CORONA

Harvard Astronomers Make Announcement.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Solution of a major mystery of astronomy, the source of the sun's corona, the brilliant halo of white light which surrounds the sun during total eclipses, was announced tonight by Harvard astronomical observatory.

The light comes from oxygen, and not, as astronomers once widely believed, from some chemical element unknown on earth.

The announcement attributes most of the pearly light to oxygen in the sun's atmosphere. It states that the other sources of the light may be expected soon to be identified.

The corona is the most magnificent spectacle of total eclipses. Its rays stream outward sometimes for ten million miles, or one-ninth of the distance from sun to earth. In shape the corona is sometimes rounded like the petals of a flower, at others somewhat bow-tie shaped.

This bow-tie corona extends away from both sides of the sun's equator as if it were tied on the solar mid-section.

The Harvard announcement does not state the source of energy which excites the glow in the oxygen, but says that this light comes from atoms very highly excited—that is, thrown into states of high energy vibration by whatever is affecting them.

Work of Menzel and Boyce.

The Harvard announcement is signed by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the observatory, and says that "Identification of the element responsible for the major part of the sun's peculiar coronal radiation will be given in an announcement distributed tomorrow."

Dr. D. H. Menzel of Harvard observatory and Dr. J. C. Boyce of Massachusetts Institute of Technology are given chief credit for the work, and an additional statement explains:

"Menzel and Boyce have made the first important step in the unravelling of a mystery which has existed since the first observations of the spectrum of the sun's corona more than 60 years ago.

"The radiations from the sun's corona have been attributed to a hypothetical element, coronium, much as the light of gaseous nebulae was long attributed to the hypothetical nebulium. A few years ago the nebulium mystery was solved by finding that highly ionized oxygen and nitrogen were largely responsible for the radiation.

Assigned to Oxygen.

"Also in recent years the mysterious light of the Aurora has been assigned to oxygen. The present analysis identifies three of the five strongest coronal lines with neutral oxygen atoms in the high solar atmosphere. These atoms are in peculiar states of excitation.

"It is probable that after this important start the other coronal lines will soon be interpreted. Work on the solution of coronal radiation has been greatly assisted through the recent discovery at Mount Wilson that the new star, Nova Ophiuchi, also shows coronal lines at one stage in its explosive outburst."

Star Expands.

Nova Ophiuchi is a star whose light takes many thousands of years to reach the earth. A few months ago it suddenly jumped from a very low magnitude to a brightness many hundred times stronger, showing that for some unknown reason thousands of years ago it either exploded or started to expand at explosive speed.

INDIANA GLAD OF FEDERAL AID IN BANDIT WAR

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Indiana authorities, agitated over a series of depredations attributed to the gang of convicts that escaped Sept. 26 from the Michigan City state prison, today welcomed an offer of aid from the federal government in rounding up those felons.

Capt. Matt Leach of the state police this afternoon conferred with agents of the department of justice bureau of investigation. They offered their assistance.

That offer, directed from Washington, came as an aftermath of two bank robberies, one at Greencastle yesterday in which approximately $75,000 in currency and bonds was stolen, another today at South Bend, where the robbers obtained $1,500 in cash and $1,000 worth of bonds.

State police said the men who participated in the Greencastle holdup had been definitely identified as members of the Dillinger-Pierpont gang, headed by Harry Pierpont, one of the escaped convicts, and John Dillinger, alleged bank robber who was released from the Lima, O., jail recently by three men who shot and killed Sheriff Jesse Barber.

William Schaeffer, living near New Haven in the northeastern portion of the state, reported yesterday that he was held up and robbed near his home by two men, one of whom resembled Joseph Burns, a member of the band that broke prison.

A. J. D. BIDDLE 3D TO GET A NEW NAME ON NOV. 29

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 24.—(Special).—Anthony Joseph Drexel Biddle III, aged 12 and one of a distinguished family, came to the county courthouse here last week and won from Judge John Coyle the right to change his name to Nicholas.

"Nicholas Benjamin Duke Biddle" will be the whole of it—the "Nicholas" because his friends and playmates call him, "Nick" or "Nicky" and the "Benjamin Duke" in memory of his maternal grandfather.

Only today did his petition become public. The order takes effect Nov. 29.

MILLIONAIRE IS INDICTED AFTER BEATING OF GIRL

New York, Oct. 24.—(Special).—An attempt to have a 25 year old girl indicted for extortion brought a perjury indictment today against Robert Barbour, millionaire thread manufacturer and brother of U. S. Senator W. Warren Barbour of New Jersey.

The indictment was returned by the Manhattan grand jury after the six foot six, 325 pound mill owner had testified against Rita Martini, a pretty brunette stenographer, and her attorney, Fred D. Kaplan.

Barbour, who has a home in Great Neck, is being sued for $100,000 by Miss Martini for injuries she says he inflicted with whips and other instruments in an apartment in September, 1932.

Once Sued by Artist's Model.

It was the second similar charge against the 46 year old manufacturer. In 1928 Miss May B. Rollins, an artist's model, sued him for $500,000 on a complaint that he had lured her into an apartment, bound her eyes with adhesive tape and beaten her with whips.

This suit was dropped several months later after Barbour had sailed, secretly for Europe.

Barbour and his attorney, Frank P. Walsh, complained to District Attorney Crane last August that Miss Martini and her lawyer had attempted to extort $100,000 from him.

Pictures of Bruises.

After 27 witnesses had testified, the grand jury dismissed Barbour's charge. One of the statements on which the indictment was based was the manufacturer's claim that he had never paid Miss Martini more than $100.

The grand jury also took exception to his testimony that neither he nor the girl had ever been undressed in each other's presence.

Miss Martini, who exhibited photographs of her welts and bruises, testified before the grand jury today and then went into hiding.

O. D. RICHARDSON, FURNITURE MAN'S HEIR, KILLS SELF

Ora D. Richardson, 61 years old, son of the founder of the firm of O. W. Richardson & Co., furniture dealers at 125 South Wabash avenue, was found dead last night in his room at 6021 Dorchester avenue. There was a bullet wound in the head and a pistol beside the body.

In the room were two letters, one addressed to L. S. Tiffany, president of the furniture company, and the other to J. H. McCabe, 6960 Oglesby avenue, an official of the traffic department of the Santa Fe railroad.

Both were rambling and somewhat incoherent. The one to Mr. Tiffany, who is an uncle of Richardson, gave directions for burial. That to Mr. McCabe contained complaints of financial stringency and ill treatment by other acquaintances.

Mr. Tiffany said that Richardson had inherited a considerable fortune from his father and had spent much of his time in travel. He had not been connected with the furniture company for many years. Mr. McCabe reported that Richardson had visited him Monday and seemed despondent over his affairs. Richardson had lived in the rooming house on Dorchester avenue since Aug. 23.

CONVENTION TOLD NRA WILL FORCE PROFIT SHARING

Under the NRA profits must be shared with employees or employers will be penalized by public opinion, members of the Advertising Typographers' association were told yesterday by their president, E. M. Diamant, at a convention session at the Palmer house.

"The time has passed when business owners can take 80 per cent of the profits for themselves," he declared. "Employees must now be given a greater share, and rightly so, for they play a great part in making any business a success."

MACHADO FAILS ECHOES IN CUBAN LOAN EVIDENCE

Chase National Officials
Tell of Deals.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Payment by Cuba of interest on bonds held by Americans with money loaned by the Chase National bank was brought to the attention of the senate banking committee today. The committee looked also into loans to former President Machado.

Sensors were told by A. M. Williams of the counsel for the Chase National bank the financiers would go to the American state department for help, if necessary, in preventing defaults or to get aid in collection.

Clashes with Senator.
Williams' statement followed a sharp controversy between A. K. Geiger, a Chase National vice president, and Senator Couzens (Rep., Mich.), who stated that the state department could participate in efforts of private bankers to collect obligations.

A memorandum Geiger sent the bank in October, 1931, said "how much longer Machado can hold office is problematical."

The memorandum said the Cuban leader might go out any day, although the army seemed with him at that time.

The bank's course, Geiger recommended, should be "based on the hypothesis that we must deal with the Cuban situation solely as bankers without receiving effective aid from Washington."

In a clash with Couzens, Geiger indicated it was not meant that marines should be landed to collect the debt.

Tells of Repayments.
From Shephard Morgan, another Chase vice president, the committee's counsel, Ferdinand Pecora, developed that interest on $20,000,000 in Cuban bonds had been paid in part from money loaned by Chase to Cuba. Morgan said all the principal but $867,000 had been repaid, too.

The money involved in the day's hearing was part of an aggregate of $80,000,000 in loans and bank credits extended to the Machado government by the Chase bank and affiliates for public works development, including the central highway across Cuba.

Alfred E. Mudge of Chase counsel testified earlier in the day he had conferred with state department officials on the loan and that they studied it in the light of application of the Platt amendment. Mudge said he had made a personal study of the Platt amendment and conferred with Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder, who had suggested in 1926 that a proposed loan of $100,000,000 would be in violation of it.

Cash for Cuban Papers.
Into the records went a letter, written in 1928, from the Chase files showing $2,000 was paid to Cuban newspapers "for the numerous favorable articles which they published with regard to the loan."

The papers included La Prensa, El Pais, Diario de la Marina, El Mundo, El Comercio, Excelsior, Herald of Cuba, the Havana Morning Post, Mercurio, and Herald-Commercial.

Geiger said the Chase bank disapproved of that practice in 1931.

Evidence was presented that Machado used nine million dollars out of a twelve million dollar trust fund in 1931.

A letter from the bank's files said that matter was "worrying the president and our own state department."

A witness said the Cuban congress had given Machado authority.

Loans for Others.
Loans also were made to Dr. Carlos de Cespedes, in charge of public works in a Machado cabinet, and to former President Moncal, who, a witness said, still owes $125,000, with interest since 1927. The Cespedes loans of $275,750, Geiger said, were repaid with interest.

Another bank letter was read that reported former President Machado's son-in-law was "perfectly useless in a business way" as an employee of the Chase National bank's Havana branch.

BUSINESS PARALYZED AS SHOP OWNERS GO ON 'POLITICAL STRIKE'

HAVANA, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Commerce in Havana was paralyzed tonight as one store after another joined in the "political strike" inaugurated last midnight by opponents of the government.

Police and soldiers, instructed by the government to use "diplomatic" methods to persuade merchants to keep their establishments open, were having little success.

All important department stores were closed but food stores were making an effort to do business. A half dozen individual strikes, such as those of bakers and truck drivers, added to the strength of the oppositionists, and a number of other trade unions were ready to join sympathy strikes.

Reliable sources said the railroad strike in Matanzas was becoming more serious and that a general strike had been called for noon tomorrow provided the railroad strike has not been settled.

HAWAII IS BROKE; LOAN TO MEET PAY ROLL REFUSED

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 24.—(AP)—With the treasury empty and unable to meet October obligations, including the pay rolls of 1,500 employees, territorial finances reached a definite impasse today when the Bank of Hawaii and the Bishop First National bank refused a request of Gov. Lawrence M. Judd for a loan of about $1,200,000 for October expenses.

Gov. Judd said he had a plan in mind which would not require tax increases before the end of the year. He said he expected to call a special session of the legislature soon.

POLICE ABSOLVE SUSPECT IN LINDY BABY KIDNAPING

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Lieut. James Finn, former bodyguard to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, is convinced that John Gorch, held by Boston police, is in no way connected with the kidnapping and slaying of the Lindbergh baby, a high official of the New York police department said tonight.

The official said he had received this information from Finn, who was sent to interrogate Gorch, in a telephone conversation, and that Finn will return to New York immediately.

Despite Finn's belief, the police department, which has 20 detectives constantly working on the case, will continue its efforts to obtain a Supreme court order permitting an examination of the contents of a safe deposit box Gorch maintains in a New York bank.

START HOME SOON.

GALWAY, Irish Free State, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were anxious to continue their journey tonight because Mrs. Lindbergh is "terribly anxious to see my baby."

They planned to leave early tomorrow morning for Aberdeen, Scotland, if weather permits and, although their subsequent plans were veiled in the usual secrecy, it was thought probable they would soon end their long journey and start for home.

Autograph hunters besieged Lindbergh in vain today as he prepared their plane for a resumption of the flight. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh spent the day sightseeing along the wild and rocky coast.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Guadalajara students went on strike today, demanding the resignation of the university rector there, Diaz Gonzales. After parading, the students went to the university building and ousted the rector by force.

FAMOUS PAINTING FOUND; MISSING FOR CENTURIES

ROME, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The discovery of a famous painting, by Giorgione, showing the meeting of Jesus and Ananias at Averno, the gateway to hell, as described in Virgil's epic, the Aeneid, was announced tonight.

A noted art critic, Giorgio San-giorgi, identified the work, which was believed lost for centuries, among the paintings of the old Venetian noble family of Donna Della Rose. The paintings were shortly to be sold to pay creditors.

Offers totaling 8 million lire (currently $500,000) already have been received by the estate from Italians, but it was believed the government itself will buy the painting, as it did another by Giorgione discovered last year. It paid 4 million lire ($280,000) for that.

The newly discovered work shows Jesus sitting on a rock exhausted while the blind Ananias, his father, touches him in trying to recognize him.

JAPANESE ENVOY TO BERLIN MAY GET POST IN U. S.

TOKIO, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Conversations with high Japanese officials indicated through a process of elimination of other mentioned today that Matsuo Nagai, ambassador to Berlin, is the most likely candidate to succeed Katsuji De Buchi as ambassador at Washington.

The vernacular newspapers were quick to nominate a number of prominent Japanese for the post after it was announced that De Buchi had been instructed to return to Tokio.

Meantime, an official spokesman emphatically denied that the recall had any connection with the prospect of American recognition of Soviet Russia or any other recent developments. He said it was due mainly to De Buchi's desire to return to Japan.

Wife of Justice Roberts Injured in Car Collision

Phoenixville, Pa., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, wife of the U. S. Supreme court justice, was bruised in a three car collision near Valley Forge today. Mrs. Roberts continued her journey from her country home, three miles west of Phoenixville, to Philadelphia in another car.

Vote to Repeal Dry Law in Iceland by Almost 2 to 1

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Oct. 24.—(AP)—For repeal, 19,137; against, 8,421. That's how the count stood today as slow returns from outlying districts in Saturday's vote on constitutional prohibition in Iceland gave a steadily mounting majority to repeal.

The Columbian Exposition opened May 11; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The Fair grounds were almost deserted last night as a result of the high wind and low temperature. Although exhibits and concessions suffered from the lack of patronage only slight damage was done by the wind. The Sky Ride rocket cars were stopped early in the evening, but visitors were permitted to go to the tops of the towers.

The Wings of a Century pageant suspended operation after a 4 p. m. performance. Canvas covers were blown off the wagons, and heavy waves washed up over the dock, tossing bricks and rocks on the stage. The boats at the dock were tightly lashed and suffered little damage. Also closed was the Thrill house on the island.

The most severe damage was suffered at the General Cigar White Owl exhibit at 23d street and the Midway, where a large plate glass window was blown in.

Only 19 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair

The night life spots, including Old Mexico, the Oriental village, Old Heidelberg, and Blue Ribbon Casino, were open with small crowds in attendance. At 11:30 p. m. the official attendance for the day was 803,083.

Police day will be observed tomorrow, with the Lincoln park, south park, west park, and city forces joining with the county highway police in a parade at the Fair grounds, after which they will give a program in the Court of Honor. Eight hundred policemen will assemble for the ceremony.

AL SMITH LEAVES

The Smiths—Al and Katie—waved good-bye to Chicago at 9 o'clock last evening from the observation car of the Gotham Limited of the Pennsylvania lines in Union station. A dozen friends including George F. Getz, Chicago capitalist, and Charles C. Morris, who once was police commissioner here, saw them off at the end of their four day visit to the Fair.

Earlier in the day the former governor made a farewell visit to the Exposition grounds, going directly to the New York exhibit in the Court of States. There Mr. Smith asked to see one of the hostesses, a daughter of an old friend. Finding she was absent, he left a message of greeting for her and then in the company of Mr. Getz began a tour of the Field museum and the Shedd aquarium which lasted three hours.

Mr. Smith was accompanied by two guides and a guard of four detectives. He was conducted through the Field museum halls by Stephen C. Simms, director. Mr. Smith was deeply interested in the cases which depicted wild life in his native state.

As the tour began Director Simms noticed that Mr. Smith carried in his hand a cigar, a characteristic as familiar to the public as his brown campaign derby. Shaking his head the director said: "Mr. Smith, that is one of the things we are strict about. There is no smoking allowed here."

"Hell," replied the governor, "that's not been lighted for three hours."

Attendees in the aquarium, at the direction of W. H. Chute, the manager, demonstrated for the visitor how tame the fish have become. While Mr. Smith chuckled with delight, one of the men thrust his hands into a tank in which swam a blue turtle weighing 160 pounds and an eight foot shark weighing 260 pounds. Both swam to the surface and allowed their heads to be scratched and their backs patted.

"Just like a couple of big dogs," grinned the former governor.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The Illinois and Michigan university bands will appear at the Fair this week-end. The Michigan organization will play Saturday night from 8 to 9 o'clock in the Court of States and from 2 to 4 p. m. in the Court of Science on Sunday. The Illinois band will play in the Court of States from 2 to 3 p. m. Sunday and in the Court of Science from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m.

Slim Williams, the Alaskan who drove his team of huskies 4,600 miles to the Fair, is spending all his spare time in the natural woods part of the Wisconsin state exhibit, expressing himself as bored with the city skyscrapers.

When President Roosevelt wrote to the Fair officials regarding the reopening next year he expressed his sorrow that he had been unable to see all the buildings. Today at 11 a. m. T. E. Donnelly, head of the printing firm, will present President Dawes of the Fair with one of the new large Fair albums, containing photographs of all the exhibits, which

Mr. Dawes will inscribe and send to the President.

All group picture records have been broken at the Fair, according to C. D. Kaufmann, president of Kaufmann & Fabry, official photographers. More than fifty such photographs, ranging from six to 1,800 persons each, have been made during the summer at the exposition.

Anita Libman Lebeson will speak on "Jewish Heroes of the Wilderness" at the Illinois Host house tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Following her talk Mrs. Ignace Reis will discuss "The Club Woman in Relation to the Public Press."

Amalia Villafranca and Victoria Gallegos, two Costa Rican beauties employed at the Costa Rican exhibit in the Agricultural building at the Fair, were adopted by the state of Florida yesterday to give a demonstration in coffee picking. The coffee plants are in the Florida gardens and the girls, besides picking the kernels, cooked them and presented samples to Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair.

1,000 BARRELS OF FREE BEER AT FAIR ON NOV. 8

Plans to give away 1,000 barrels of 3.2 per cent beer and 200,000 sandwiches at A Century of Progress Exposition on Nov. 8, which has been designated "Personal Responsibility day," were announced yesterday. The announcement was made by Fair officials after Mayor Kelly had given a pledge that he and his friends would see that the free food and beer were furnished. A city council committee headed by Ald. John Coughlin will assist in getting the supplies together. Presumably the committee will persuade breweries to donate at least a part of the necessary brew for the advertising they will get out of it. Ald. Coughlin is still in favor of terminating the day "Personal Liberty day," a term which was abandoned when the W. C. T. U. protested to the Fair officials. The celebration is to be staged in the expectation that national prohibition will be given its death blow on Nov. 7, when six states vote on ratification of repeal.

HOTEL OWNER ROBBED.
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Two youths tonight held up and robbed Frank Seimak, proprietor of the Grove hotel, 618 South 5th street, of $25.

R. C. DAWES WARNS AGAINST A PLAN FOR TESTIMONIAL

Business men and civic leaders were warned yesterday by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, against contributing to any testimonial either to himself or to other officials of the Fair. "I have not approved of any such program, nor will I approve of it," he said. "Not only do we refuse to sanction this plan which has been brought to our attention but we urgently request that it be abandoned. Any business man who contributes to such a fund is doing so as the result of misinformation."

Mr. Dawes' statement was made after he learned that such a scheme had come to the attention of the Better Business bureau. Business men were approached with a plan to prepare a testimonial to Mr. Dawes; each was solicited for a $12.50 contribution. Mr. Dawes said the entire proceeding is "very objectionable."

YOUTHS HELD AS ROBBERS.
Frank Jager, 21 years old, 2041 West 23d street, and Albert Wiloski, 23 years old, 2099 West Cermak road, were held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Lambert K. Hayes of the Boys' court on charges of robbery. Bonds were fixed at $2,500 each.

SHAM BATTLE TO BE FOUGHT AT FAIR ON NAVY DAY

Sailors and Marines Will Exhibit Their Wares.

Plans for the celebration Friday of Navy day, which in Chicago will center at the World's Fair and in the public schools, were announced yesterday by Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluvelius, commander of the Ninth naval district, and Capt. Frank H. Roberts, official representative of the navy at the Fair.

The high point of the celebration at the Fair will be a sham battle in which several hundred naval and marine corps reservists will participate. This will be preceded by a luncheon in the trustees' lounge at the Fair, at which Rear Admiral Cluvelius will be host to 400 guests.

Governor to Attend.

Guests of honor and speakers will include Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Rufus C. Dawes, George F. Getz, Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, acting commander of the Sixth Corps area, and Abel Davis. The luncheon will be followed by a concert on the floating theater at 2 o'clock, for which Rear Admiral Cluvelius expects to obtain the navy band stationed at Washington, D. C.

The sham battle is scheduled to start at 2:45 o'clock. It is being arranged by Lieutenant Commander J. J. Garrick of the Illinois naval reserves and Capt. M. H. Silverthorne of the marine corps. In the battle the federal building at the Fair, defended by numerous machine gun nests, will be the objective of the attacking sailors and marines.

The attacking force of bluejackets will take off from the floating theater, which for the moment will represent a battleship, in naval launches armed with machine guns and one pounders, in an effort to oust the force entrenched at the federal building.

Brazil Doubles Duties on French Goods as Reprisal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 24.—In reprisal for a French act against Brazilian exports to France, President Getulio Vargas today signed a decree doubling duties on French imports to Brazil and also on French products imported through other countries. The decree will automatically be revoked when the French act is repealed.

HOTELS OFFER TO BUY $237,000 OF '34 FAIR TICKETS

Hotels to buy $237,000 worth of 1934 World's Fair tickets in advance if it is decided to continue the Fair were made at a secret meeting of 125 hotel men with a representative of the controller's office of A Century of Progress at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Not all hotels in the city were represented, and it was reported that more subscriptions might be made at a later date. Similar meetings are planned with representatives of other business groups, it was said.

HITLER BRANDS PEACE TREATY AN "ATROCITY"

Leave Us Alone! Is His Request to World.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler appealed to Germany today to give him a blanket endorsement of his policy—to win equality for Germany abroad and domestic peace at home—at the Nov. 12 plebiscite and reichstag election.

He raked up the "bitterness and injustice" of the Versailles treaty in a dramatic speech. In almost the same breath he attacked foreign correspondents in Germany, denouncing them to the tune of roaring boos from the thousands packing the sports palace.

Dense crowds assembled throughout the capital to hear the address, which was amplified through loudspeakers.

Ex-Crown Prince Cheered

In the audience at the sports palace was former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm. He was clad in the uniform of the old imperial army. He bowed repeatedly to acknowledge the cheers of the frenzied throng.

Hitler reaffirmed Germany's desire for peace, declaring:

"We want peace with England, France, Poland and the entire world."

Describing his country as being persecuted by other nations, he said:

"The foreign press speaks of atrocities committed in our revolution."

He shouted, "What are the fifty victims of our revolution compared to the 20,000 who committed suicide because of Versailles? The only atrocities in Germany have been committed in the name of the Versailles treaty. During our revolution things were more orderly than in many countries without a revolution. Where was there ever a revolution so free of atrocities as ours?"

"Look at the Irish capital! Look at the atrocities of the French revolution! England said she would stretch out her hands to our Jews. Her gesture would be finer if she did not make the acceptance of Jews dependent on about 1,000 pounds."

"We don't want the emigrés back. We don't ask their extradition. We tell their hosts to keep that scum, the longer the better."

Cheers Greet Hitler's Words

Hitler, always the orator, was at his best and almost every sentence of his 95 minute appeal was received with shouts of approval. When he attacked the Versailles treaty and reparations, the rafters fairly shook.

"The only nations which can continue to live in the long run are those which are willing to sacrifice lives for honor. Germany entered the world war against her will and ended the fight honorably, relying on the promises of Woodrow Wilson."

"It was a question of being or not being, and the treaty of Versailles showed how necessary it was for us to defend our very existence. None of us imagined that a lost war would cause us no deprivation because we were not guilty. The victor, however, cannot claim the moral right to forever brand the vanquished as the inferior."

"The Versailles treaty cannot be grasped by a man's common sense. To me, certainly it is incomprehensible. Instead of bringing happiness, the Versailles peace plunged the world into the deepest misery of hatred and despair."

Assailing reparations, Hitler continued: "They were imposed without providing the conditions of meeting them."

The chancellor then said that the

PRUSSIA TELLS SCHOOLS TO TEACH STUDENTS ON EVILS OF DRINK

[Copyright, 1933, By the New York Times]
BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Instruction on the danger of indulging in alcoholic beverages was made obligatory throughout the educational system of Prussia from elementary schools to universities by a decree issued today by Nazi Minister Bernhard Rust.

In substance the Prussia decree seems only to follow much belatedly in the wake of measures taken in the United States long ago. In form, however, there is a notable distinction.

Rust directs the anti-alcohol instruction "must be disentangled from the intellectual viewpoint" and be founded on the need of "morally regenerating the nation."

German schoolboys are thus to be taught temperance not on the ground that alcohol is injurious to the health, but that it tarnishes the "shining armor" spiritually and bodily in the new German is to confront the outer world.

Popular enthusiasm for athletics in post-war Germany turned thousands of young Germans, male and female, from strong drinks long before the Nazi conquest.

strong armies of other nations in Europe were kept up to perpetuate the Versailles treaty and because of mutual distrust.

"It is understandable that France prefers 2,000 cannons to 1,000 and 5,000 to 2,000," he said. But there is a limit. On whom are they to fire? On our storm troopers' salvation army? It is the same to us whether we are killed by 5,000 or 10,000 cannon."

He added sarcastically:

"But, it is no honor for the nations now to assail a defenseless country. What have we done to them? Why cannot they leave us alone?"

The chancellor received thunderous applause when, referring to future treaties, he said:

"I would rather die than sign anything unbearable for Germany. If the people of Germany cannot support me, then let them execute me. I have never begged for votes before, but at this time I implore you to turn out 100 per cent strong on Nov. 12 not for myself, but for the sake of honor, equality, and peace."

Saar Split Over Nazism

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Pledges of loyalty to Chancellor Hitler of Germany on the one hand and denunciations of Nazism by the Socialists and the communists on the other today featured the session of the Saar parliament.

The legislative body was meeting for the first time since the fusion of the bourgeois parties into the so-called German front.

(The Saar territory, formerly German, was given to France by the treaty of Versailles for the exploitation of the coal fields in return for property destroyed during the world war. A plebiscite will be held in 1935 to determine whether the territory shall return to Germany, be annexed to France, or remain semi-autonomous.)

Deputy Lavacher declared that the purpose of the German front was to unite all German sympathizers in the Saar valley into one movement for a return to the fatherland.

"The German population of the Saar valley stands with the leader of all the Germans, Adolf Hitler, on the standpoint of honor and equality," said the deputy.

Permit Nazis to Take Ads of Foreign Firms in Reich

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—(AP)—A semi-official notice made public in the daily newspapers and trade papers today said there is no official objection to accepting advertisements from foreign firms domiciled in Germany, but that their products cannot be advertised as "German goods."

The government's dictum was occasioned by the refusal of Nazi papers to take advertisements from foreign firms.

AUSTRIAN TROOPS GUARD AGAINST PUTSCH BY NAZIS

Border Garrisons Told to Be on the Alert.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 24.—New bursts of Nazi activities all over Austria today prompted the Dollfuss dictatorship to look to its power.

Frontier garrisons as well as those at inland towns like Graz, Linz, and Innsbruck, which are strongly Nazi, were given orders to take special precautions in the next few days against surprises from within or without.

Nazi rumor factories have been working overtime just to keep nerves on edge and promise anything from a brown shirt putch in Austria to a brown shirt invasion from Bavaria.

However, in four Austrian towns today the Hitlerites gave more tangible evidence of their presence in spite of the ban on their party organization.

Raise Nazi Flags

At Amstetten, an important railway center, and at Feldbach, near Graz, Nazi flags were raised over public buildings in the night. The Nazi swastika emblem was painted on residences of all public officials. At St. Veit-an-der-Glan, the pro-Fascist Heimwehr headquarters were bombed, presumably by Nazis. Handbills urging a general strike were circulated in Graz.

To add to the uncertainties of the situation, Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, leader of the Heimwehr, and vice leader of the Chancellor Dollfuss' Patriotic Front, has been uttering threats as to what will happen if Dollfuss does not overcome his inhibitions and disregard pressure from France and Czechoslovakia and smash the Socialists in order to proceed at once with plans held in suspense thus far for Austrian Fascism.

"The choice for Austria lies only between Austrian Fascism and German Fascism," said the vehement young prince, whom legitimist leaders today charged with plotting to become

GERMANY ARRESTS BRITISH WRITER ON ESPIONAGE CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 24.—Nol D. Panter, correspondent for the London Daily Telegraph, was arrested here today in connection with his report on the Kehlheim demonstration last Sunday. The celebration was held on the anniversary of the defeat of Napoleon in the battle of Leipzig in 1813.

Panter, who is a British subject, was not allowed to telephone the British consulate before his arrest because he was charged with espionage.

In his article Panter intimated that the Kehlheim demonstration was strongly militaristic, with storm troopers goose-stepping in front of Chancellor Hitler and Nazi leaders holding a secret meeting by candle light in the 15th century town hall of Regensburg.

The Briton alleged that the storm troopers marched past Capt. Ernst Roehm, chief of staff of the storm troops, with rifles at slope and fixed bayonets. British authorities are interfering in his behalf.

the ruling policy of Austria under Premier Mussolini's wing.

This statement was interpreted as a none too veiled threat that if Dollfuss could not see his way clear to smash political parties and create a guild state he would make a stab at it himself or go over to Chancellor Hitler.

He is known to have been carrying on negotiations for buying the hatchet between the Heimwehr Fascists and the Nazis to pave the way for ousting Dollfuss.

German Press Banned

But in a recent speech at Salzburg he qualified the German Nazi leaders as morphinists and pervers. Negotiations lagged after this. They are understood to have been renewed.

Dollfuss tonight announced a ban on all the German press, or what practically amounts to a ban. The official Nazi newspapers have long since been barred, but the government viewpoint is now that the German press is all official.

"Now," a prominent Nazi said tonight, "all communication between Germany and Austria is broken off except for the almost nightly broadcasts sent for the almost nightly broadcasts."

BINGHAM PRAISES BRITAIN IN HANDS ACROSS SEA TALK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Oct. 24.—Appearing as the chief functionary at the opening of Lopes hall at the University College of the Southwest at Exeter today, Ambassador Robert W. Bingham dwelt on his own English background in a traditional hands across the sea speech laden with the declaration that the world depends upon Anglo-American cooperation.

"Although I hope I do not quite look it," Bingham said, "I may say I have been American for more than 300 years, for my first ancestor on my mother's side went from Devon to America in 1630 and on my father's side my Bingham ancestor went from Dorset to Ireland in 1860 in the service of his great queen, Elizabeth, and from Ireland one of his descendants went to America."

Bingham lauded Sir Henry Lopes, chairman of the Devon county council, for whom the hall was named, and he praised the exchange of students between the university college and American colleges.

Jangled nerves can make married life miserable

In so many cases it's not the big, important things that make married life unhappy. It's the little sharp words... the bickering... the nagging... the jangled nerves.

And the dangerous thing is that we frequently don't even realize that our nerves are upset until it is too late.

The more alive you are, the more high-strung, the more carefully you must watch yourself.

Get your full amount of sleep every night. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation. And smoke Camels... for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

HAILS 14 BILLIONS BRITISH SAVINGS AS SECURITY KEY

Runciman Sees Guarantee Against Bolshevism.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Oct. 24.—British savings amounting to more than 14 billion dollars were hailed today by Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, as the bulwark of democracy, a proud, national achievement unequalled anywhere else in the world and a foremost demonstration that distribution of wealth has already been accomplished. The figure, Runciman said, is a conservative estimate of national savings of every kind.

"Who can say that any country like ours, where some 14,000,000 or 15,000,000 people—that is also an estimate, and a conservative one—hold among them at least 14 billion, 166 million dollars, is not a very stable industrial and financial concern?" he said. "No country in the world, not even France, can show such a record as you have been able to show with the national savings movement."

Says Wealth Is Well Spread.
"We are the envy of most of the other countries in the world in that our wealth is so well spread. I have heard it said that one of the reasons why we in this country are so stable in times when other countries and governments are tottering and falling is the national spirit. There is something more than national spirit in these figures. There is an organized and systematic abstention from waste."

"There is an accumulation of savings piled up from small beginnings until now there is this great buffer between the democracy of this country and abject poverty. The best of all replies to political movements which have attacked Europe from the east and which in other circumstances might have spread to the west is to be found in the possessions of these people spread out in every class."

"I do not say what political view they may express at the polls, but I am sure they would not tolerate for a week a government which did not respect the possession of their savings."

SUIT TO UNCOVER STANLEY KUNZ ASSETS DROPPED

Municipal Judge N. J. Bonelli yesterday dismissed a suit to discover assets against Stanley Kunz, former congressman, brought by John Hertz, capitalist and sportsman, who is seeking to collect a $1,500 judgment which he obtained against Kunz for a race horse sold from the Hertz stables several years ago. Kunz and his wife testified that they had no assets to meet the judgment. A charge of perjury made against Kunz by Attorney Morris Sider, lawyer for the plaintiff, was also dismissed. Sider charged yesterday that Kunz perjured himself by denying that he received any cash for a $1,500 check which he sent to Francis L. Tener, but Tener testified later that the check was given in payment of an old debt.

"Back in 6 Weeks"

Mrs. Leslie Foster Benson of Lake Forest, former wife of Condé Nast, publisher, and present wife of Maj. Rex Benson, London banker, left Chicago for Reno, Nev., in a United Air Lines plane last night. She is the daughter of the Volney Fosters of Lake Forest.

Mrs. Benson to the Chicago airport. As she stepped into the plane she was reported to have said: "Good-bye, I'll be back in six weeks." Whether this meant she is planning to establish a residence in Reno could not be learned.

Mrs. Benson became the wife of Maj. Benson on Nov. 28, 1932, shortly after her divorce from Mr. Nast, whom she had married at Alton, Ill., in 1928. Maj. Benson, a distinguished world war veteran, is head of the London banking house of Robert Benson company.

SEIZE SUSPECT HERE FOR $200,000 MAIL ROBBERY

George W. ("Red") Kerr was arrested yesterday by postal inspectors in a near north side hotel on the charge that he was implicated in a $200,000 mail robbery in Sacramento, Cal., last February.

Kerr, who is said to have a police record, is expected to be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker for a removal hearing. United States Attorney H. H. McPike of San Francisco previously had announced that the robbery was planned in Chicago by the Touhy gang.

McPike named as the active participants Kerr, "Gloomy Gus" Shaffer, and William Barry, Shaffer and Roger Touhy are under indictment on charges of kidnaping William Hamm Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer.

CHURCHILL URGES A STRONG FISTED RULE OVER INDIA

Testifies Before British Investigating Group.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Oct. 24.—Indian constitutional reform as conceived by the diehard imperialists was revealed in full today in testimony delivered by Winston Churchill, leader of the group, before a joint select committee assigned to outline India's future political needs and development.

The Churchillites advocate a strong arm over the brown millions who have clamored actively in the last three years for dominion status. The government's intentions, based on the round table conferences, are fairly well known. Its plans provide for federation with a central government binding the British Indian provinces and the princely states into a centralized administration.

Oppose Federal Government.
Churchill revealed that he and his associates agree that some kind of concession must be made to the Indians, but are dead set against a federal government, no matter how strong the safeguards are or how many fingers the British government has crossed. There are so many it was agreed, when the preliminary round table conference conclusions were announced, that India would still be a long way from self-rule.

Churchill's recommendations embraced four main points. He wants powers delegated only to provincial units and these, revocable by parliament.

ment a prolonged test period during which the capabilities of Indian administrators would be given a thorough test; governors of provinces to be appointed by King George on the recommendation of the British government, and these to have several assistants with the same authority who could assume control of the police and judiciary, and close inspection of the Indian executives.

These provisions should first be tested in individual provinces before being applied to the whole of India, Churchill declared.

"First the sticks and then the figs," he said. "First the sticks and then the figs. If nearly all of a greater part of them succeed, then after a broad interval in which the fact is proved, joining of the units to gether in a federation might well be a matter of agreement."

"Indeed, if Indian statesmen and politicians could present to the world the spectacle of a number of great countries competently, efficiently, and loyally administered, the binding together of these units, if they desired it in a federal form, could never be restricted in British public opinion. But the proof must be facts, not words."

YOU HUSBANDS who leave your homes early and get home late—do you appreciate the work your wife does for you and the children?

First, the children go off to school—then the housework begins—marketing must be attended to and all sorts of details must be handled to get ready for your return in the early evening.

Have you husbands ever thought of the hard work and actual labor that dirty fuel makes? Give your wife a break. Discuss clean fuel with her—she'll appreciate it.

Ask her if she fully appreciates how clean Chicago Solvay Coke really is. What a difference it will make in her daily life.

No dust when it is delivered—no smoke when it burns and no soot to mar the clean appearance of your home.

Think what this will mean to your wife—no daily layer of greasy grime and black soot—no black dust tracked upstairs onto your carpets and rugs.

Help her make her housekeeping chores a delight instead of a daily drudgery and everyday scrubbing.

PAY BACK TAXES, COURTS' WARNING TO ALL RECEIVERS

Judge Normoyle Threatens Contempt Action.

Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Circuit court threatened contempt of court action yesterday against receivers in Cook county who have evaded payment of delinquent taxes on their properties or taken fees in defiance of court order.

Forty-one receivers, among them receivers for several large hotel properties, appeared in the Circuit court during the day and were ordered to submit by Oct. 31 a report on the amount of delinquent taxes they have paid. Judge Normoyle said that all 3,000 receivers under the jurisdiction of the Circuit court would be ordered to make such a report before the first of the year.

Superior Court Acts Also.

At the same time Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court announced that questionnaires would be sent to all the 3,000 receivers under the jurisdiction of the Superior court late this week. The receivers will be required to answer within 10 days and tell the amount of taxes that have been paid on properties under their control.

Chief Justice Normoyle in his statement indicated a belief that the Circuit court order to pay taxes is being evaded and that some receivers and attorneys are taking fees before making tax payments.

"Receivership cases are becoming a Frankenstein monster and the court will slay the monster before it turns on its maker," Judge Normoyle said. "Before we are through investigating all these receivership cases more than half of the receivers will be asked to resign. If there are any receivers or attorneys who are not satisfied with the action of the court they may resign immediately."

"Pay the Taxes First."

"The chancellors of the Circuit court will not approve any final report in a receivership suit unless the principals have complied with orders to pay taxes. If receivers or attorneys have taken their fees first the fees will have to be returned. We may cite a number of receivers for contempt of court if our investigation discloses any reason for such action."

Last June the judges of the Circuit court ordered receivers to apply three-quarters of the net income from their properties to the payment of delinquent taxes. The action was taken on suggestion of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Despite active collections during the last six months, delinquent taxes still total more than $200,000,000. Among those summoned to the Circuit court yesterday were receivers for the Dorchester, Ridgeview, Algonquin and Pearson hotels.

ROBBIE DIES OF WOUNDS.

Brady Wellington, 21 years old, 1070 West 13th street, a Negro, who was shot Oct. 13 by Abe Steinke when he attempted to hold up Steinke's vegetable store at 1550 West 13th street, died of his wounds yesterday in the Bridgeway hospital.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $330,015, making a total of $80,911,420 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 26. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928	1929
Oct. 24	$16,874,212	$16,874,212
Uncollected	16,874,212	44,945,935
	1930	1931
Oct. 24	$16,874,212	$16,874,212
Uncollected	16,874,212	44,945,935

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $665.

DR. LOWELL ASKS MOVIE CODE BAR SALACIOUS FILMS

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard university, who accepted the presidency of the Motion Picture Research council today, urged regulations in the "movie code" to prohibit such practices as block booking and blind buying and to bar salacious films.

Dr. Lowell spoke at a luncheon sponsored by the Massachusetts Civic league, at which twenty-five cities and towns were represented in a group of 200 persons.

A message urging Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, to prohibit the practice of block booking by Dr. Lowell was taken from the meeting to Washington. In speaking of the effects on the minds of children of motion pictures Dr. Lowell referred to experiments taken at a showing of "The Birth of a Nation," which indicated that the effects were lasting.

Discontent with their lives was also evidenced, as was a desire to wear fine clothes as shown on the screen, he said, while knowledge of crime and methods of committing crime were impressed on the minds of immature children.

Dr. Lowell criticized block booking and blind buying as giving the exhibitor a chance to shift responsibility for showing objectionable pictures.

COURT FREES JOE FUSCO.

Municipal Judge R. J. Dunne yesterday dismissed a charge of disorderly conduct against Joe Fusco, 31 years old, 7543 Prairie avenue, former aid of Al Capone, who was arrested Oct. 14 by a detective squad led by Sgt. John Howe.

PLYMOUTH THAT REFUSED TO FREEZE

There are a lot of Plymouths on the road today whose radiators breathed last winter's icy blasts and never thought of freezing.

Those drivers knew that a low-priced, boil-away anti-freeze could cost money before spring. They knew that most so-called "permanent" anti-freeze soon break down. At the first sign of winter they saved their cars from freezing and rust with Eveready Prestone.

This year, at the new low price of $2.95 a gallon, Eveready Prestone protection for a 1933 Plymouth to zero (1 1/4 gallons) costs only $3.72. For other models and makes, see your dealer's chart. It's good for a full winter's driving—25,000 miles or more. Approved by all car manufacturers. Fully guaranteed by National Carbon Co., Inc., New York.

Records show Chicago usually sees freezing weather by Oct. 20. Put in Eveready Prestone now—and have protection all winter.

PAY TODAY OR GET OUT IS ORDER TO SCHOOL LESSEES

Trustees Act to Collect $94,000 at Once.

Four holders of 99 year leases on school property in the loop were told yesterday to pay their back rents or be evicted. The ultimatum was delivered by Trustees Andrew G. Jackson and his special committee of school board members following a meeting with the lessees which ended in a deadlock.

The deadline for the "pay up or get out" order was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon. The back rents of the four lessees total $94,000. The lessees, protesting that the rents are too high, have been in default since last February, in refusing to pay rent. The lessees are following the legal advice of their attorney, Samuel Ettelson, corporation counsel under a former mayor.

The lessees provide for an appraisal every ten years as a new basis for rents. Attorney Ettelson holds that his clients in seven years have paid enough rent for the present ten year term.

Efforts to Settle Fail.

Trustee Jackson said that unless the payments are made by 2 o'clock the school board at its meeting this afternoon will adopt a resolution notifying the lessees of cancellation of the leases and eviction proceedings.

"We have tried patiently for several weeks to work out the matter amicably," said Trustee Jackson, "but without result. The money for the back rents is needed for school teachers' salaries and members of the board are in no mood to quibble over the matter."

The four lessees in default and the amount each owes are: Estate of Daniel F. Crilly at 31-41 South Dearborn street, $45,634. The 23 State Street Building corporation at 33-34 South State street, $28,028. Rosalie Cavanna at 20-22 South

State street, $10,022. Macy Securities company at 18 South State street, $9,076.

The four lessees until early this year had been paying rent on the basis of the 1915 appraisal, which was the same as the 1905 appraisal. The 1925 appraisal, which had raised the values 79 per cent, was held invalid last year by the Illinois Supreme court after long litigation.

Seek New Valuations.

The school block is bounded by State, Dearborn, Madison, and Monroe streets. Eight leaseholds are in controversy. In the case of the four other lessees, who have been paying rent on the 1915 basis, the board members decided to go into court and seek a new revaluation of the property.

The board attorneys were ordered to start proceedings today before Judge Denis Sullivan in the Superior court. The four other properties are located at 6 South State street, 17-27 West Madison street, 26-28 South State street, and 17-19 South Dearborn street.

Representatives of the lessees at the meeting with the trustees were Leonard Ettelson, Ashar Goldfine, and Charles Weinfeld. They demanded that new leases be drafted and offered to place the money for the back rents in escrow pending settlement of the controversy.

Among those who attended the conference on the leases in the school board rooms yesterday were: Shelby M. Singleton, secretary of the Citizens' association; James E. McCahey, president of the school board; Charles W. Fry, Harry Solomon, Joseph Salat, and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, school trustees, and Gustav Kunzman, Hyde Perce, Francis Manierre, and E. G. Krumrelin, real estate men.

POLICE SEIZE U. S. OFFICER AFTER NAVY CLEARS HIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALEBOA, C. Z., Oct. 24.—Lieut. John H. Cross of the United States navy who last week was found not guilty by a court martial of manslaughter following attempts by Canal Zone police to arrest him to stand trial before civil courts, was taken into custody by Canal Zone police here today as he left a submarine. The police allege the navy originally refused to turn over the defendant.

Lieut. Cross is charged with leaving the scene of an automobile accident recently on the highway between Colon and the Coco Solo submarine base. Lieut. R. B. Morgan was a passenger in a car driven by Cross. The auto collided with a motor bus and Lieut. Morgan was killed.

Here's the way to tell if you have Acid Stomach

You Can Get Rid of it Quickly!

The Signs of Acid Stomach

Nervousness	Neuralgia	Indigestion
Auto-Intoxication	Nausea
Frequent Headaches	Sleeplessness
Feeling of Weakness	Mouth Acidity
Loss of Appetite	Sour Stomach

WHAT TO DO FOR IT

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

OR—Take the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets—one tablet for each teaspoonful as directed above.

Some 80% of the people of today have Acid Stomach, according to many authorities! This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," "biliousness," are the usual indications. So you can easily tell if you have Acid Stomach.

You Can Quickly and Easily Correct It

But if you do have it, don't worry about it. Today it can be corrected in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia

Tablets; one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid.

What This Does

That's all you do. But do it regularly. EVERY DAY.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy you feel.

Everywhere people are doing this—doctors advocating it. Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

BOARD TO ACT ON COMPLETION OF FIVE SCHOOLS

in U. S. Easy Money.

The school board will take action at its meeting today to pave the way for the resumption of its building program. According to the plans disclosed yesterday, five of the ten school building projects will be completed with the use of federal "easy money" and the payment of tax anticipation warrants in lieu of cash to contractors.

A resolution providing for the issuance of $4,500,000 worth of building fund warrants for 1931, 1932, and 1933 to contractors will be adopted by the trustees. The additional money needed, $1,350,000, or 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials, would be an outright grant from the federal public works administration. The contractors would receive both the cash and warrants.

The school trustees have not yet decided which five buildings will be completed, although it is expected that they will be those nearest completion. In their choice the trustees will be guided by the advice of Supt. William J. Bogan as to which schools would provide the most seats in congested areas.

Would Give Jobs to 1,500.

John C. Christensen, school architect, declared that 1,500 men would be put to work immediately if the plan proves successful.

The school board applied for $14,025,643 of federal funds on Aug. 21. This amount would finance 14 schools, which the superintendent has recommended to the board. After two or three conferences the trustees were told by the local public works advisory board that the government would not lend the amount asked in the application.

Under the plans suggested by Mr. Bogan, two of the ten building projects started by the board would be abandoned. These are the Dvorak school at 18th street and Keeler avenue, 1 per cent completed, and the Calles school at Fullerton and Central avenues, 5 per cent completed. The schools will not be needed because of the board of education's conversion of junior high school plants into senior high and elementary schools.

Other Schools Started.

The eight other buildings started by the board, the percentage of completion, and the seating capacity of each are as follows:

SENN HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION, 5000 Glenwood avenue, 95 per cent, 1,080 seats.

LANE TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL, Addison street and Western avenue, 80 per cent, 6,191 seats.

STANKEE HIGH SCHOOL, Barry and Melvina avenues, 85 per cent, 2,830 seats.

PHILLIPS HIGH SCHOOL, 60th and State streets, 30 per cent, 2,064 seats.

WELLS HIGH SCHOOL, Augusta street and Ashland avenue, 20 per cent, 2,950 seats.

VERDI HIGH SCHOOL, 60th and Rockwell streets, 18 per cent, 2,144 seats.

REMBRANDT HIGH SCHOOL, 82d street and Essex avenue, 5 per cent, 1,536 seats.

JAMIESON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, Hollywood avenue and Mozart street, 25 per cent, 924 seats.

It is expected that Trustee Charles W. Fry will introduce the resolution on the building plans. He made a trip to Washington recently to discuss the matter with federal officials.

POLICE PROBE KIDNAP STORY OF TWO WOMEN

Woodlawn police are investigating the stories of two women that they were held prisoners for several hours by two unidentified men and that one of them was raped by one of the men. The women are Mrs. Corinne Hall, 38 years old, 6324 Kimbark avenue, and Miss Josephine Vancio, 22, of 6619 Blackstone avenue.

Mrs. Hall and Miss Vancio said the two men forced them into their car at Kimbark avenue and 63d street about 1 a. m. yesterday, blindfolded them with handkerchiefs, and then drove them to a deserted house.

Inside the house, according to their stories, one of the men, about 40 years old, struck Mrs. Hall on the jaw, causing her to lose consciousness. Then he took her into a room and raped her, she said. Miss Vancio was held prisoner by the other man, but was not harmed.

About dawn the men released the women, they said, giving them 25 cents for "barter." Mrs. Hall and Miss Vancio could not tell police what street cars they took to go home. They did not report the case to police until last night, when Dr. John V. Lambert, 6142 Kenwood avenue, treating Mrs. Hall for a jaw fracture, advised them to do so.

That "wretched" "all-n" feeling had put him on the skids, and his work showed it. Then a friend told him about ASTHENIA (run down condition usually caused by constipation)... and

DIVORCES PRINCE

MAE MURRAY.

COURT DIVORCES MAE MURRAY FROM MDIVANI

She Waives Alimony; Charged Cruelty.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Waiving all claims of alimony, Mae Murray, blonde screen actress, was divorced in Superior court today from Prince David Mdivani.

Miss Murray said she believed she was giving up something she felt she was rightfully entitled to, but "I am also gaining something that is very important—my freedom."

Granted on Cruelty Charge.

The divorce was granted on the actress' charges of cruelty. She pictured her husband as unreasonably jealous of her attractiveness and often angry when she had company at their home.

Miss Murray told the court she had signed a property settlement which provides a $5,000 trust fund for their son, Koran Mdivani, 6. The court approved that settlement.

The divorce ended one of three international romances of the "marrying Mdivanis." Another of these is due to come into court the latter part of this month.

Sued by Opera Singer.

Mary McCormie, opera singer, is suing Prince George Mdivani, brother of David, for separate maintenance and in his cross-complaint he asks outright divorce. A third brother, Prince Alexis, recently married Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress, in Europe.

Miss Murray and Prince David were married June 27, 1925. She sued him for divorce in August, 1931, but they were reconciled four days later. Her second suit was filed last June 10.

This was his first marriage, but her fourth. The first was William N. Schwenkern, the second Jay O'Brien, and her third was Robert Z. Leonard.

McKEE SAYS VOTE FOR HIM IS VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

Calls La Guardia Backers
Foes of President.

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Asserting that F. H. La Guardia, fusion nominee for mayor, opposed the election of President Roosevelt by supporting both the Republican party and the Socialist party in the 1932 campaign, Joseph V. McKee, recovery party candidate, hoisted the flag of the Roosevelt administration to his masthead tonight. He declared that he would be proud if his candidacy were to merit the approval of "those in Washington."

"I say to you, a vote for La Guardia is a vote against Roosevelt; a vote for McKee is a vote for Roosevelt," Mr. McKee said.

Mr. McKee in a statement denounced Mr. La Guardia as a "deliberate liar" for having charged that he and Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader, had connived at graft and were responsible for the suicide of Louis H. Willard, Seabury inquiry witness, when "William J. Flynn, who is now opposing McKee candidacy, was the man against whom Willard testified."

Fail to Defeat Roosevelt.

Mr. McKee declared that it now had become clear that certain discredited Republican leaders, having failed to defeat President Roosevelt last year, were trying to use a "radical Socialist" under the guise of fusion to discredit the President's policies and administration.

"The most important thing before the people of this country at this time," Mr. McKee said, "is the restoration of prosperity, and the means they have authorized to bring this about are the means developed and employed by President Roosevelt."

Mr. McKee said he had been a consistent supporter of the President and had worked for his nomination and his election. He then asked what Mr. La Guardia was doing in 1932.

"First, he ran as a Republican and campaigned against both Gov. Herbert Lehman and President Roosevelt, but true to his usual unstable and treacherous course of action, he was attempting not only to support the Republican candidate but the Socialist platform as well," Mr. McKee said. "Here is a matter on which I have unassailable proof."

Pulls Record on La Guardia.

Mr. McKee then held up a photograph of the front of an envelope, in the upper right hand corner of which was the "Frank" a facsimile signature of "F. H. La Guardia, M. C." In the left hand corner was the following:

"House of representatives, U. S. part of cong. record-free. Socialist platform of remarks of Hon. Paul John Kvale of Minnesota, in the house of representatives, July 6, 1932."

"This Republican congressman, from a Manhattan district, was using the taxpayers' money to send free copies of the Socialist party platform on Nov. 1, 1932," Mr. McKee said. Mr. McKee then called the roll of La Guardia supporters, who, he said, are enemies of President Roosevelt, naming first Samuel Seabury.

Says Seabury Fought Roosevelt.

"Seabury went to Chicago last year for the definite purpose of defeating Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidential nomination," Mr. McKee said. Mr. McKee characterized Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury in the Hoover administration, as "the high priest of the cult that brought the country to its present plight."

Mr. McKee said he had been attacked for receiving the support of leaders of the national Democratic party, presumably referring to Postmaster General James A. Farley.

"I am happy to be under that fire," he continued. "If my private life and public conduct deserve the support of the administration, I feel that the endorsement is a high reward for years of effort. If my candidacy were to merit the approval of those in Washington who are leading the nation up to sunlight from the valley of darkness I shall be proud indeed. My opponents charge it to me as a crime. I proclaim it as a badge of distinction."

DR. BUTLER HEARS SELF DENOUNCED IN COURTROOM

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, sat in a Federal court before Judge Grover M. Moscovitz today. He heard himself assailed by having made a personal arrangement with Joseph W. Harriman through which $276,000 of the depositors' money in the closed Harriman National Bank and Trust company was used by him and Harriman, then president of the bank.

Dr. Butler appeared to press his suit for return of $200,000 worth of securities which he said he had entrusted to the bank for safekeeping. His attorney exhibited letters from the bank admitting possession of the securities. The case is being heard without a jury.

Abraham Friedman, attorney for the depositors, opposed Dr. Butler's suit, shouting at the Columbia president as he shook his finger at him. "I am one of the 9,000 depositors of the bank whose money you used."

Friedman asserted that in the summer of 1932 Dr. Butler hadn't enough money to cover his margin on a stock market account and that he went to Harriman and made a personal arrangement whereby he obtained a $126,000 loan on an unsecured note, due in six months, and gave Harriman, personally, the securities to hold for him.

Harriman Gets Loan?

Thereupon, Friedman charged, Harriman put up the securities with the bank as collateral for another loan for $150,000, which was deposited in Mrs. Harriman's account and checked out the same day.

Friedman argued that Dr. Butler knew of this transaction and submitted a letter written by Vice President Austin of the bank in July, 1932, to Dr. Butler, setting forth that the securities had been posted as collateral for a loan to Mrs. Harriman. Dr.

Butler answered the letter, said Mr. Friedman.

In August, 1932, he said, Dr. Butler wrote to a vice president of the bank asking him to "do his best to get back his securities."

Marguerite Graceman, secretary of Mr. Austin, identified a letter she had written to Dr. Butler in March, 1932, stating the securities the bank was holding for him. She was called by Dr. Butler to show that the bank officials knew the securities were his.

"Look John—A NEW IRON SKILLET, THE KIND MOTHER ALWAYS USED"

John: "It gives me an appetite just to look at it, Martha. Are you going to cook something now?" Martha: "No, John, I must 'cure' it before using it—you see, after it gets very hot, I grease it thoroughly, and the grease goes right into the metal, leaving an oily surface that further cooking and washing do not take away."

John: "Why, that's much like the theory of Germ Processed—the motor oil we are using—only Conoco puts an extra oiliness in the mineral motor oil that gives it penetrativeness. How easily understood the 'Hidden Quart' is. Of course, our car starts easily and runs quietly! It must save wear, too." Martha: "Why don't other oil companies use that good method, John?" John: "It's patented and belongs only to Conoco in North America." Martha: "But does oil make our car start easily? I thought that was gasoline." John: "The oil helps, Martha, but quick starting is a feature of Conoco Bronze, so is pickup, power, mileage, and anti-knock. We can thank Conoco for saving us money this year. Let the weather get cold! With Germ Processed Winter Grade Oil and Conoco Bronze, we're all set. It's a great combination."

Full motor protection, especially in cold motor starting, can be found only in Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil because the penetrative oiliness, called "The Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Costs a total of only one-fifth of a cent a mile. Conoco Germ Processed Oil is the highest grade motor oil obtainable... the paraffin base crude oil sources, the scientific skill and the most modern of refineries combine to make it so. Then it is Germ Processed with an exclusive Conoco formula.

Instant Starting and Lightning Pickup can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline, and without sacrifice of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled—all the possible fuel needs of modern cars have been fulfilled at no increase in price.

It can be easily identified by its bronze color but you must be sure it is Conoco Bronze Gasoline for only in this way can its advantages of unusual performance and greater economy be obtained.

IS YOUR HOME COLD AS ICE when you get up in the morning?

Install a HOLLAND
Electric Thermostatic Control and Make Comfort Automatic

On bitter, cold mornings—do you dash to the basement in pajamas and slippers to wake up a lazy heating system? You pay for comfort—why not get it?

Have a Holland Electric Thermostatic Control installed now. Make comfort automatic. Have uniform temperature upstairs and down all winter long.

Installation may be made in any type of system—warm-air, hot-water or steam. The slightest temperature variation works the mechanism—opens and closes your furnace drafts—keeps every room comfortable. The convenience and economy of the Holland Temperature Control are as important during mild fall and spring weather as during the severely cold winter months. You get heat when you need it—and save fuel when warmth is not required. Telephone now for a factory-trained Holland man. Have him call without obligation—any time day or night.

FEDERAL POWER PROJECT MEETS DIXIE CRITICISM

Industry Fears Scheme Will Hurt Investors.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The Tennessee valley authority, the "new deal" experiment in social and economic planning, is evoking criticism in the south, directed especially at its water power phases.

Bankers, industrialists, merchants in Atlanta and Birmingham hold that the project may put the government into business in direct and active competition with private power companies, themselves under state regulation.

Affects Stock Investors.
The TVA itself has not yet avowed final policy as to the distribution of electrical power generated at Muscle Shoals, but it is encouraging municipal ownership of electrical plants. Bankers in Atlanta declare that the bare possibility that the government may go in for the building of transmission lines and duplication of existing privately owned facilities has had in the last few months a depressing effect on holdings of small investors.

In Georgia, Alabama, and eastern Tennessee, the financiers say there are 30,000 holders of preferred stock in the power utilities of those states, who paid $87,000,000 cash for their holdings and now are faced with prospects that the government, backed by public funds, may perhaps become a cut throat rival against the properties in which they have invested.

Industrialists in Birmingham argue that if the government should go in for operation and distribution of the power, as well as ownership, the disrupting effect upon industry will be widespread. They declare if the government goes into the distribution of the power instead of selling it at the switchboard to present private facilities, the result will be that the government will skim the cream, and cause a disorganization of rates which will increase power costs to industrial users in all the small towns.

Reject Municipal Ownership.
As an indication of the reaction in the south, Birmingham a fortnight ago held a referendum election in which it rejected proposals for municipal ownership of light and power plant, water works, street cars, and steam heating plant. The voters voted down a municipal lighting plant by 9,600 to 6,900. Two suburbs by light votes adopted the proposal.

The campaign was a typical old style municipal ownership battle of the sort in vogue in Chicago and elsewhere twenty years and more ago. The proposition was put on the ballot by municipal ownership enthusiasts shortly before the election. The Tennessee valley authority put out a statement, that any municipality in the area it purposes to serve, which owns its own distribution system, may obtain wholesale power from the authority at a lower rate than is now

Colorful Ceremony

Colorful ceremonies marked the laying of the corner stone of a Nestorian Christian church at 1805 Hammond street yesterday. The Nestorians date from the 5th century and have general oversight of the Christians of Syria and certain other countries of the near east. The new church being erected is the second in Chicago owning allegiance to Nestorian traditions. The first is at the corner of Belden and Seminary avenues.

being paid. It announced a wholesale rate of 7 mills per kilowatt hour. The TVA "suggested" rates embrace a special low rate for home use. Opponents of municipal ownership raised a shout that the TVA was suggesting a rate for residential purposes, which would give power in excess of 400 kilowatt hours per month to the residential consumer for four mills per kilowatt hour, or less than the 7 mills which the city would pay. Predict Higher Taxes.

Arguments were stressed that if the municipality at suggestion of the TVA sold any electricity at less than cost, the loss would likely be made up either through increased taxes or increased rates for other users. They likewise held that under the TVA policy, municipally owned systems apparently would be administered by the government instead of by the municipality, as the "suggestions" had the effect of a command. The voters turned it down.

The main private companies in the area within a 200 mile radius of Muscle Shoals are the Georgia Power company, the Alabama Power company, and the Tennessee Electrical Power company.

Since 1925, the Alabama company has taken power from the government owned switchboard at Muscle Shoals on a contract with a 30 days revocable clause, under which it pays two mills per kilowatt hour. The average price to consumers of all prices is 1.23 cents, according to the printed record of the testimony in the Muscle Shoals hearing at Washington last April. The company has been paying the government $500,000 a year. Its tax bill for 1932 was $1,981,000.

The Alabama company, according to the same printed record, serves 66 of the 67 counties of the state, and serves directly in 457 communities. Its gross earnings in 1932 were $15,500,000. It has senior securities outstanding of $132,000,000, of which $97,000,000 is bonds and $35,000,000 preferred stock. Of the preferred stock, $21,000,000 is held by 11,732 stockholders in Alabama, more than half of them being women.

They expressed the view that, although the financial structure of the utilities may be overvalued, there is authority for the fixing of rates upon actual investment. If the government goes into competition beyond the switchboard, they argued, it would work injury to small investors throughout the region.

Gross Earnings $17,500,000.

The Georgia Power company serves 138 of the 159 counties in the state, according to the record of the Muscle Shoals inquiry before congress, and it has 145,938 customers. Its gross earnings in 1932 were $17,900,000. Rates, which are fixed by the state commission, are uniform throughout Georgia, whether the consumer lives in a large city or at the crossroads or on a farm. Its rural rates are said to be lowest in the world.

The Georgia company has 117 million dollars of bonds outstanding and 603,000 shares of preferred stock. There are 8,512 preferred shareholders in Georgia, holding 228,770 shares, for which they paid $22,877,000. The company paid property taxes of $1,934,000 in 1931.

WOMAN RELIEF CLIENT ADMITS FRAUD IN COURT

Mrs. Katherine Salmar, 54 years old, 117 North Carpenter street, confessed yesterday before Judge Erwin J. Hasten in the Woman's court that she had been receiving aid from the Illinois emergency relief commission under false pretenses. She said that she had received relief during the last year and had been treated at the county hospital although she had $600 on deposit in a bank. Judge Hasten ordered her to return the $158 she received from the commission and indicated he would place her on probation when she made the restitution.

HADASSAH CALLS FOR BOYCOTT OF GERMAN GOODS

Attacks Persecution of the Jews.

An exhortation to "all liberty loving citizens everywhere" to boycott German made goods and German service was the crux of a resolution adopted yesterday by Hadassah, women's Zionist organization in America, in its 19th annual convention at the Palmer house. Mrs. Samuel Barron of Boston, an attorney, presented the resolution.

Among the points of the document were listed the present German government's boycott against Jews in every walk of life, and the assertion that "the Hitler regime has deprived 600,000 Jews of the most elementary civil rights, and cut them off from all resources of labor and livelihood." Hadassah pledged its assistance in the fight against German terrorism and called upon "all its members and all liberty loving citizens everywhere to counter boycott all German made goods and German service and to refrain from purchasing goods produced or manufactured in Germany" until the "outrageous program of persecution" ceases.

Mrs. Samuel W. Halprin of Brooklyn was reflected president of the organization at the election held in the afternoon. She had no opposition. All other national officers also were returned to their posts.

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL WELFARE OPENS IN CHICAGO

Rodney H. Brandon, president of the Illinois conference on social welfare, opening the annual meeting of the conference last night in the Knickerbocker hotel, predicted that in the next ten years Illinois will make a record in improving conditions at its penal institutions. He described the benefits of a law recently enacted by the legislature, under which prison inmates are being segregated according to the degree of menace they offer society.

Another speaker, Dr. Adolf Meyer of Johns Hopkins university, stressed the need of human spontaneity in every day living, and a recognition of such by science. Each individual must be helped so that he may work and live with all the spontaneity that is in him, Dr. Meyer said.

Discussion on certification of welfare workers in the state, the relationship of public and private agencies, and the prevention of juvenile delinquency will occupy sessions of the conference today.

Buying Committee Named for Christmas Benefit

The organization of "Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit," which is proposed by Mayor Kelly for the purpose of spreading Christmas cheer to the poor in the city, proceeded yesterday with the naming of three business men to serve as a committee on purchases. They are Joseph M. Cudahy, R. Douglas Stuart, vice president of the Quaker Oats company, and John T. Pirie. The benefit will be held the night of Dec. 20, at the Chicago stadium. Radio, screen, and stage stars have volunteered their services. The sponsors hope to raise $100,000 from the sale of seats.

ILLINOIS ADOPTS NEW DEAL FOR UTILITY RATES

State Commission Rejects Companies' Protest.

old commission, went blithely to work. His first witness was Mark Wolf, Mr. Wolf identified himself as a consulting utility analyst of Chicago and New York, who at various times has been employed as an analyst by state utility commissions of twenty-five states. He produced his first exhibit, a comparative table of electricity costs per kilowatt hour by ten utility companies in ten communities in Illinois.

Table of Comparative Rates.
The table showed that of all these rates, those of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois were the highest. Communities served by and paying the lowest rates were: Waukegan, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Glenview, Kenilworth, Wilmette, Evanston, Oak Park, River Forest, La Grange, Blue Island, Harvey, Chicago Heights, and Kankakee. The domestic rate in these and other parts of the system, using 25 kilowatt hours in a five room house for a base, is $1.95, according to Mr. Wolf.

Rates of the other nine companies on the same basis, according to Mr. Wolf's table, are as follows:

Alton & Power, Alton.....	$1.43
Central Ill. Elec. & Gas, Rockford.....	1.63
Central Ill. Light, Peoria.....	1.69
Central Ill. Public Service, Quincy.....	1.90
Commonwealth Edison, Chicago.....	2.53
East St. Louis & P. East St. Louis.....	1.10
Illinois Power & Light, Decatur.....	1.58
Peoples Power Co., Moline & Rock Island.....	1.78
Western United G. & E., Aurora & Elgin.....	1.95

Mr. Wolf had no more than begun to read the figures into the record when the Public Service company's attorney, Harry J. Dunbaugh, was on his feet with an objection. The commission, he contended, should not admit the figures until the company had been given a chance to examine their authenticity.

Dunbaugh Assails Figures.

"These figures do not prove anything," Dunbaugh asserted. "The rates of our company are uniform for all communities we serve. The rates for these other companies vary in different communities. All this witness has done is to select those rates which were most favorable to his case."

Attorney Booth replied. The commission, he contended, had a right to consider any evidence bearing on the case, subject to the company's right to challenge the accuracy of the figures and its further right to cross-examine the witness supplying them. Thereupon, with the stipulation that the tables would be admitted for the purpose of identification only, Mr. Wolf's tables were admitted to the record.

Develops a New Basis.

It was Dr. Dittmer who developed the difference between the "reproduction basis" of computing rates, and the "historical cost" basis, which the commission indicated it will adopt. On the reproduction basis, Dr. Dittmer maintained, Public Service has been earning an average of 8.82 per cent on its invested capital over the last ten years. On the historical cost basis, he found, the rate of return would have amounted to 9.87 per cent.

On a historical cost basis, he maintained, the company had earned $28,371,917 in excess of a fair rate of return over the ten years, taking 6 per cent as a fair return. On a reproduction basis, he said, the excess was $25,165,000.

"This sounds too good to be true," remarked Attorney Dunbaugh, smiling. "I didn't know it was possible that we could make so much money."

"Is it too good, or too bad?" queried Chairman Lindheimer. Mr. Dunbaugh shrugged and said no more.

LINDHEIMER'S STATEMENT

Chairman Lindheimer's statement, made at the opening of yesterday's hearing, follows:
"On April 13, 1933, the commission cited the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, along with the other electric companies of the state, to show cause why their rates should not be reduced."

"Following these citations, in order to avoid as far as possible the delay and expense of formal rate proceedings, the commission met with these electric companies in informal conferences in the hope that the agreements might be reached which would give the consumers of the state immediate and substantial relief wherever warranted."

"As a result of these conferences a number of companies have made substantial rate reductions, in some cases to the full amount recommended by the commission's staff on the basis of its preliminary investigation, and as much as the commission might expect to obtain in a contested rate case."

Chicago Companies Refuse.

"Other companies, especially those serving Chicago and the surrounding territory and including the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, stated that they were unable to make any reduction, except to assume the 3 per cent federal tax and to reduce rates to some extent for the larger power users."

"During the legislative session earlier this year, in accordance with the announced policy of the governor, section 26 of the public utilities act was amended. By this amendment the commission is empowered to reduce rates by temporary order if, after an investigation of the books and records of a utility, it finds that its net income, after reasonable deductions for depreciation and other reserves, is in excess of the amount required for a reasonable return upon the value of its property."

"The commission, therefore, proceeded to have investigations made by its staff of the books and records of some of the utility companies, beginning, naturally with those whose rates seemed to be relatively high."

"One of these was the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and the results of the investigation, as reported to the commission, seemed to warrant the institution of a formal

SIMPSON URGES POSTPONEMENT OF UTILITY RATE HEARING

James Simpson, chairman of the boards of the Commonwealth Edison company, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, yesterday asked the Illinois commerce commission to postpone its investigation of the company's rates. He made the plea in a statement in which he said:

"Before you begin formal hearings in the citation for a reduction in rates by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, I ask your indulgence to present a statement. What I will say also applies to the Commonwealth Edison company and The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company."

"Reversing the time honored order of procedure, I am prefacing my remarks with what would, under most circumstances, be the conclusion of them."

"That is a request—a frank, open, straightforward request—that this body postpone hearings looking to a further downward revision of rates by the three companies mentioned, until such time as those companies and your honorable body may know more about the future than it is possible to know today."

Tells Financial Situation.

"The companies are making every effort to absorb the extraordinary and unforeseen expenses recently added to their burden, hoping that they will not be forced to petition this commission for relief through increased rates."

"There are four major items involved in the management of these public utilities, two having to do with their revenues and two with their expenses. Let me briefly mention them:

"1. The first is rates. This matter is either in your hands or in the hands of the courts. The companies may not be forced to petition this commission for relief through increased rates, their very lifeblood. I do not contend that they should have such final control, but I do contend that rates should be fair, and this means adequate to provide a reasonable return upon the capital invested for the service of the public."

Consumption a Factor.

"2. The second item, affecting the gross revenue of the companies, is the quantity of electricity and gas consumed by their customers. Over this, broadly speaking, the companies have no control. The extent of the customer's use of these services is a matter wholly of his own choice or needs. The company must sell but the customer is not required to buy. The depression and hard times have taken their toll from these companies and only recently has there been any encouraging upward trend. Consumption is still far below normal."

"3. The third item is our normal daily operating expenses, which may be spoken of as controllable expenses. It is the only one of the four major items over which the companies have a large measure of control. Their control over this item is limited by the necessity of protecting the high standard of the service rendered. From intimate and personal knowledge of our business, I know that the three companies have done a good job in reducing this part of their operating expenses."

No Control Over Taxes.

"4. The fourth and last item is the uncontrollable portion of the companies' expenses. It is in part composed of state, county, and local real estate and personal property taxes, state reproduction cost principle as the dominant element in valuation, as indicated by the recent decision of the United States Supreme court in the Los Angeles Gas and Electric case."

"It is our feeling that rates based on investment in used and useful property serve equally to protect the investor and the consumer. The commission recognizes a duty to both classes, but according to the law its clear duty is to make investigations in order to determine, to its own satisfaction, whether or not rates are fair and reasonable."

Fair Play Promised.

"The commission's policy of fair treatment to the companies, the investors, and the consumers is not being departed from by the institution of these formal rate proceedings."

"It is unfair to place any part of the blame for the present unhappy situation of the security holders of certain utilities upon the commission, because of its efforts to determine the real facts as to their operating expenses and the fairness of their rates."

"The commission has no intention of exercising, in an arbitrary manner, the broad powers conferred upon it by the recently enacted amendments to the public utilities law."

"Utility companies will in every case be given a reasonable opportunity to present their facts from their point of view, but the commission will on its part, scrutinize very carefully all expenses and reports of the utility companies to give consumers of the state the lowest possible rates for utility service consistent with fair treatment of the utility companies."

"The commission is an administrative and fact finding body with certain very definite duties imposed upon it by the laws of this state and we propose to carry out these duties."

Actual Cost Basis.

"It may be necessary in the future to rely more and more upon actual investment in used and useful property as the basis for determining fair and reasonable rates. The commission looks with favor upon what appears to be a tendency to depart from the reproduction cost principle as the dominant element in valuation, as indicated by the recent decision of the United States Supreme court in the Los Angeles Gas and Electric case."

"It is unfair to place any part of the blame for the present unhappy situation of the security holders of certain utilities upon the commission, because of its efforts to determine the real facts as to their operating expenses and the fairness of their rates."

"The commission has no intention of exercising, in an arbitrary manner, the broad powers conferred upon it by the recently enacted amendments to the public utilities law."

"Utility companies will in every case be given a reasonable opportunity to present their facts from their point of view, but the commission will on its part, scrutinize very carefully all expenses and reports of the utility companies to give consumers of the state the lowest possible rates for utility service consistent with fair treatment of the utility companies."

"The commission is an administrative and fact finding body with certain very definite duties imposed upon it by the laws of this state and we propose to carry out these duties."

Actual Cost Basis.

"It may be necessary in the future to rely more and more upon actual investment in used and useful property as the basis for determining fair and reasonable rates. The commission looks with favor upon what appears to be a tendency to depart from the reproduction cost principle as the dominant element in valuation, as indicated by the recent decision of the United States Supreme court in the Los Angeles Gas and Electric case."

"It is our feeling that rates based on investment in used and useful property serve equally to protect the investor and the consumer. The commission recognizes a duty to both classes, but according to the law its clear duty is to make investigations in order to determine, to its own satisfaction, whether or not rates are fair and reasonable."

Fair Play Promised.

"The commission's policy of fair treatment to the companies, the investors, and the consumers is not being departed from by the institution of these formal rate proceedings."

"It is unfair to place any part of the blame for the present unhappy situation of the security holders of certain utilities upon the commission, because of its efforts to determine the real facts as to their operating expenses and the fairness of their rates."

"The commission has no intention of exercising, in an arbitrary manner, the broad powers conferred upon it by the recently enacted amendments to the public utilities law."

"The commission is an administrative and fact finding body with certain very definite duties imposed upon it by the laws of this state and we propose to carry out these duties."

franchise taxes, state capital stock tax, federal capital stock tax, federal tax of 3 per cent on sale of electricity, municipal franchise tax, federal income tax, and various other governmental charges."

"Recently the department of finance of the state of Illinois has attempted to apply the 3 per cent Illinois retail sales tax—to electric and gas services. The companies believe that the furnishing of these services is not retail sale of tangible property, at which the law is specifically directed. Consequently, we are contesting this tax in the courts. May I add that public utilities represent the only business that does not have the privilege of passing this tax on to the consumer?"

"Higher Levies Imposed."
"Emphasizing further this matter of taxes, within the past ten months the three companies have had new taxes levied against them, some going back to the years 1931 and 1932, amounting to more than $14,500,000, of which the companies had no knowledge a year ago."

"A portion of these increased taxes is chargeable to the years 1931 and 1932 because of the confused tax situation in Cook county. The earnings statements of the three companies for these two years reflect these increased taxes. Certain of the new taxes such as the federal tax of 3 per cent on the sale of electricity and one or two other new forms of taxation abovementioned, have been imposed under duress during the current year and therefore, have been effective during only a part of the year 1933. The full effect of these new and increased taxes has not been felt. If all these additional taxes be continued the estimated increase in taxes will amount to $7,867,000 per year."

Other Added Costs.

"Further down in this list of uncontrollable expenses is the cost of investigations made by this commission imposed within the last six months by amendments to our state law. Even more recently there has been added to this list a substantial increase in expenses due to the codes under the national recovery act."

"One large and unyielding element in the list is interest on outstanding bonded debt, representing capital expenditures necessarily incurred for the rendering of service to the public. This interest is a heavy burden upon the companies, but I do wish to bring out one significant figure resulting from this interest trend, in the three companies, which is that the total amount of interest on their bonds and other securities has increased by $1,000,000 in the last six months."

"It is a comparison of combined operating figures for the three companies for the year 1932 with the more normal year of 1930. The reduction in the estimated gross earnings from operations of the three companies for 1933 on the one hand, and the increase in taxes and other uncontrollable items on the other hand, result in a reduction of income in excess of $25,000,000."

"Partially offsetting this decrease in income, the controllable expenses will be some $5,500,000 less in 1933 than they were in 1930. Therefore, the combined net operating income of these three companies for 1933, after the payment of interest and before the payment of dividends, will be at least $20,000,000 less than in 1930. This graphically tells the story of the past three years."

"This condition quite recently made necessary the suspension of dividends by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company on its $67,000,000 of outstanding capital stock. Since 1931 dividends on the $162,000,000 of outstanding capital stock of Commonwealth Edison company have been cut in half, and dividends on the $88,000,000 of outstanding common stock of Public Service company have been reduced to one-fourth of their former level."

"Bases Plea on Depression."
"Gentlemen, in the face of a sub-normal demand for electricity and gas, resulting in a sub-normal revenue, in the face of increasing uncontrollable expenses, and in the face of rapidly rising costs which will be accelerated if we have any form of inflation or deflation, you are asking these companies further to reduce their rates. Economic realities must be faced. Any further rate reductions or increases in taxes are impossible at this time without seriously affecting these three companies."

"Nothing is to be gained by seeking to attribute the present situation to anything that may have occurred in the past. For past history neither the present members of the commission nor the present managements of the companies are in any measure responsible. Under the trying conditions now prevailing it is our task to look forward, not backward."

"This community, embracing the city of Chicago and the surrounding area, is dependent in a large measure upon the electric and gas service upon these three companies. Any injury to them affecting their credit or their service inevitably means great damage to the community at large."

"Reduction Is Unthinkable."
"The maintenance of the credit of these institutions is entirely possible with reasonable rates. Whether present rates with improved conditions will be adequate for the restoration of the earnings remains to be seen. But any reduction in rates at this time is unthinkable."

"The consumer is interested in the maintenance of adequate rates because that is the only way to insure good service."

"While every consideration must and should be given to our customers, our stockholders, numbering over 100,000—more than 90,000 of whom reside in Illinois—must not be lost sight of. Illinois is vitally interested in the successful operation of these three companies, for in its confines reside over 10,000 bondholders, 90,000 stockholders, 15,400 employees, and upwards of 65,000 other persons fully employed in ways dependent upon the activities of these companies."

"One in Ten Interested."
"An ultra-conservative family multiplier of 3 applied to this army of 240,000 persons leads one to the conclusion that one person out of every 10 in the state has a direct interest in the prosperity of these three companies."

"The public utility law of this state was designed to protect the investor as well as the consumer—the one who renders the service as well as the one who enjoys it. The question is far from a one-sided one. It is by no means true that a reduction in rates would injure a few and aid many. A rate reduction not warranted by prevailing conditions would bring about as great an injustice to the consumer as to the investor."

"Our responsibilities as managers of these companies, and we take these responsibilities with all seriousness, are to render to our customers the best possible service at the lowest possible rates, to give to our stockholders reasonable return on their investment, and to pay to our employees a fair living wage. These things we can do only with fair and reasonable rates."

"Industry in this country cannot survive unless government permits it to earn a reasonable—and I use that word advisedly—a reasonable return on its invested capital."

"I appreciate the grave responsibility resting upon the shoulders of the members of the Illinois commerce commission appointed by the governor of this state to administer the public utility law. I am aware of the pressure that is constantly put upon persons in your position to force reductions in rates. This pressure is always more severe in times of economic stress like the present."

"A Judicial Function."
"Your responsibility under the public utility law of guarding equally the interest of the consumer and of the investor calls for a judicial balancing of their interests, remembering that in the last analysis their interests lie along the same lines. The discharge of this responsibility calls imperatively for a facing of facts, which do not lie in your power or ours to alter."

"Neither you nor we can materially increase the consumer's use of electricity and gas."

"Neither you nor we can control the weather or ever increasing taxes."

"Neither you nor we nor any one else can foretell what the trend of industry and commerce is going to be in the future. We all hope it will move upward, but not one of us knows."

"In conclusion, I repeat my request that cold, stern facts and present day conditions be given the right of way over any other considerations and that the commission defer its efforts to reduce rates during this period of national recovery."

OFFICIALS PUSH MOVE TO SELL CANAL TO U. S.

Work on Engineering and Legal Details.

Sanitary district officials are working on both the legal and engineering phases of the district's proposal to sell the main sanitary canal and the Calumet-Sag channel to the federal government as a means of financing the completion of the sewage disposal works system as ordered by the United States Supreme court.

That announcement was made yesterday by Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district, who added that the sanitary trustees, Illinois' two senators, a number of congressmen, and other public officials are solidly behind the proposal which he first made last May. Mayor Kelly, former chief engineer of the district, also made a plea yesterday for the sale to the government.

A Ship Canal, Kelly Says.

The sanitary district canal is now a ship channel used for interstate transportation, Mayor Kelly pointed out, and he recalled that when it was built more than 30 years ago at local expense it was spoken of at that date as a ship canal.

"The channel becomes comparatively useless as a drainage canal after the district finishes its sewage disposal works," said Mayor Kelly. "Its only drainage function then will be to carry away the colorless and harmless effluents remaining after the disposal processes."

"On the other hand, it is becoming more and more important as a barge canal, a branch of the waterway system connecting the great lakes with the Gulf of Mexico. The government now controls the flow of water and also controls navigation. It would be good business for the federal government to acquire title to so important a link in its inland waterway chain."

Works on Engineering Phases.

Philip Harrington, who succeeded Mayor Kelly as chief engineer of the sanitary district, is working on engineering phases of the proposal, President Bowler said. Joshua D'Esposito, resident advisory engineer for the federal public works administration, has advised the trustees to have an outside engineering concern appraise the canal before they submit the federal purchase proposal to congress.

"That's all very well," said President Bowler, "but where is the money coming from for such an appraisal? However, when congress convenes in January we will have a bill ready and Senators Lewis and Dietrich will introduce it. The sanitary trustees are 100 per cent behind the proposal."

President Bowler pointed out that the present bonding power of the sanitary district is virtually exhausted, making it constitutionally impossible for the district to carry out the construction mandate of the Supreme court. In May the unused bonding power of the district was $41,770,145. This power is limited by the constitution to 5 per cent of the assessed valuations in the district. The 25 per cent cut in 1932 real estate assessments, announced recently by Assessor Jacobs, cut $22,000,000 from the bonding limit, leaving less than $19,000,000 unused.

Some time next week, President Bowler said, he and Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the district's finance committee, will confer with Gov. Horner and Attorney General Kerner in an effort to find some method of increasing the district's bonding power.

Bloomers in His Pocket
Makes Sorehead of Gail

Taylorville, Ill., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—When Mrs. Gail McElroy of Palmer discovered a pair of pink bloomers in her husband's hunting coat she hit him over the head with a poker as he slept. Then there were words and the deputies came. It was not until McElroy had spent a day in jail holding his throbbing head that Mrs. McElroy learned that Bart Edwards, McElroy's hunting companion, had slipped the boudoir hunting into McElroy's pocket as the two basted the bar in a beer tavern after a thirty day in the duck blinds.

DIVORCES MATE

MRS. SUSANNA BUNNELL.
(Tribune Photo.)

Mrs. Susanna Packham Bunnell, 495 Sheridan road, Evanston, was granted a default divorce from Charles Holmes Bunnell Jr. of New York yesterday by Circuit Judge Walter J. LaSuy. Mrs. Bunnell obtained service on her husband by publication, and asked no alimony, but Judge LaSuy retained jurisdiction over that question, as well as the matter of support for their son, Charles III, whose custody was awarded to the mother. They were married in 1929.

COUNTY BOARD DEMANDS TRIAL OF IGEOE CASE

The county board by unanimous vote yesterday instructed State's Attorney Courtney to proceed to trial immediately in the suit pending in the Superior court against the James T. Igoe company, printers, for the collection of an alleged overpayment of $62,000. The alleged overpayment is for the printing of personal property assessment lists from 1923 to 1928.

The suit, which was started by former State's Attorney Swanson at the county board's direction in December, 1929, had been forgotten until recalled by Commissioner Amella Sears at a committee meeting on Oct. 17. Miss Sears, who introduced the resolution yesterday to order the state's attorney to try the case, pointed out that the alleged overpayments were discovered in October, 1932.

Under Illinois laws the statute of limitations precludes the prosecution of an action for recovery after five years. It was pointed out, therefore, that the case must be set for hearing within a few months if it is ever to be tried. The suit alleges that the Igoe company charged for more names than it printed on the lists.

Three Held as Robbers in Bonds of $1,125,000

Three young hoodlums who were captured last week after a running gun battle with a Lawndale police squad were held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in total bonds of $1,125,000 on 15 charges of robbery. The defendants are William Varkalis, 23 years old, 10664 South Homan avenue; Peter Slefender, 21 years old, 3408 West 111th street; and William Crayback, 21 years old, 11135 Clifton Park avenue.

Bomb Found Near Office of Porto Rican Governor

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Military headquarters today investigated a dynamite bomb found yesterday near the office of Gov. Robert H. Gore. The bomb, found by a prisoner working in the palace grounds, was cylindrical, six inches long, and consisted of five sticks of dynamite, a detonator and a 30 foot fuse wound tightly around it. Military experts said the fuse was charred for one foot but was not ignitable because of age.

ILLINOIS HOUSE POSTPONES VOTE ON RELIEF BONDS

Democratic Caucus Split on Financing.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Staff Service.]
Springfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Non-controversial measures having to do with obtaining federal aid funds were passed rapidly by the Illinois house of representatives when it resumed business today but the moment it approached the subject of providing money for winter relief all business came to a dead stop.

The uncontested business was transacted at a morning session. At noon a recess was taken until 2:30 to permit the holding of conferences. At the hour set for reconvening the majority leader, Thomas P. Sinnott of Rock Island called a Democratic caucus. The caucus developed a split over the 30 million bond issue program and dissolved for the time being.

Recess Until Today.

The call to order sounded late in the afternoon but again the subject of relief funds was avoided and, on the motion of Floor Leader Sinnott a recess was taken until tomorrow morning. In the face of this record almost all hope of final action on the charity program this week died out.

The split in the Democratic caucus arose directly on the question of support for the administration bills providing for the financing of the bond issues from the gas tax shares of counties and cities in exact proportion to their benefits from the proceeds of the bonds. The principal alternative to this proposal is the Lantz plan for direct taxation by cities and counties for relief purposes, and it was argument over this choice that divided the Democrats.

Downstate Republicans Rally.

In the meantime downstate Republicans favoring the Lantz idea had held a more or less secret conference at which, it was reported, a plan had been conceived to kill off the modified Lantz bills now before the house following their passage by the senate last week.

It was their idea that they could amend the senate bills by substituting for them the texts of the original Lantz bills, thereby laying the senate compromise to rest forever and leaving the issue before the house just what it was before the senate when the special session began three weeks ago.

Among the enabling bills in connection with the federal recovery program was a group sponsored by Representative Schaefer O'Neill (Dem., Alton), permitting cities, park districts, and school boards to convey to the federal government the sites of local public works for which federal funds may be advanced, the property to be returned to the borrowing community after it meets its obligation.

He effected the passage of these bills except one that would have affected the Chicago sanitary district. Solicitor General for the federal public works administration had advised against this bill because it might obstruct the federal proposal which he said would be submitted later. Because of this information O'Neill had

FARLEY 3,200 FEET HIGH WHEN HE HOLDS KING STRAIGHT FLUSH

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A king high straight flush that Postmaster General Farley drew in a stud poker game 3,200 feet up in an airplane today took its place on the walls of his office.

Farley's press conference today clustered wonderingly around a drawing which depicted the lofty scene of "Big Jim" reaching his all-time poker high.

Pictured below the hand were the participants: Farley, A. V. Dalrymple, former prohibition director; L. W. Robert, assistant secretary of the treasury; Turner Battle, assistant to secretary of labor; Klutznick, Thomas E. Doe, Eastern Air transport.

The legend was: Time, 1:30 p. m., Sept. 1, 1933; position, 65 miles west of St. Louis; altitude 3,200 feet; speed 128 miles per hour; ship, E. A. T. Condor, No. 29; occasion, visit to convention Young Democratic clubs, Kansas City.

this one bill stricken from the calendar.

Planned Attack on District.

This prevented the single thrill of the day reaching the floor. Edward B. Bederman (Republican, Chicago) had told newspapermen that when this bill was called for consideration he intended to attack the Chicago sanitary district with charges that Lieut. Gov. Donovan and United States Senator Dietrich are on its pay roll as lawyers.

The charges were never made openly, but Lieut. Gov. Donovan said that during both the regular and special sessions of the assembly he has been on leaves of absence from his duties for the district. Senator Dietrich was said to be in Chicago.

LIFE TERM FOR SLAYER OF WIFE IN QUICK TIME

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Edward J. McCann, 53, got life imprisonment today on his confession of slaying his wife and hacking her body to pieces. He will go to the branch prison at Marquette.

"Life in solitary confinement and at hard labor," was imposed by Recorder's Judge Christopher E. Stein. "It is not necessary to dwell on the revolting nature of your crime," Judge Stein said. "The horrible deed which you committed is enough to stagger the mind of man. The people of Michigan have only one form of retribution to impose upon you."

For 48 days he had eluded a nation-wide police hunt that began the day parts of the body of his wife, found in a field here, were identified through fingerprints on file in the immigration bureau.

He was sentenced in less than 24 hours after his return from Chicago where he was arrested Sunday, to Detroit.

FIVE CENT FARE IMPOSSIBLE, CAR RECEIVERS HOLD Declare It Would Not Pay

Operating Expenses.

A five cent street car fare would not produce sufficient revenue to pay even the operating expenses of the Chicago surface lines, according to the receivers for the lines who yesterday filed with the Illinois commerce commission an answer to a petition asking lower fare.

The petition is that of the Chicago and Cook County Car-Riders' association, a group of neighborhood clubs headed by State Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe. The petition asks that the commerce commission make a new appraisal of the properties of both the surface and elevated lines. It asserts that the "true values" then disclosed would warrant reduction of the elevated fare from ten to five cents and of the street car fare from seven to five cents.

Answer of the Receivers.

In their answer the surface lines receivers, Guy A. Richardson and Edward N. Hurley, cited figures to support their contention that a five cent street car fare is financially impossible. A deficit running into millions of dollars would result from the lower fare, they asserted, pointing out that more than half of the total gross receipts of the surface lines are paid out in wages and that many items such as taxes are beyond the control of the operators of the system.

"To reduce operating expenses to a point where even these could be met with a 5 cent fare," the receivers' answer said, "would require a wage scale for trainmen even lower than that in effect when the 5 cent fare was last being charged, viz. 20 to 30 cents per hour, and any such reduction from the present hourly wage scale of 70 cents would be indefensible and practically impossible."

Point to Passenger Record.

"It may safely be assumed that the number of passengers carried

In the current fiscal year will not exceed the average of the last three years, or approximately 700,000,000. As a matter of fact, the total number of passengers carried in the first nine months of this year was 476,453,795, as compared with 484,367,399 carried for the corresponding period in 1932.

"A reduction of fares from 7 cents to 5 cents on 700,000,000 passengers would mean a reduction in revenue of $14,000,000, which would be nearly twice the total average net receipts for the last three fiscal years."

Mortgage Holder Asks Receiver for Coliseum

Foreclosure proceedings against the Coliseum Building corporation, 1513 South Wabash avenue, were instituted yesterday in the Circuit court by E. C. Tubbs, trustee for holders of a $75,000 mortgage against the building. The bill alleged that the principal and interest have been in default since last Jan. 15. Taxes for 1929, 1930, and 1931, totaling $8,248, are unpaid, according to the bill. The bill asked the appointment of a receiver.

FRENCH EXPRESS TRAIN LEAPS INTO RIVER; 35 KILLED

50 Injured as Coaches Hurtle from Rails.

EVREUX, France, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Thirty-five persons are known to be dead and 50 injured in the wreck of the Paris-Cherbourg express train near Saint-Elier, nine miles from here, today. At least twelve of the dead were women. No American names appeared on the casualty list.

The express was rounding a sharp turn when the accident occurred. The engine and four coaches hurtled from the tracks, off a 33 foot viaduct and into the Roudou river.

Many Died in Hospitals.

The fireman and engineer died in their cab. The detailed casualty list, which was being compiled by the French government, showed that many of the deaths were caused by drowning. The death list mounted rapidly through the day as many of the most seriously injured died in hospitals.

Six Reported Dying.

Most of the victims were French. The train was the regular express which leaves Cherbourg early every morning.

The chances that six of those injured may live apparently was slim. They were reported to be in a serious condition. The cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

ORDERS GRAND JURY INQUIRY ON AUTO DEATH

Superior Judge Joseph B. David yesterday ordered a grand jury inquiry into the accident on Oct. 5, 1931, which caused the death of Mrs. Eva Shira, 73 years old, after the jury in his court returned a finding in connection with a verdict in a civil suit, that Andrew Jacobs, a plumber living at 1822 North Ogden avenue, had "wanton and willfully" struck Mrs. Shira with his automobile.

The jury awarded damages of $5,000 to Edward M. Miller, 3808 North Third avenue, who sued as the administrator of Mrs. Shira's estate. Witnesses produced by Attorney Richard G. Finn, representing the estate, testified that Jacobs was driving on the wrong side of the street when he struck Mrs. Shira, that his brakes were out of order, that he had no lights on the car, although it was after dark, and that he had been drinking.

"Has there ever been any grand jury action in this case?" asked Judge David.

"Our witnesses were called out to the Criminal Courts building," said Attorney Finn, "but after one of them had testified the grand jury voted a no bill. The policeman who said that Jacobs had been drinking was not called before the jury."

Judge David communicated immediately with Assistant State's Attorney David A. Murphy, ordering him to start an investigation.

SON OF POLICE LIEUTENANT IS KILLED IN CRASH

John J. Farrell Jr., 26 years old, a police department radio services expert, was killed early this morning when his automobile collided head-on with a vegetable truck at 78th and State streets.

Farrell, who was the son of Lieut. John J. Farrell of the Deering street police, had been working late and was returning to his home at 8240 St. Lawrence avenue. The driver of the truck, John Wosterhus, 28 years old, of Thornton, who was on his way to the Randolph street market, escaped serious injury. Police said they were unable to fix responsibility for the collision. Wosterhus was held for the inquest.

Howard Eates, 42 years old, 34 Bluff avenue, La Grange, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was riding struck a viaduct support at Archer and Lavendale avenues.

Summit. The driver of the car, D. H. Hansler, 40 years old, of Hampshire, Kane county, was seriously injured.

These deaths and four other yesterday brought the Cook county motor toll for 1933 to 860. The other victims were: June Powers, 45 years old, 914 Lawrence avenue. Died in Columbus Memorial hospital of injuries incurred on Oct. 20 when she was struck by an automobile at Schiller street and Lake Street.

Billie Blue, 45 years old, 459 East 31st street, a Negro. Died in the county hospital of injuries incurred on Monday when he was struck by an automobile at 21st street and South Park way.

Anthony Packer, 69 years old, 6222 South Richmond avenue. Died in the Holy Cross hospital of injuries suffered on Sunday in an automobile collision.

Miss Gladys Ahrens, 25 years old. Died in Des Plaines Emergency hospital. Mrs. Ahrens, a waitress in the Homewood cafe, Milwaukee avenue and Golf road, was struck by an auto in front of the cafe on Monday night.

Alvin Nelson, 47 years old, 10157 Taylor street, was killed when he and two companions, Leonard Driehagen, 6726 South Green street, and Donald Murray, 6648 Greenwood avenue, were injured when their automobile left the road on a curve in route 66, twenty miles south of Joliet, and overturned. Nelson was driving.

MRS. LOUISE FOX DIES IN WHEATON; RITES TOMORROW

Louise Buckmaster Fox, wife of Richard T. Fox, died early yesterday morning in her Wheaton home after a short illness. Mrs. Fox, the daughter of a railroad man, was born in Illinois and was 68 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox were married in Staten Island, N. Y. Besides her husband, Mrs. Fox is survived by her sons, Mr. Albert M. Fox, of New York and Mr. John M. Fox, of Chicago. The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. Interment to be announced later.

U. S. Dry Official Charged with Driving While Drunk

Gladstone, Mich., Oct. 24.—Oscar Rummel, Mich. chief of the federal prohibition forces in the upper peninsula, today was named in warrants issued in Justice court charging driving an automobile while intoxicated and felonious assault. The complaint was sworn to by Carl Johnson, a railway worker, who alleged Rummel's car crashed into his parked machine here. Johnson said an altercation followed and Rummel drew a revolver and followed him into a restaurant where he telephoned to the police.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

"Dinner at Eight" is a thoughtful, entertaining adaptation of the Kaufmann-Ferber play, but it lacks the bite of the original. Well, warmed over dinners are seldom as satisfying as those fresh from the oven.

Though brilliantly acted, intelligently directed, beautifully mounted, and following the stage production with laudable fidelity, the movie seems to me to have lost in transition from footlights to silver sheet that sheen which, in a person, is called personality.

The quick turns, lines tossed so fast, and so surely that you get them without ever knowing how you got them, the keen, electric irony of the play are careful clues in the picture.

While the photoplay's acting personnel is notable for its celebrities, it is not the perfectly balanced array that made the play such a rare delight. The determination to present a staggering array of names has resulted in several instances of miscasting. Call me heretic, call me traitress—but I think Marie Dressler should have been among the missing. Nor did I care for Karen Morley. And Lee Tracy has a hampered air.

As in "Grand Hotel" and "If I Had a Million" this play's action consists of a series of episodes built on and around a central theme.

Central theme: Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Jordan are giving a dinner for Lord and Lady Ferncliffe, visiting English folk.

Invited to this affair are Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Packard, Miss Carolita Vance, and Mr. Larry Renault. The episodes concern the affairs of these guests, and, of course, members of the Jordan household.

Dr. Talbot loves his wife, but he can't resist a pretty woman. Mrs. Packard, late of the hat check brigade, hard as nails, and married to a jealous, unscrupulous, uneducated, and uncouth millionaire, is a pretty woman—and his last crush—of whom he is awfully fond. The Talbots are friends of the Jordans. The Packards have been invited because the frail and worried host craves Packard's aid in his shipping business.

Carolita Vance is dowager of the stage, who was once mine host's favorite actress. Larry Renault is a down and out movie actor who has fascinated the Jordan daughter. While events shuttle back and forth tragically and amusingly in the lives of her prospective guests and her own family and servants, dainty, trivial Mrs. Jordan goes hectically about preparations for the dinner—to which the guests of honor do not come.

I liked Lionel Barrymore and Billie Burke (who never looked more charming) a lot as the Jordans, and found Edmund Lowe surprisingly fine as Dr. Talbot—a new sort of role for him. Jean Harlow and Wallace Berry do an elegant job as the tough, battling Packards, but their scenes together don't touch those enacted on the stage by Judith Wood and Paul Harvey. John Barrymore as hammy as the ham—but Crane Wilbur was more in character.

Why on earth the priceless backstairs episode between the butler and the chauffeur was deleted I can't imagine. There was perfect comedy. This seems to be a review composed

Saleswoman Tomorrow

Miss Jean O'Brien, the piquant debutante daughter of the Howard V. O'Briens of Winnetka, is to be one of the young saleswomen at the Junior League's second hand clothes sale tomorrow. She may look like this very early in the morning before the sale starts, but she won't be nearly so fresh and immaculate looking when it is over, for selling at one of these sales is about as hard work as a Junior League is called upon to do. Miss O'Brien is to model in a fashion show to be given Saturday night in Winnetka by the Winnetka board of the Northwestern university settlement at the Skokie school.

KIND: British made musical farce. ENTERTAINING: Moderately. ACTING: Able—only there's rather too much of Lupino. He's in and all over everything. However, you'll get a kick from some of his eccentric dancing, singing, and tumbling. Likeable chap.

MUSIC: There are two mighty catchy songs.
STORY: A lot of amiable nonsense. A [singing and dancing] newspaper reporter sent to the Riviera to interview an American millionaire finds the gentleman's daughter locked out of her room in her nightgown. The reporter, who has the adjoining suite, asks her in. Follow complications.

DIRECTION: Capable. PHOTOGRAPHY: Not so hot. AUDIENCE APPEAL: Will prove diverting to the average observer. See you soon.

Petri Pleases at Symphony; to Play Again

De Lamarier Is Conductor; Stock Is Better.

Chicago Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall, Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 24, Erie De Lamarier, conductor; soloists, Eugene Forst, pianist. The program: Overture to "Russian and Lullaby."

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock was still being kept in seclusion yesterday, although a bulletin reported him as much improved and almost ready to take up his duties with the orchestra again. Whether Mr. De Lamarier once more took up the baton to direct the first part of the program and to accompany the first soloist of the season, Mr. Petri, during the second.

In both of these functions he was amply successful. The two Russian works in the first part are primarily and basically melodic, and Mr. De Lamarier and the orchestra projected melodies in a charming manner. One feels like extending compliments to the string, wood wind, and brass choirs alike for lovely tone and ready response. And there are other members of the orchestra who are doing the second movement of the symphony, also of the splashes of color and the reckless though controlled climax of the third.

It was with this fifth concerto by Beethoven, the "Emperor," that Mr. Petri introduced himself to Chicago on his first visit. Yesterday, as on the first occasion, he was an authoritative, forceful interpreter, with a definite idea as to the performance and definite means of attaining his idea. There were times yesterday when his playing seemed somewhat less smooth technically than before, but these were small matters in comparison with the general outline created. He is to be heard again tomorrow night and Friday afternoon when he appears in the Brahms program.

"The Masque of Pandora," an opera with book by Henry W. Longfellow and music by Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer of Chicago, was presented in concert form at Kimball hall last night. It is the story of the first woman in Grecian mythology, who opened the jar that released all human woes on the earth, but with hope as the last inhabitant. It is a graceful book, and a good medium for Mrs. Freer's unfailingly fluent and often persuasive melodic gifts.

Lucinda Munroe and William Miller two good singers, were the leading artists, with lesser roles taken by Helen Grossbacher, Ada Belle Files, Eva Gordon Horadesky, Edwin Kemp, Jennings Fawcett, George Dopp, and Leslie Arnold. An instrumental ensemble from the Little Symphony played.

Front Views and Profiles By June Provinces

A reader writes that the other day she parked her car, leaving a copy of "The President's Daughter" in the seat. Returning shortly after she found the following composition—note in neat handwriting on an envelope, protruding from between the pages: "Dear Young Lady: If you can pardon a cab-driver's presumption—I take the liberty of suggesting that you resignate Nan Britton and her 'back-porch' progeny to the attic and attempt to avail yourself of the privilege of reading the following none the less erotic but interesting volumes. They carry my personal indorsement and, as I hold an M. A. degree from Tulane university, where I majored in literature, and being through a fault of my own the son of a university professor, I can't help but feel that I know whereof I speak."

His list followed and included "Aphrodite," by Pierre Louys; "Huyssmans" "La Bas"; "Gargantua," by Rabelais, and Ben Hecht's "Count Bruga."

ELLEN RYERSON, 5 years old daughter of the Joseph T. Ryersons, wrote her first composition, the other day at the girls' Latin school. Asked about it by a member of her family, she said that it wasn't a very long one. In fact, she could remember it word for word. It was about dinosaurs, and she quoted it in its entirety, as follows: "There once was a dinosaur but I never saw it."

FOR an hour the other evening we were, without regard to chronological accuracy, at a little gathering in London at the home of William Strahan, the king's printer. It was late in the 18th century, and the gathering was small, but distinguished, or, as Mr. Boswell phrased it, "prologue to Mr. Strahan's opening his new house to the vulgar." It was with some interest that we noted the manner in which the guests were seated—Benjamin Franklin at the host's right, the French ambassador at his left, Dr. Johnson next, and Gen. Paoli opposite Mr. Strahan.

The table was adorned with silver candlesticks and heavy plate and started out with hot turtle soup and a verbal encounter between Dr. Johnson and Dr. Franklin. Dr. Johnson, the outspoken old Tory, and Franklin, the wise and gracious Whig, had never met before, none having had the temerity to bring them together. And when we closed A. Edward Newton's slim, beautifully printed volume called "Mr. Strahan's Dinner Party," privately issued for the California Book club, the meeting seemed real, rather than apocryphal, so masterfully is the conversation handled, and so in key with the occasion.

"That's Gibbon, and out and out," exclaims Boswell. "And what did you say? I warrant you had the last word."

"I very courteously sent him a message to the effect that when he undertook to write a 'History of the Decline and Fall of the British Empire,' as he no doubt would, I should be glad to supply him with a mass of material which he might look for in vain elsewhere," Franklin answers.

And Johnson rudely interposes: "A fly, sir, may sting a stately horse and make him wince, but the one is but an insect and the other remains a horse." But perhaps you had better read the book if you can find a copy.

DANNIE, pet dog in a Wilmette home, was beloved for 14 years, and finally, when he became too old and feeble to enjoy life, was put to sleep by a veterinarian at the request of his mistress. She telephoned a close friend and reported the news to her.

"Dannie is dead," she said. "I'll be right over," the friend said.

In a quarter of an hour she arrived and sat with the sorrowing girl, attempting consolation. "... but he was so old and sick and feeble it didn't seem right to let him live any longer. That's why I had him chloroformed..." the weeping one narrated. Her friend sat up in horror.

"What? You chloroformed him?" she asked.

Explanations went on for some time before the friend discovered that the telephone message had been "Dannie is dead," not "Daddy is dead."

Society Girl Becomes Page in Mellon Bank; She's Learning Finance

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A society girl who made her debut in Washington, tried drama, and even bowed before royalty, has become a page in a Mellon citadel of finance.

She is Kathleen Knox, slim granddaughter of the late Philander C. Knox, attorney general under Presidents McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt and secretary of state in the Taft cabinet.

The young woman wears the regulation one-piece gray woolen frock with white pique collar which the other page girls in the Union Trust company wear.

And already she is demonstrating one of the traits for which Andrew W. Mellon is noted.

She is close-mouthed.

Other pages say the job requires such a quality, but Miss Knox would even say that much.

"I'm interested in learning banking or I wouldn't be here," is about the extent of her comment.

Miss Knox's hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCook Knox of Washington.

E. M. Delafield (Mrs. Dashwood) Arrives in City Today for Visit

English Author Will Be Guest of Arthur Meekers; Many Parties Planned for Her.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the most charming of English women and certainly one of the most delightful of English authors... E. M. Delafield, or in private life Edmee Elizabeth Monica de la Pasture Dashwood... is arriving in Chicago this morning to be the guest of the Arthur Meekers during the next week. This in itself bespeaks an interesting number of luncheons, receptions, and dinners during the next several days among society's intelligentsia.

Mrs. Dashwood... the daughter of the late Comte de Marquis Henri de la Pasture who traveled to England after the French revolution, the wife of Arthur Paul Dashwood, who is the son of Sir George Dashwood and Lady Margaret Seymour, and the author of "The Diary of a Provincial Lady" and "The Provincial Lady in London"... hopes to gather enough material for a new book, or at least the framework of a story, during her stay here. So it will not be at all surprising if some of our "literati" find themselves quoted, or described during days to come as the result of the parties planned.

The Meekers are inviting a few of their special friends to meet the distinguished visitor at tea this afternoon at their Lake Shore drive apartment. On Friday evening they will entertain at dinner for her following the tea the English Speaking union is to have at the Tavern. During the afternoon Friday Mrs. Dashwood will hear a concert by Chicago's Symphony orchestra. The P. E. N. club will have a dinner for her Monday evening at the Casino.

Because Mrs. Dashwood prefers to be as near the Fair as possible and because the Meekers' apartment is well filled with their returning family (young Mr. Meeker arrived yesterday from a European holiday and the Ambrose Cramers have just been at home a few days), she is stopping at the Fortnightly as Mrs. Meeker's guest.

Plan Welcome Party for Whitmans.

Mrs. Charles Edward Brown got busy on the telephone yesterday and invited some of her daughter's friends to the luncheon the former Betty Brown is giving Friday at the Casino for the Chapman-Penn wedding party, thus turning it into a party for the brand new Mr. and Mrs. Allen Earle Whitman, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown haven't yet recovered from the surprise they experienced Monday night when Betty telephoned them to tell them she and young Mr. Whitman had just been married, but they are looking forward to coming with open arms the bride and bridegroom when they arrive some time before Friday noon. Mr. Brown will meet his son-in-law for the first time when he comes to Chicago, but Mrs. Brown knows him, as do those of Betty's friends who have visited at Bar Harbor and on Long Island, where Mr. Whitman lives.

When we announced that Miss Brown had been chosen chairman of the Juniors of the Alliance Francaise, recently we wondered if she would follow in the footsteps of the other two chairmen, Paula Wilms and Marjorie Goodman, who both had resigned when they were to be married, but little did we think that she would

By NORVAL RICHARDSON

SHEILA, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, a Paris newspaper man, is her friend and confidant. Bun agrees to help James H. Finlay, an elderly, wealthy American, to find his young wife, Helene. He wants no publicity. He had met Helene after the war in Bucharest. He had installed her family, the Bobanoffs, in a villa on the Riviera at Grasse. Her brother, Fernon, he had brought to America. No had can be found of Helene and her parents since the last time she returned to visit them. Bun's suspicions are aroused by Finlay's niece, Mrs. Crawford, and her ominous appearing butler. A recent newspaper picture showing Helene standing with a tall woman in a group as Bun arrives in Paris is so on. That same night Finlay is murdered. Bun's apartment is broken into by a masked man and woman; he is killed. Bun meets the real Robert Finlay and learns that the other was an impostor. Bun is attracted to him, but believes he is in love with Helene. He urges her to continue the quest with him. Mrs. Crawford appears at the hotel. That night Bun and Robert motor to the dreary villa of Countess Veranodon and gain admission. She denies knowing Helene.

INSTALLMENT XXI. A FALL FROM A WINDOW.

During the few moments that followed her explanation the Countess Veranodon and Finlay looked at each other steadily. Bun, watching them, felt that it was a sort of test of wills, his frankly doubting, hers determined to be polite but a little bored.

"It would seem, from what you say, that we have made a mistake in thinking you could give us some information."

Again there was a murmured "I'm so sorry" and a slight pause in which she appeared to be waiting for them to leave. Then, with an obvious intention of speeding them on their way, she added: "Perhaps you could find out more in Grasse. If your step-mother's family lived there—surely—"

"They are no longer there."

"Ah!"

"That was my reason for coming to you. I dislike being insistent, but—the photograph of my step-mother is unmistakable. As is the one of you. It seems impossible that you should not know her."

The woman's eyes shifted to Bun with a lurking expression of annoyance.

Bun sprang up in the car to see more distinctly.

ance that there should be so much insistence upon a subject of little interest to her; but this was merely suggested, not entirely confessed.

"It is quite possible that I did meet her—that we were photographed together, even," this with a smile that was still gracious but with a touch of condescension in it. "Harris—once one is launched there, is a bit informal. My group is disposed to welcome any one who is amusing and attractive—as I am sure your step-mother would be. It is only my stupidity that has made me forget her. I hope you will forgive me. But—after all—she will surely be able to explain. I take it she is not with you now?"

"She has not been heard of since last March," Finlay blurted out.

"You mean she has disappeared?"

"Finlay nodded.

"How shocking! And you were counting upon some information—some help—from me? I am so distressed. But—of course there are ways of finding out."

"What would you suggest?" Finlay asked, growing more and more impatient as the woman's manner obviously irritated him.

"It really—hardly know. I only thought—"

"She again looked at Bun and made a little movement with her hands as if to express mild surprise that such a question should be put to her.

"Would you permit me to bring the photograph to you tomorrow?" Finlay went on with what Bun thought had now become dogged determination.

"Tomorrow? Alas—I'm leaving here early in the morning. Could you not send it to me—I think my seeing it would serve any purpose. Frankly I hardly think it would. But I am quite willing to do anything that—"

"Where are you going from here?"

"She paused. Bun was sure now that the lurking annoyance was showing more frankly in her eyes. "I am taking a boat at Nice for Corsica."

"Then you will pass through Cannes tomorrow morning?"

"No. I'm driving straight from here into Nice. There is a hill road, you know. But—might I know why you ask that?"

"I was wondering if it would be possible for you to pass through Cannes—just for a few moments—time enough to see the photograph. It is a good deal to ask of you, I know. But this matter is vastly important to me. If, by any chance, seeing the photograph recalled my step-mother to you, it would be of tremendous aid to me. Also—it might save you some trouble later."

"Save me trouble? I don't think—"

"I mean when the Stretet in Paris are shown this photograph and told that it is a picture of you and my step-mother taken together."

Bun felt a quick thrill of admiration for Finlay. Such astuteness was the last thing she had expected of him—especially in an encounter with a woman like this one. And the effect of his words upon the woman was marked. For the first time since she had entered the room her cool poise showed signs of being shaken. But only for a moment.

"Naturally—I am quite ready to do what I can—if the photograph is really of me. What time could I see it tomorrow morning?"

"At any time that would be convenient."

"She considered this. "Then—shall we say about ten o'clock? My boat sails at noon."

"Thank you. I will expect you."

Finlay bowed and made a motion to go toward the door. The woman inclined her head and moved to one side to let him pass.

"I hope you will pardon my seeming lack of hospitality," she said suavely as they all moved into the corridor. "I only arrived a few minutes before you and, as I said, my visit is only for a few hours. You can see for yourself the dreary atmosphere of this place."

She stopped at the door and looked back and was met by a gracious inclination of the head. Finlay and Bun bowed and were let out the front door by the waiting servant. The moment they were in the car the door was quickly closed with a grating sound. Finlay descended at the road gate to close it after they had driven out. While waiting for him, Bun turned and glanced back at the house. Once more not a single light was visible. Then, almost as if in answer to her mental comment upon its dreariness, the window over the main door—the one which had been opened first at their knock—was thrown wide open and the figure of a woman leaned out with outstretched arms. Bun sprang up in the car to see more distinctly. She caught Finlay by the arm and pointed towards the apparition. For a few moments neither of them spoke; then, with a cry that wavered pitifully through the night, the woman swayed in the window, sprang at last on to the sill and fell forward out into the darkness.

Quickly following the woman's scream and her fall out into the night, the front door of the house was thrown open and a broad shaft of light truck across the driveway. Several people rushed out and appeared to be searching in the shadows.

"I'm going back there," Finlay said after a moment of silent watching. Someone has evidently been hurt—perhaps killed. We may be able to do something. Do you think the woman fell from the window?"

Bun followed beside him. "No. She jumped. I'm sure of it—unless—"

"Unless what?"

"She was pushed out."

Finlay muttered to himself: "That's what I thought, too. Good God—that sort of a place have we stumbled on?"

They hurried along the driveway.

Company coming, ice cream in the refrigerator, but no cookies or cakes in the house! Do you know my answer? It's crackers. For crackers may be fashioned into some of the tastiest, crispest dessert accompaniments you've ever tried, and what's better yet, they're not rich enough to give that stuffed feeling we sometimes get from our beloved cakes.

First for a cocoa wafer for the chocolate lovers.

COCOA WAFERS.

Mix two tablespoons of cocoa with enough hot milk to make a thin paste. Cook until thickened. Add one tablespoon of sugar and spread the mixture on crackers. Place in a hot oven for a moment. Remove and cool.

This chocolate coating may also be used for decorating animal crackers for the growing-ups. It will make admirable stripes on zebras and cunning spots on dogs, cows, and bears.

Lemon Graham wafers form another cracker treat. They're especially good for appealing childish appetites between meals.

LEMON GRAHAM WAFERS.

Molten 1 cup of powdered sugar with 2 tablespoons of lemon juice. Spread this mixture between graham crackers, sandwich fashion. Let them stand an hour to harden before using.

Marguerites have long been favorites of ours. So here's a new variety which guests will cheer.

CARAMEL PECAN MARGUERITES.

1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup water
5 marshmallows
2 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup broken pecan meats
Crackers

Boil the sugar and water until the syrup will thread. Add the marshmallows cut into pieces. Pour the mixture slowly over the egg whites, beat stiff. Add the vanilla and nut meats. Spread the crackers with the mixture and bake in a moderate oven until delicately browned.

Dainty tea wafers are made by topping small round crackers with half marshmallows. Toast in a moderately hot oven until the marshmallows become soft and delicately browned. Remove from the oven and press a marshmallow cherry into the top of each.

Another treat is fashioned by spreading current jelly between long crisp crackers laid sandwich fashion.

Or for a more aristocratic dessert use graham crackers in a torte.

APPLESAUCE TORTE.

16 large graham crackers
1/4 cup butter
2 cups applesauce
1/2 cup evaporated milk
3 eggs, separated
Juice and rind of 1/2 lemon

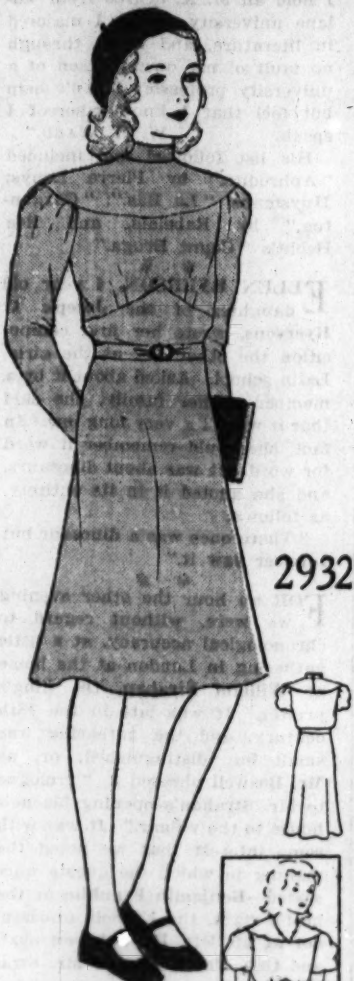

Roll the crackers until fine and combine with the melted butter. Line a greased pan with half of this. Add the beaten egg yolks, evaporated milk, lemon juice and rind to the applesauce and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour over the cracker crumbs, cover with the remaining crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven at 350 degrees F. until firm. Let cool in the oven. Serve with whipped cream.

Filmland Spurs Petite Chorines Without Brains

Beauty and Nimble Feet Not Enough.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—They tell you here in Hollywood that even the chorus girls have to have brains; that a million dollar pair of tooties prevails naught against an empty head. Which, we personally claim, is asking a good deal for the tired business gentleman's evening. But our private opinions are neither here nor there in this matter of pulchritude and chorus girl.

But because they come seeking chorus jobs in droves, perhaps it would be just as well to warn the girls not to be too hasty about setting out to lift the old home mortgage. There may be more gold clinking around the soda fountain down at the corner drug store.

Leroy Prinz, who picks them for Paramount, likes them to have style and enough height to carry clothes. Well, say 5 feet 3 or 4. The little girl doesn't wear clothes so well.

You ask, why the clothes emphasis with chorus girls? Well, Mr. Prinz says you can tell whether a girl is smart, up on her toes, and there by the way she dresses. If she's a smart dresser, shows taste, you know she's not dumb. Also, in these fast dance movements, and snappy, the brain has to be working. As with boxers, there must be quick coordination between brain and footwork, or the show doesn't go on. Mental alertness, then, we shall call this up to date requirement of chorines. A comparison with the 1929 group of these young women treading the boards in film musicals finds the 1929 tone huskier, more athletic than the '28 group. The latter are more feminine, curved a bit, but a far cry from the public interpretation of a Mae West curve. To you and me they look pretty slim and slender.

Toby Wing is perhaps the most famous chorus beauty in Hollywood, since she was recently elected the chorus beauty of 1933. And what a beauty that young woman is! Flatulent haired, delft blue eyes, tall, slender, and beautifully curved. Approaches her 18th birthday—and wishes she was 17 again. She was wearing a beautiful star-sapphire, just recently acquired a heavenly blue angora sweater suit, and a cute ribbon band in her hair, which she is popular among the younger group. She might be somebody's debutante daughter, smart and ladylike. She is a good example of the changed type of pretty girl today, which she is popular among the younger group. to meet their friends in one of the second floor galleries, where, while they admire and visit their favorite paintings, they will listen to music played by several members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Art Exhibition Closes Wednesday.

It doesn't seem possible that the Century of Progress art exhibit will be closed next Wednesday night at 10:30 o'clock, but such is the case. Unfortunately, however, the rest of the museum will remain open to the public, free, until the close of the Fair.

Chauncey McCormick told us yesterday that Lord Duven, who is just back from Europe, was expected last Monday to visit the Century of Progress art exhibit, and that he would be in the city for several days.

A wire immediately was sent to him advising him that although the Exposition would be open until Nov. 13, the art exhibit could not be kept open longer than Nov. 1, so probably the noted connoisseur will change his mind again and come to Chicago before the 1st.

"There isn't a better place in Chicago to have a Halloween party than the Saddle and Cycle club, so it goes without saying that all of those who attend the witch's holiday dinner dance Saturday evening under its low roof will have a very gay and festive time.

Robert Purchas is to have one of the largest parties, with two dozen guests at his table. Dr. and Mrs. Frank Wickes Blatchford are entertaining twelve of their friends, and both the Peter Connors and the Champ Carrys will be hosts and hostesses to a dozen or fourteen guests.

Boys' Club Board to Give Benefit.

Many of the young "warriors" in town and on the north shore will attend the Halloween party the Union League Foundation for Boys' Clubs has planned for Friday night at the Union League club. Every young man who is a trustee, and the foundation is inviting his friends to come to the party and so help raise the extra money needed to carry on the work at the clubs this winter.

The foundation supports two boys' clubs on the west side where between four and five hundred play daily and where two hundred are fed each day. Most of the money is raised by private subscription, but the demands are so great this year that the trustees deemed it necessary to raise some extra funds and the younger ones volunteered to give a benefit party.

After dinner there will be dancing, bridge and all sorts of games. George A. Poole, Jr., J. B. Conant, Fred Donnelly, Harris Wilder, Wade Fetter Jr., Lyman Drake and Edward F. Wilson are some of the young men planning the affair.

John Paulding Brown, who was a classmate and a club member of President James B. Conant at Harvard when they were undergraduates at that university, will tell about the new president at the annual meeting of the Harvard club of Chicago tonight at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club. Harry L. Wells, father of Harry K. (Dan) Wells, quarter back of the Harvard football team, will talk about "Who's Who on the Team This Year."

Junior League Holds Clothes Sale Tomorrow.

At 8 o'clock tomorrow morning the doors of the shop at 549 North Michigan avenue (the southeast corner of Michigan and Ohio streets) will be thrown open to the women who have been waiting for the last six months for the next Junior League second hand clothes sale.

Miss Catherine Noyes is in charge of tomorrow's sale and there will be 66 members of the league, including a number of provisions, members, selling the bargains, under the direction of Miss Honore White. Miss Jean Armstrong and Miss Peggy Wilder will be "man" the cash registers and Miss Dorothy Heinke will be in charge of wrapping.

Miss Mary White, the attractive young daughter of Gov. George White of Ohio, is arriving from Columbus this morning with Mrs. Herbert S. Atkinson to be the house guests the next several days of Mrs. Louis E. Yager of Oak Park. Mrs. Atkinson, whose husband's stables are one of the prides of the equestrian world in Columbus, and Mrs. Yager are sisters.

Tomorrow noon Mrs. Yager is entertaining for her two guests at a small luncheon at the Stevens, after which she will have a reception and musical for them in the World's Fair headquarters of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, also at the Stevens. In the evening they will attend the World's Fair horse show which Miss White and Mrs. Atkinson have come to Chicago especially to see.

Tibbett to Sing at Scout Benefit.

Next Monday the Girl Scouts will come of age and they're going to celebrate this important event with the first of a brilliant series of autumn and winter concerts in Orchestra hall. Lawrence Tibbett, the artist Monday evening. Among those who are planning parties are Mrs. William S. Monroe, who heads the Chicago Girl Scout council; Mrs. Arthur Parwell, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay, Mrs. John W. Gray, Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, Mrs. William Preston Hodgkins, and Mrs. H. Newton Hudson.

The directors of the North Avenue Day Nursery have an eye to business when they placed the invitations for their annual benefit party the evening of Nov. 4 at the Drake, for who can resist the "Diamond Lil" appeal of the little black and white folders? In harmony with the "Diamond Lil" character of the affair, costumes of the gay '30s are in order, the invitation explains, but not obligatory. Mrs. George Jaeger is the president of the North Avenue board this year.

There is disappointment for those who were looking forward to welcoming back for a visit this winter the former Mrs. Arthur Ryerson, now Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesse. Her son, John B. Ryerson, informs us that his mother is settled in her new house on the Riviera and that she is not coming to this country before next summer at the earliest. Mrs. Arthur M. Barnhart with her son, Arthur Barnhart, left by motor yesterday for Augusta, Ga. Arriving there on Thursday Mr. Barnhart will deliver an address in the southern part of the state. Mr. Barnhart and his mother will continue their journey north to New York, where they will have several days at Briarcliff, returning home in a fortnight or three weeks.

Bride

Miss Idelle Babette Inlander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Inlander of 6729 Ridgeland avenue, will be married to Louis Warsaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warsaw of 1344 South Komensky avenue, on Saturday at the Shoreland hotel.

Although Friday, Saturday, and Sunday are to be a "closed" week-end for the students at Ferry hall [this means that they can't leave Lake Forest], not one of them is regretting it, for there is to be a gay round of festivity. A carnival at the school on Friday night opens the three day celebration, then come a horse show in the Onwentsia ring Saturday afternoon, and a Halloween party on the campus Saturday night. The highlight is the horse show, for it will be the first in the history of Ferry hall. Twenty-one girls will compete.

Mary Henry Guest of Miss Ruden.

There was many a young person at the World's Fair Horse show last night who envied Miss Mary Ruden and her house guest, Miss Mary Ingram Henry, for the two Marys had many special privileges at the Armory. Miss Henry is the daughter of Gen. Guy V. Henry, chief of cavalry of the U. S. army, who is here to judge the international jumping in the show.

She came west with her father last week-end, but she expects to remain at least a fortnight after his departure the end of this week, for it has been several months since she has seen her best friend, Miss Ruden. The daughter of Mrs. J. Daniel Ruden, Miss Ruden and her mother came to Chicago last spring to make their home, at least temporarily, with Mrs. Ruden's brother, James B. Johnson, at 1347 State parkway.

This is the first time that Miss Ruden and Miss Henry have been separated, for they grew up together in Washington.

Sunbeam League Ball on Nov. 4.

The Mediterranean Cruise ball of the Sunbeam league will be held on Nov. 4 at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Otto Mast, who is the chairman of this year's party, has received a letter from Mrs. Roosevelt expressing enthusiasm and support for the league's work in assisting crippled children.

On her recent visit to the city Mrs. Roosevelt expressed interest in the crippled children who are trained at the Spaulding school on West Washington boulevard. It is at this school that the league maintains one of the kindergartens supported principally through the proceeds derived from the autumn party.

By now two hundred people along the north shore will have received the word to the opening dance of the North Shore Fortnightly, which is presenting its fourth annual series of six formal parties to take place at the Evanston Country club. The first dance will be held the evening of Nov. 18.

Mrs. Robert T. Porter is chairman of this year's party committee and Mrs. Arthur B. Siebold Jr. is vice chairman.

Assemblers Will Hold Dance Series.

The Assemblers, whose ancestry is traced to the old Neighborhood club that used to enlist some of the very best vitality in its ranks, announce that they are going to hold their monthly assemblies this year in the Gold Coast room and the Avenue of Palms at the Drake hotel. The first party is to be next Saturday evening, beginning at 10 o'clock, with breakfast shortly after midnight.

The monthly dressmakers' sale will take place at the Rummage shop, 27 East Ohio street, tomorrow. Besides materials and odd pieces, there will be some old fashioned costumes on sale. Plans are moving forward for the Stars and Stripes festival for the junior board of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children is to have the evening of Nov. 10 in the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel.

Routine Saves Wear and Tear on Mothers

One Lists Her Ingenious
Time Savers.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
A mother has recently written to me explaining how she planned her day. These suggestions it seemed to me might be helpful to other mothers also. She writes:

"In the first place I had to work out a schedule for two children of widely different ages. It worked so successfully for me with two that I think it would be a life saver for the mother with a new baby.

"Diapers and bottles cause the most difficulty I found. Feeling that it was an unnecessary waste of time to wash every day we bought enough diapers to last a week—six dozen. We rinsed out each soiled diaper immediately and thoroughly dried it in the fresh air, then put it away. It took us two hours, one evening a week, with the washing machine to do the week's supply. Many mothers spend that long every day.

"We boiled bottles while we did the dinner dishes at night, and by the time the last dish was dried our next day's feedings were ready to store in the refrigerator—so much better than making a real job of it in the middle of the morning.

"I took the children out during the baby's nap time so that while he was asleep I could allow him to exercise freely in his crib or on the floor and handle different objects. They were both out of doors every day from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 3 to 4 p. m. My housework is always secondary to me, but I do spend a few minutes every day dusting and vacuuming!

"Young babies can be given orange juice from a spoon as soon as it is prescribed and this begins their first step toward weaning. Later water can be given in a cup, and by the time the baby is old enough for the cereal he can drink well enough to have his milk in a cup, too—a bite of cereal and a swallow of milk instead of the usual cereal feeding followed by the bottle. In this way there never is a fuss about bottles when the baby is old enough for his three meals.

"Perhaps you do not know that this department covers the physical care of babies up to two years of age by having its own baby book, 'Building the Baby,' by Carolyn Van Buren. It may be obtained from the CHICAGO TRIBUNE PUBLIC SERVICE for 60c.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

(Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.)

EGYPT—LAND OF MYSTERY.

"You all remember the discovery of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb by the distinguished archaeologist, Lord Carnarvon in 1923 and the subsequent opening of the sarcophagus in early 1924? Prof. Fordney said to several of his fellow club members seated comfortably in the lounge:

"Well," he continued, "a few months later a young, but learned friend of mine, Sir Horace Bing, set out to discover the tomb of an even more ancient Pharaoh. Bing was, and is, a student of a most retiring disposition. Did he permit his name to be published, he would, unquestionably be known as the world's greatest Egyptologist; but he won't. Queried as to a chap he is:

"Good fortune and an almost uncanny knowledge of his subject led him to a spot not three miles from the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen. Despite the fact this ground had been covered and searched by many other scientists, it was only a few weeks before he discovered and entered the tomb of a much more powerful Pharaoh than that found by Carnarvon.

"After noting the date 1412 B. C. on the sarcophagus and otherwise satisfying himself the enclosed mummy was the one he sought he sealed the tomb, swore his little party of Englishmen to secrecy and returned to England. To this day no one but they know where it is. Even though he would not the story himself he refused any explanation to his queer conduct." Fordney went on. "I've tried to persuade him to . . .

"In the language of the day," interrupted Bob Curtis, "Nerzil!"

WHY DIDN'T HE BELIEVE FORDNEY'S STORY?

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it to him care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Paris Raises Pocket Quota of Suits and Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

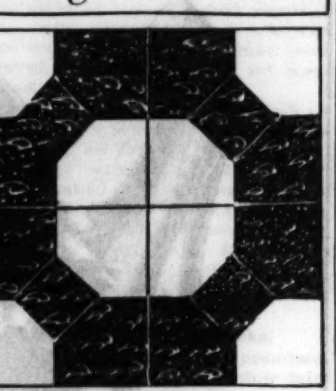

PARIS.—(Special.)—A big chapter could be written about fashionable pockets this fall. Evidently we're to have plenty of places to stow our floating property. Pockets are especially prevalent on two-piece dresses and suits, and on big sports coats. Lots of jumper blouses have four pockets, two breast pockets, and two on the hips, and many a suit jacket gets the same quota. Usually such pockets are patch, and are buttoned at the top.

Maggy Rouff prefers very big pouch pockets held closed by buttons, and she puts them at the sides of her hip-length jumper blouses and jackets below the waistline to make a peplum-like flare, because this flare is one big feature of the Rouff collection. The way they look can be seen at a glance in our sketch.

This is a two-piece dress made of angora woolen in dark green. The blouse buttons right up the front to the small standing collar on square brown leather buttons that are pierced in the middle for sewing on. The skirt has a row of buttons down the sides below the belt. The plain sleeves have small turned-back cuffs of the goods. The skirt has a panel down the front, with box plaits set in from knees to hem.

Old Bow Necktie Pattern Becomes "Magical Circle"

Magical Circle.

BY NANCY CABOT.
Old, but surprisingly modern in appearance, is this quaintly named "Magical Circle" quilt pattern. It's a variation of the old and famous "Necktie" design, with the cloth placed to form a circle. It's attractively made in either prints or plain colors.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Presbyterian Council Will Meet in Chicago Today

The twenty-four executive heads of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. meet today as the general council of that church in executive sessions at the Drake hotel. The council will be held under the chairmanship of Dr. John McDowell of New York, moderator of the general assembly. The mission budget of the church will be considered and plans for a nation-wide spiritual revival may be made.

Wise Stylist Designs Hat Just for You

Accomplish Miracles with Felt and Fabric.

BY RHEA SEEGER.
Vivacious fingers are accomplishing positive miracles with felt and fabric. And while it isn't anything new to have a hat molded on your head, there are those who do it a bit more persuasively and flatteringly than others.

It takes a short half hour when your head is officially recorded, the felt is rushed to the block, and while the shapless mass is being steamed to suit your cranial measurements, the designers, with searching eyes, quickly and surely decide what you can best wear in the way of fascinating new hats.

Back comes the shaped felt, and over the skull it fits, while a pair of sharp scissors race around cutting out headlines, back necklines, and certain sections over the ears, and you'll gasp while the latter daringly defies all your suppressed bad features and accentuates them all even to a hair. They are the best you can brag over. Watch a knowing hatter out and fashion one of the extreme but flattering "baby bonnet" hats for just the person who wears them with hilariously funny things on the head, but vastly becoming on!

Or if you yearn for a perfect hat with a brim, one that will make you mysterious, feminine, and best breaking, let a hatter do her best. Park your likes and dislikes at the door. The only way you can be sure of something different, something infinitely becoming, diverting, and greatly different from anything you have ever worn, and something in a hat that is yours and yours alone, is to march in and let the hatter, turning fingers have their charmed way with your head and hat.

At any rate, he goes around bragging he has the best sport wite on earth and one he can tell everything to. I feel I save him the trouble of making up alibis and excuses, and myself the broken faith that so often comes with discovery of false alibis and excuses.

Mrs. Charles S. Meacham will entertain the study department of the Colonial Coverlet guild at 2 o'clock this afternoon at her home, 322 Linden avenue, Oak Park. Mrs. J. W. Young, a member of the guild, will give a program entitled "Brides of Other Days."

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Carolyn Pape, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Pape of 2250 Pleasant avenue, to Frederic Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., was announced yesterday. The ceremony was read Monday at noon in the Episcopal church of the Holy Nativity by the Rev. Thomas Bellinger. Mr. Mercur is the son of a Congregationalist of Grace Church, Chicago, and is one of the ranking tennis players of the United States. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Mercur will reside at Bethlehem.

DOCTORS URGE THE USE OF A LIQUID LAXATIVE FOR CHILDREN

Doctors urge the use of a liquid laxative for children; preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna does not weaken the bowels.

Druggists report increasing sales of liquid laxatives. Mothers are rapidly discovering the advantage of the liquid form. Thousands of cases of ill-health and half-heartedness in children are being cleared-up by stopping all use of laxatives of adult strength.

Parents, Take Notice!

Did you know a laxative that works just right for you, can work havoc with a child?

That the laxative habit can be contracted at the age of six?

And that the wrong laxative can give children chronic constipation before their tenth birthday?

You wouldn't give your children a powerful headache powder! You shouldn't give them a violent cathartic.

The Laxative Habit can be Avoided!

The preparation most favored for child use is California Syrup of Figs. It is a fruity syrup with the right amount of senna for gentle stimulation of a child's bowels. It gives the right kind of help. If the bowels aren't moving regularly and thoroughly, don't give any medicine that drains the system dry. Give a liquid senna preparation like California Syrup of Figs. A little every day, and reduce the doze each day. At the end of one week—stop. You'll be surprised how long it will be before the bowels need any further help. It may be months.

Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs, with "California" on the label. If you get the right preparation, and use it the right way, you can absolutely end all worry over constant sluggish spells, bilious attacks, constipation.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

Holds Husband by Refraining from Questions

BY DORIS BLAKE.
HOLLYWOOD.—(Special.)—We were talking with the wife of one of the actors here in Hollywood. Her name is withheld by request, out of respect to the husband, but this woman has managed to hold her mate, a handsome and attractive one, against Hollywood odds for a good many years. (As marriage time is reckoned here, at least.)

Said she, "I couldn't compete with those glamorous young things that abound hereabout. I'm getting on to ward middle age (as is her husband) and I know I have to bring something else to the game than massaging clothes and such. I gave up a stage career when I married. I knew something about the life of an actor. So I knew I had to give him something different in competition. Therefore, I simply retired into domestic life, so to speak, and I've been working at it just like any other woman anywhere else in the world who loves her man and wants to hold him.

"I don't go in for any of the public appearance scenes that might be attributed to one in my position. I'm little more than a handmaiden with a couple of youngsters whose spinach has to be cooked and clothes mended, with all the usual household duties thrown in. But I've been clever in one thing, I maintain, a rule I think might be just as applicable to women outside the profession as in.

"I never ask a question about where my husband has been, whom he has seen, or what he has been doing. I sit back and wait for him to tell. If he feels disinclined to talk I let it go. If he opens up and tells, as he generally does at some time, of his arrival home or the next morning, I am interested, and do not criticize.

"At least, he has the feeling he is not in the hands of a keeper and consequently, I believe, is more honest with me than were I to be constantly nagging and trying to pry information out of him. At any rate, he goes around bragging he has the best sport wite on earth and one he can tell everything to. THE STAGE

Dennis King, whose inactivity since his great voque in "The Vamborn King" has puzzled many of his Chicago admirers, is now in London, where he has purchased the American rights to an opera called "Richard of Bordeaux." The show is having a successful run on the London stage.

Tallulah Bankhead's New York premiere in "Jezebel," a play once considered by Katharine Cornell, is now scheduled for Dec. 13. The actress' sudden illness caused an abandonment of rehearsals several weeks ago. Guthrie McClintic, Katharine Cornell's husband, is staging the drama, which was written by Owen Davis.

Katharine Cornell's week in the Davidson theater, Milwaukee, will begin Dec. 4. She will give "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" for her first five performances, and will stage "Romeo and Juliet" on Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee, Dec. 8 and 9.

The European play called "Her Man of Wax," with Lenore Ulric as its star, ended its New York engagement last Saturday, after two weeks' performances. "et Lightning," which was staged on Broadway Sept. 17, also dropped out of the running.

PREDICTS 90,000 WILL GET ROAD JOBS IN SPRING

Federal Engineer Tells of Progress in 4 States.

BY HAL FOUST.

In the Chicago district of the United States bureau of public roads, consisting of four states, 90,000 men will be employed by next spring on highway projects financed with federal money. The allotments to these states, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Kentucky, total $47,862,199.

The estimate on employment was made yesterday by James T. Voshell, the bureau's district engineer in Chicago, after reviewing the progress made by the states' highway departments in getting road plans approved by Washington for construction with the federal money.

Expected Work Tabulated.

The total allotments for roads to these four states are shown in the following table with the estimated cost of the projects that have been approved and with a rough reckoning of the number of men who will be employed on the jobs by next spring:

State	Allotment	Approved	Men
Illinois	$17,279,770	$1,087,330	39,730
Indiana	10,037,843	3,774,217	19,500
Michigan	12,729,227	2,478,000	23,000
Kentucky	7,817,359	3,236,030	14,750

Total, $47,862,199 $9,575,587 90,000
"Illinois has been slow," said Mr. Voshell, who is an engineer under civil service, taking no part in politics, "because the government money must be spent on the federal aid road system. The former administration in Springfield awarded contracts covering almost all of the federal aid mileage in the state. The Illinois highway department had to await legislative authority to extend the federal aid system and then had to locate the extensions and to design the construction for these extensions."

Illinois Concrete Design.

Mr. Voshell and State Highway Engineer Lieberman clarified most of the questions raised about these new Illinois specifications.

A feature of the new design causing most of the talk is an expansion joint intended to lessen the cracking of concrete slab. The federal bureau of public roads on Oct. 5 attended its rules so that it could approve the use of a patented device when the cost was reasonable and when the cost of the patented article was a minor portion of the cost of the entire project.

The state has installed some of these joints on some downstate jobs. The device was purchased from the American Concrete Expansion Joint company, 221 North La Salle street. The patent was obtained by Eric Hall, architect, and William H. Elchelman, engineer, both of whom were employed on Cook county work when the late Anton J. Cermak was president of the county board.

Tells Value of New Joints.

The development in 1933 of expansion and contraction joints, which will eliminate the cracking of pavements, was termed a major step forward in road building by Acting Director Robert Kingery of the state department of public works and buildings.

"By midsummer of this year," Kingery said, "the efficiency and effectiveness of one of the types of expansion and contraction joints being tested by the highway department had been demonstrated conclusively and it was approved by the highway department."

"Being a patented article, the department, conforming to the administration policy of using competitive materials, prepared specifications which are open to any product which meets the requirements the engineers have found to be essential. The department continued to assist in the development of other joints of equal merit, one of which has been thoroughly tested on a ten mile section built this year and which is now in production."

MORE NRA HIGHWAYS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Employment for approximately 1,400 men will be provided by the second series of 15 NRA highway projects for construction in Illinois, and on which bids were received today by the state highway department.

The projects include almost 13 miles of paving, and three bridge sections, and involve the expenditure of approximately $282,000.

Practically all are within incorporated cities or villages. Contracts will be awarded immediately upon the receipt of federal approval of the bids, which is expected to be obtained before the end of the week.

Apparent Low Bidders.

Apparent low bidders for projects in or near Chicago today were:

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Kaiser, 1647 North Natick avenue. Her father, Henry A. Kaiser, is dead.

1 SLAIN, 4 SHOT IN BATTLE OVER STICK OF CANDY

On Monday a youth known as Pinkie Storey, colored, had a quarrel with Roy Hayes, 45 years old, colored, in the Hayes candy store at 2601 Webster avenue. The point at issue was whether the storekeeper was giving Storey a 1 cent or a 2 cent piece of candy for 2 cents.

Hayes kept the pennies and Storey had to abide by the deal. But yesterday Storey, carrying a pistol and accompanied by three other colored youths, went back. In the store were two Negro customers.

Pistol shots were fired by Storey. Hayes seized a pistol and shot, too. In the exchange Hayes was killed. Thomas Warren, 19 years old, 2719 South Dearborn street, a member of the Storey group, was wounded in the chest. Dorothy Jones, 14 years old, 639 East 33rd place, and Irving Brownlee, 19 years old, 3075 South Michigan avenue, the customers, suffered slighter wounds. Morris Brownfield, 38 years old, 5521 Lafayette avenue, a postman who was passing the store, was nicked on the left ear by a bullet. Storey escaped.

'Women Crazy About Me,' Husband Tells His Wife

Mrs. Helen Chemelick, 1447 49th avenue, Cicero, told Judge Rudolph Desort in the Superior court yesterday that her husband, Joseph Chemelick Jr., an electrician, had remarked to her on several occasions: "All women are crazy about me." He embarrassed her by trying to make engagements with her women friends when they called on her, she added. Judge Desort told her attorney, Norman Becker, to draw up a divorce decree on grounds of cruelty.

GOLD FLEES AS POLITICAL CRISIS GROWS IN FRANCE

Seek to Bar Socialists from Next Cabinet.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Foreign gold continued today to flow out of the coffers of the Bank of France. Menus' financial circles watched with tranquil eye the progress of the governmental crisis opened up by the defeat of Premier Edouard Daladier's cabinet in the chamber of deputies early this morning.

By all the signs, this crisis will be long and tough to untangle and a chaotic political situation accompanied by social disorders may develop. Nevertheless, responsible business circles view the crisis with actual relief. They feel that the chamber's vote definitely drove the Socialists out of the majority bloc and they welcome the disappearance from the government's policy of Socialist influence, which they consider more dangerous to the franc than anything else.

Admit Franc Is in Danger.

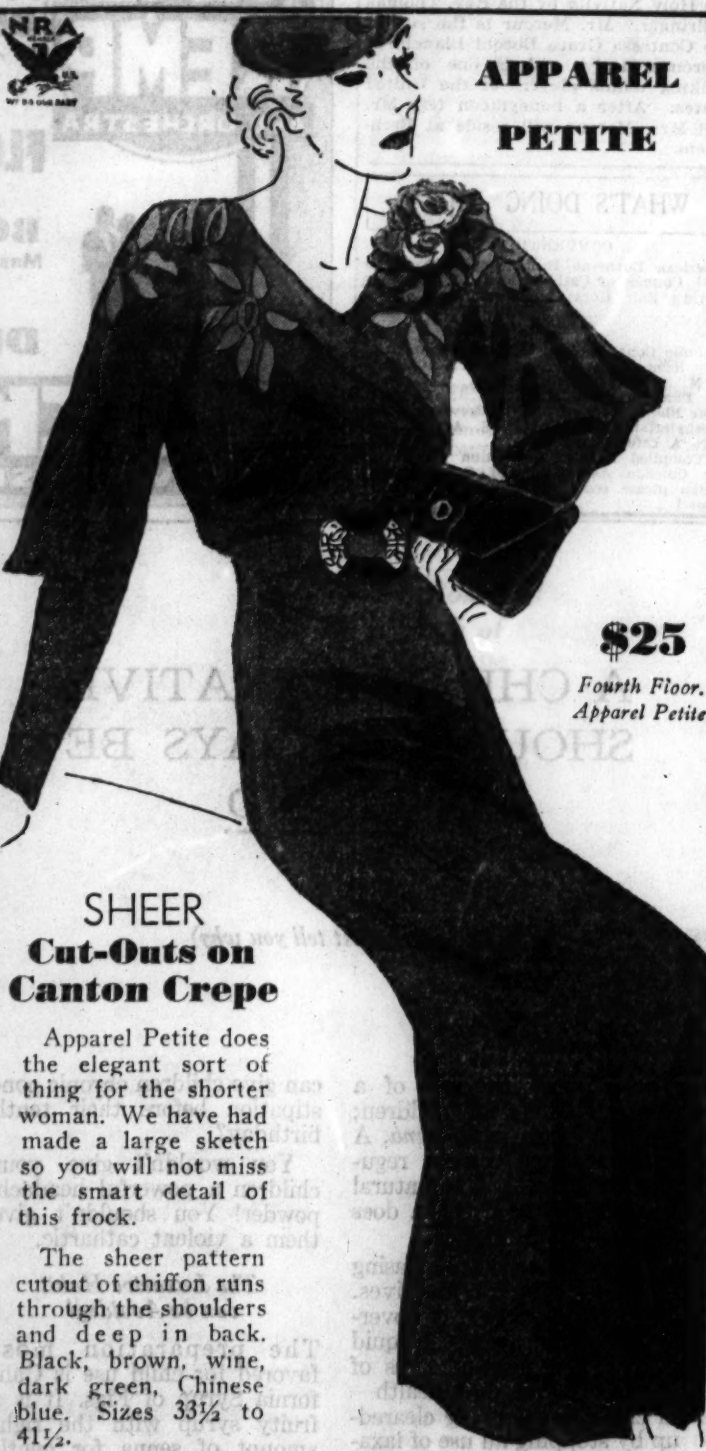

It is admitted that there is some danger to the franc, since the rest of the world will accept the overthrow of Daladier as proof that France is unable to balance its budget. This will shake confidence in the franc abroad and the drainage of gold is likely to continue.

The real key to the situation is whether a solid parliamentary majority without the Socialists can be formed, for it is now obvious that no majority which includes the Socialists will ever consent to the heroic economic measures which must be taken to wipe out the $320,000,000 deficit.

The difficulty is that the radicals are unwilling to form a coalition with the right because their electorate is strongly tinged with Socialist theories. Optimists believe that after a few weeks' confusion, during which the

KINGSFORD-SMITH IS GIVEN $15,000 FOR HIS RECORD FLIGHT

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 24.—[AP.]—No public offices being available as a reward the federal government of Australia announced today the grant of $15,000 to Air Commodore Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith.

The Australian people have voiced their hope since Oct. 11, when Kingsford-Smith set a seven day five hour record for the flight from England to Australia, that he be made a public official. The money has been granted instead.

"Topping," commented Sir Charles. He will use the award to establish himself in the aviation business.

Kingsford-Smith's time was bettered a week later by Flight Lieutenant Charles T. P. Ulm and three companions, who ended a six day 18 hour flight from England to Australia on Oct. 20.

franc will admittedly be under fire, the radicals will accept the offers of collaboration from moderate nationalists and a government will be formed strong enough to make the civil servants, war veterans, and tax free small employees accept sacrifices necessary to balance the budget. That is why the bourse was quiet today and government bonds were only in a mild slump.

Hunt in Vain for Premier.

Meanwhile, no definite prospects for a new premier have yet emerged from the political consultations being carried out by President Albert Lebrun at Elysee palace. Seasoned political observers are very reserved in their prognostications. They don't care to say whether the new government will be a solid one or just a makeshift to give the political situation time to evolve.

The great political question mark which underlies all negotiations is whether the Socialist chiefs who have been dictating much of the government's policies in the last year from behind the scenes really hold the whip hand over the moderate left parties or whether the governments formed by these parties have only yielded to pressure from the left out of temperamental weakness.

2½ MILLIONS OF EASY MONEY IS GIVEN CHICAGO

Goes for 18 Postoffices on "Approved" Sites.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Chicago walked off with 2½ million dollars out of the 23 millions in easy money which Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes doled out today.

Funds which Ickes allotted to Chicago are to go for construction of eighteen postoffice stations in the city, but Ickes warned that if real estate speculators endeavor to run up the price of sites the whole program may be blocked.

Ickes admitted that he had endeavored to keep allotments for postoffices in Chicago and six other large cities secret until some arrangement had been made about receiving bids for sites. Information leaked out from the treasury department, where the work will be supervised, and Ickes today issued a formal announcement.

The names of the 18 postal stations and the amounts allotted to each are:

Chicago		$114,000
Law		$133,000	Lake View	144,000
Orin		103,000	Lincoln Park	212,000

Hawthorne		136,000	234 Street	136,000
Hyde Park		128,000	Stockyards	111,000
Irving Park		106,000

L. W. Robert Jr., assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of buildings, will advertise for sites for all these stations within the present week, it was said at the treasury. All sites submitted may be rejected and the buildings abandoned if Ickes believes speculators have run their prices up.

Other Cities Staked.
The $2,650,000 which Ickes allotted to the stations was the only easy money which Chicago got out of the $22,974,000 handed out today. Of the rest, about 12 millions went to postal stations in Boston, Brooklyn, New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh.

California, which with New York has been the favored state on easy money allocations, dipped into the fed-

Move to Quash Racket Case Delayed Till Today

Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday continued until this morning the hearing on the defense argument to quash the indictments against 23 defendants charged with conspiracy to terrorize Chicago business men. The delay was granted because Attorney Benedict J. Short, representing Attorney Morris Kaplan, was busy in the trial of another case.

Ickes also announced another project which may bring easy money to Chicago. He declared that a federal housing corporation, financed and controlled by easy money, will be incorporated in Delaware soon to start low cost housing construction in various cities. Several Chicago projects of this type have been submitted, but none has been selected.

MICHIGAN FACES IMPROVED CHICAGO DEFENSE

BEST COLLEGE GAMES PAY OFF FOOTBALL DEBTS

Schedules Arranged Accordingly.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
The ever present worry of directors of athletics is the football schedule. From football comes the money to pay the interest on the stadium bonds, to support nearly all other forms of intercollegiate competition, and in many instances to contribute at least a part of the salaries of all members of his staff from gymnasium instructors to the head coaches.

It is no wonder then that football has been a subject for critics who have called "over emphasis." Football has its beginnings in the desire for college competition and it continues smaller, with minor intercollegiate games, and there, except in the counting room, the administration is professional and to continue the benefits it must be administered successfully from the standpoint of a business unless obligations are defaulted.

Michigan Best Drawing Card.
The Western conference, with more strict competitive regulations than any other association of universities, has its financial problems which may be solved only by successful football teams. Thus Harry Kipke's Michigan team, the best drawing card in the conference at this time, probably can pick its schedule as it pleases. Except for long established natural rivalries a game with Michigan will return more money than with any other university. Similarly, the universities with small stadiums, or those located in the smaller cities, are not favored as competitors by the larger universities.

For the same reasons that make Michigan a drawing card, Notre Dame is much sought after by the Western conference, more than any other university, is a national institution and thus a drawing card.

The Western conference, by its rule which prohibits games on other than home grounds without consent of the conference, protects the business interests of its members. Wisconsin, for example, no longer may play Notre Dame at Soldier's field without consent as it once did.

Strictly Money Games.
Last year a new type of intersectional contest was held when Notre Dame played the Navy at Cleveland. Army followed suit this year by taking its game with Illinois to the same city. These games, quite frankly, are money games.

The practice was started in the east, where it had been the competitive Army and Navy to visit large cities for their annual game. The Notre Dame-Army contest became a fixture in New York, when popular demand for tickets could not be met at West Point, where only 15,000 can be seated. Baltimore also is Navy's home field for important games.

There appears no logical reason why Army could not select Cleveland for the site of its Illinois game, Cleveland being willing, but if the citizens of Cleveland did not care to pay for high priced tickets, Army officials should not complain. They did complain Saturday night, when a quick estimate of the take showed a total of only $45,000.

Finds Out Too Late.
Prices were $1.20, $2.40, $3.60, with a few box seats at $6. The scale was much higher than the competitive attraction at Ann Arbor, Mich., on the same afternoon between Michigan and Ohio State. That Cleveland wanted to see Army and Illinois is attested by the sell out of $1.20 seats. But Army, having resisted all offers to lower the price scale, found out too late that its critics knew best.

The Notre Dame-Navy game at Cleveland in 1932 drew a paid attendance of 45,000 with an additional estimated 14,000 free tickets. Some of these were distributed on the basis of one free ticket for each 10 sold.

It is reported that Army set aside a $3,000 promotional fund. But Army, after insistence, doled out only 150 complimentary tickets for politicians and newspapermen. Not a single cameraman was reported injured at last Saturday's college games. . . . Slip Madigan's St. Mary's squad will work out at Wrigley field Monday and Tuesday en route to New York to play Fordham. . . . Chuck McGuire, former Maroon football captain, has been elected president of the Chicago District Ping-Pong association.

FULL QUOTA OF SCRIMMAGE TO TOUGHEN SQUAD

Varsity Balks Attack of Freshmen.

There was nothing theoretical about scrimmage at the University of Chicago football practice yesterday. Coach Clark Shugart, who has hitherto restricted his rehearsals to the dummy variety of combat, has decided that the dramatic approach to football doesn't provide for those final, intimate tests of contact work, and he has ordered an unrestrained battle for half an hour daily from now on.

Yesterday's performance tilted the freshmen, who have been tutored in Michigan formations, on offense against the Maroon varsity. That the freshmen didn't get anywhere was not the fault of the Michigan plays. Coach Shugart's plan to devote much time to defense these days, since his team mastered an entire season's attack during the first three weeks of practice.

Coordination Is Faulty.
Maroon line play did not come up to expectations last Saturday against Purdue. The Chicago boys were either outchained or outsmarted, and though the individual work was as competent as could be expected from a bunch of sophomores, coordination was faulty at several crucial spots. Only scrimmage work can correct that, it is felt, and the boys are now sufficiently toughened so that the earlier danger of injury is lessened.

On the offense the team had little opportunity to show its versatility, partly because the wet field restricted any fancy work and partly because Chicago was deep in its own territory most of the game. A dry field and a few breaks, the boys feel, will enable them to put on something of a show this Saturday, even against Michigan's vaunted defense. Basic improvement in the work of the line and in the blocking of the backs is expected to help.

Vin Sahlin played with the third team yesterday, and it is likely that little Tom Flinn, who can't weigh himself when the counterbalance is placed as high as 150 pounds, will start at quarter against the Wolverines. Chicago's kicking off has been bad so far, but Rainwater Wells came up yesterday with several powerful boots that promise well.

Michigan Wins 14 of 20.
Chicago and Michigan have played 20 games, excluding the unofficial 1918 season, and Michigan has won 14 of them. Fourteen of the battles took place between 1922 and 1926. In the latter year the Maroons upset the Wolverines point a minute team, which had been undefeated for years, by a score of 2 to 0. A Chicago victory in the impending game would hardly be less startling.

Since 1927 the two teams have met four times, and though Michigan won all four of the games the margin of victory in each instance was one or two touchdowns. In 1931 Michigan won 13 to 7 and in 1932 Harry Newman broke away for two long runs to give his team a 12 to 0 verdict after Chicago had held the champions on even terms.

MICHIGAN STAYS INDOORS.
Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 24.—(Special)—A cold, north-west wind kept the Michigan game in Yost field-house today. The team worked on a defense against the Chicago running attack. A good share of the afternoon was spent trying to figure out the new Michigan formations, to counter their opponents by changing places in a complex huddle. When the workout had been completed, Coach Harry Kipke was convinced the team would still need more work on the same thing tomorrow.

The first half hour was given over to fundamentals, chiefly blocking. The Michigan team is blocking well on offense this season, but with the Ohio State game safely past, Coach Kipke is concentrating on fundamentals.

Coaches also worked a second and a third team on the Michigan offense today. Kipke refused to admit that he plans to do any experimenting Saturday, but it is known that he wants to see some of the players he must rely on next year under fire this season.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.
HERMAN EVERHARDUS, whose brilliant backfield play has helped to keep Michigan at the top of Big Ten football, almost quit the game in his sophomore year at Kalamazoo High school. . . . Figured he wasn't so hot and had to be persuaded to try again as a junior.

Frank Rokusek played three years at Illinois and coached the ends for eight seasons, but he never saw an Illinois team play until the Wisconsin game a week ago Saturday.

He was always scouting during his days as coach. . . . Joe Barry, secretary of the White Sox, has been running around putting stops on all checks cashed for himself and players during the club's last visit to New York. . . . The checks, sent to Chicago for collection, were in one of the bags mail thieves grabbed here Sept. 22. . . . There will be a few heart throbs for the girls who attend the six day bicycle race. . . . Eddie Miller, just turned pro, is a West street broker, unmarried, and reported to be the best dressed man in the bike game. . . . Very handsome, too. . . . Jess Harper of Notre Dame has figured out that a football player who stays in the lineup for the entire game is not in action more than 12 minutes. . . . A colored boy on the boxing card at the Savoy A. C. last night went through with his bout even though his father lay dead at home. . . . He won, too.

Link Lyman, tackle for the Bears, weighed 248 pounds when he entered the game with Green Bay Sunday. . . . He weighed 238 three hours later. . . . Then Eddie Anderson, who coached at De Paul, he used to wish he some day would have a chance to see what he could do in major competition. . . . He got his wish Saturday when his Holy Cross eleven whipped Harvard. . . . George Huff of Illinois doesn't object to a football team as table as food. . . . He fears if you start to feed hungry football players you will have to feed all hungry students; and in these days that would call for large expenditures. . . . The Army-Illinois game will be a big one for the guys who will convene in Galveston Nov. 15. . . . Among the things they will consider is a uniform ball. . . . WINOOKA FACES AMERICAN STARS IN TEST TODAY

Meets Mate and Gold Step in Laurel Sprint.

Laurel, Md., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The test race for Winooka, Australian sprint star, is to be run over the Laurel track tomorrow, with four of America's fastest thoroughbred horses opposing.

Winooka's opponents in the special three-quarters of a mile dash, which carries a purse of $2,500 added, are A. L. Astle's Character, Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, Mrs. S. H. Fairbank's Gold Step, and Mate, owned and trained by A. C. Bostwick.

Carries 120 Pounds.
In tomorrow's race, Kerry Patch and Character, three year olds, will carry 115 pounds, while the other three, all older, will have a 120 pound impost.

Rain fell during much of the time today, indicating that the track might be sloppy. The race originally was scheduled for last week, but was postponed because of a slight ailment Winooka developed and also because of the wet track.

Character drew the first post position, with the others in the following order: Kerry Patch, Gold Step, Winooka, and Mate. Starters for the race have posted a $250 nomination fee.

Britt to Ride Winooka.
Edgar Britt will ride the horse from down under. The other jockeys will be Sonny Workman on Mate, Lee Humphries on Kerry Patch, Earl Porter on Gold Step, and Joe Renick on Character.

The co-feature of tomorrow's card is to be the 22d running of the $2,500 added two mile Chevy Chase steeplechase handicap for three year olds and up. This is the only special race of the Laurel meeting for longer jumps.

Track officials were making preparations today for a possible crowd of 20,000 persons. Special trains were being operated from the larger eastern cities.

GOING FOR THOSE GOPHERS

Dick Crayne, hard running sophomore of the Iowa eleven, is expected to be one of the main factors in the undefeated Hawkeyes' invasion of Minnesota Saturday. Crayne, who hails from Fairfield, Ia., has been Iowa's leading ground gainer thus far.

IT'S HOMECOMING FOR RASSLERS AT STADIUM TONIGHT

Stecher and McMillen Meet in Windup.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
These days be the season for homecomings, when old grads come back to the campus to revive their youth, and the Stadium Opening ceremony, in keeping with the times, this evening will make the hall, even though it cannot be called hallowed, and the walls, despite its lack of ivy, ring with the homecoming of that great pastime of wrestling at the Chicago Stadium.

The touching part of the ceremony will be the coming together of Joseph Stecher, class of '14, and James McMillen, class of '24, in the featured match card of the evening. Doubtless they will come to the eyes of those old timers who have watched the two lads come up from the days when a half Nelson was a half Nelson, and there were no such new fangled monkey shines as airplane spins, flying tackles and drop kicks. In fact, it is downright tragic that the occasion will not permit steins on the table or good songs ringing clear to recall the halcyon days when rassing was rassing.

It May Be Swell.
Plans have been made by Dean Joseph Foley to make the homecoming one of the greatest in the history of the school, but with his innate sagacity, Dean Foley has no arranged affairs that if any of the old grads desire to tarry elsewhere, it will nevertheless be a jolly family party. He has seen to this by so fixing the seating arrangements that all will be cozy, and one old classmate may hark back with another to the happy years when the Brothers Zyskowski, Yousif Terchib and a good old Frank Gotti were in school.

Dean Foley admitted last night that plans were afoot among the undergraduates to stage a grand parade, and although the dean does not approve of such a thing, he has decided to choose a prize pupil to debate with the winner will be matched with James.

There is a fine line to be drawn in this evening's homecoming, for both Stecher and McMillen are exponents of the question of perennial sophomores, James London. It appears now as though the authorities might have to plant a pineapple or two under the college belfry to get James out of school, and the faculty, not wishing to take such hasty action, has decided to choose a prize pupil to debate with the winner will be matched with James.

James the matter of who is the school bully. Hence tonight's exam between Stecher and McMillen, who, even though they are not on the regular student rolls, have returned for post graduate work. The promise is that the winner will be matched with James.

Carnera Proves Just What Many Have Long Suspected

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Oct. 24.—It looks as though the only way to bring down old Paulino Uzcudun is to dynamite him, for he has been hacked at and leaped against by most of the prominent prizefighters of the last six years and to the best of my recollection, has come down only once and then for just a brief squat. That was a time when Thomas Hoeny popped him one on the heel of his trunk in the course of a bout which I believe Paulino came on to win.

Still, it was no great credit to Primo Carnera that he was able to beat Paulino on points in 15 rounds in the presence of Mussolini, himself, in Rome, because Primo claims to be the heavyweight champion of the world. If he hadn't kicked Paulino that would have been news and a great disgrace to Primo and a humiliation of Fascism, and I suppose some patriotic society would have dropped a pineapple in his hip pocket and kicked him down some secluded cellar.

He Missed Par.
Yet, merely because he didn't disgrace himself, Primo is to be made a member of one of those low-grade Italian distinguished orders which entitle the bearer to pay for his own meals in any restaurant in Italy. These orders must be easy to win.

Par for the course in the Primo Paulino fight was a knockout, but Primo, with an advantage of 60 pounds in the weights and other advantages in height, reach, and strength, couldn't even bow him over. The outcome of the fight, a decision in 15 rounds, has the effect on me of reviving some suspicions which entered that which I

Grube, Sox Catcher, Loses $100 in Holdup

La Porte, Ind., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Frank Grube, catcher for the Chicago White Sox, was minus $100 in cash today as a result of being held up by two men near here last night. He was on an automobile trip with his wife, bound for Easton, Pa.

CARNERA TO BOX SCHMELING IN ROME NEXT YEAR

ROME, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Managers of Primo Carnera, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, told newspapermen tonight that Primo would fight Max Schmeling of Germany, former holder of the crown, in Rome next year. They said the match had been arranged definitely, but that the exact date still was to be decided upon.

They said Carnera would fight a title match in Rome once a year so long as he holds the championship.

Hickey Calls Association Meeting for Kansas City

The annual meeting of the American association was called for Sunday, Nov. 12, at Kansas City, by Thomas Jefferson Hickey, president, yesterday. Kansas City was chosen instead of Chicago so the club owners could go directly from there to Galveston, Tex., for the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Stagg Seeks a Battle of Words with Maroons

A. A. Stagg, who, when football coach at the University of Chicago, used to find grudge fees for the university, is now trying to select fees of a different kind. Yesterday, Bertrand G. Nelson, professor of English on the Midway, received a letter from Dwayne Orton, director of forensics at the College of the Pacific in California, challenging the University of Chicago to a debating contest. The idea, he explained, was suggested by the football coach of the College of the Pacific. The coach is Stagg.

Fatality Fails to Stop Football at St. Alban's

Football will be continued at St. Alban's academy at Sycamore, it was decided at a meeting of the faculty and students participating in the sport yesterday. The vote was suggested following the death of Ludwig Sunde, 19 year old center, who was fatally injured during the St. Alban's-Elgin game at Sycamore last Saturday.

Do You Remember Way Back When?

It was customary for Columbian guards of 1893 to stand for hours in a statue, and a certain guard from Freeport, Ill., became so adept that a young squawnee mistook him for an ornamental hitching post and nonchalantly attached Old Dobbin's gear around THIS guardian's neck.—E. J. S., Freeport, Ill.

C. Y. O. AMATEUR BOXING TOURNEY OPENS TONIGHT

2,000 Fighters Will Seek Places in Finals.

The amateur boxing tournament of the Catholic Youth organization, which will bring together approximately 2,000 boxers from all parts of the archdiocese of Chicago before championships are determined, will open tonight at Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road. About 35 bouts are to be contested tonight, 20 tomorrow, and 25 on Friday when 32 boys—16 in class A and as many in class B—will have qualified for the quarter finals at C. Y. O. center Nov. 20.

The archdiocese of Chicago has been divided into four sections for the tournament, the north section, south section, west section, and Joliet section. Championships will be decided at the Chicago Stadium Dec. 1. Preliminary rounds will be in process until Nov. 17, with the quarter finals scheduled at C. Y. O. center and De La Salle High school, Joliet, Nov. 20 to 24, inclusive.

The matches tonight at Loyola are expected to be closely contested due to the ineligibility of former C. Y. O. champions to compete. Officials believe that this will give entrants a better chance to win a championship.

Joey Kleko, Art Donovan and Geno Salvatore have signed to appear in the show Friday at the Rainbo Front. Their opponents will be selected today. There will be three other matches, one between wrestlers.

Amateur boxers from Our Lady of Sorrows parish will meet a squad representing St. Philip High school at St. Philip gymnasium, Friday. The St. Philip team, whose record includes a victory over a Northwestern university squad, is undefeated in interclub competition. At Still, George Angus, and Art Palladino are among Our Lady of Sorrows' outstanding representatives. St. Philip's prominent boxers are Phil and Tom Kennedy and Ed Garvey. There will be 12 bouts Friday.

King Levinsky is being sought to meet Tommy Loughran for 15 rounds here next month, Sammy Wolf, promoter, announced yesterday. . . . Solly Dukelsky is matched with Bill Connell for eight rounds at Marigold Garden Monday. Dukelsky won and then lost to Connell in previous meetings. . . . The Milwaukee Boxing club expects to offer its next show on Nov. 13 or 20. . . . Paul Dazza started drills yesterday for a return contest against Wayne Short at Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 9. . . . Ed Downs, 240 pound Arkansas boxer, will arrive tomorrow or Friday for bouts in Chicago under the management of Gene Hart. Jackie Sharkey returned yesterday from Milwaukee, Wis., where he lost a close 10 round decision to Champion Freddy Miller Monday. He will resume training today for a 10 round battle with Young Gene at La Salle, Ill., Monday. . . . Sam Slotzky, Indianapolis, Ind., fight manager, will leave Chicago today for Dallas, Tex., to join Tracy Cox, who boxes there Nov. 3.

Frank Misko, Saginaw, Mich., mid-dleweight, yesterday sparred with Harry Dubinsky at Traflet's gymnasium for a six round encounter with Young Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill., at Midway arena Friday. Stuhley whipped Millio Militti and Misko defeated Johnny Long in recent wind up matches at the Midway.

Adolph Walter, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, yesterday had a professional, will meet Walter Madey in five rounds. Another bout at five rounds will bring together Jimmy Ellipoulos and Lenny Cohen. Jack Zervach will wrestle Lou Talaber. There will be two other matches.

Charles Hall, head of the Coliseum Athletic club, announced last night that a show will be presented at the Coliseum annex, Nov. 13. Al Sweeney of Chicago has been appointed matchmaker. The club plans to hold shows every Monday starting Nov. 13.

The card at Cicero stadium Friday follows:

Johnny Phelan vs. Morris Sherman (10). Davey Day vs. Lou Navarro (6). Frank Reilly vs. Willie Davis (4). Steve Sedrak vs. Willie Davis (4). Sammy Adams vs. Mickey O'Shea (4). Ted Kelly vs. Carl Scallie (4). F. M.

BIRD FANS MARK 100TH AUDUBON ANNIVERSARY

Bird fans and other natural history students in Chicago and all over the country are observing the 100th anniversary of Audubon's expedition to Labrador, where the famous scientist secured data and paintings for his monumental work on American birds. The meeting is jointly sponsored by the academy and the Illinois Audubon society.

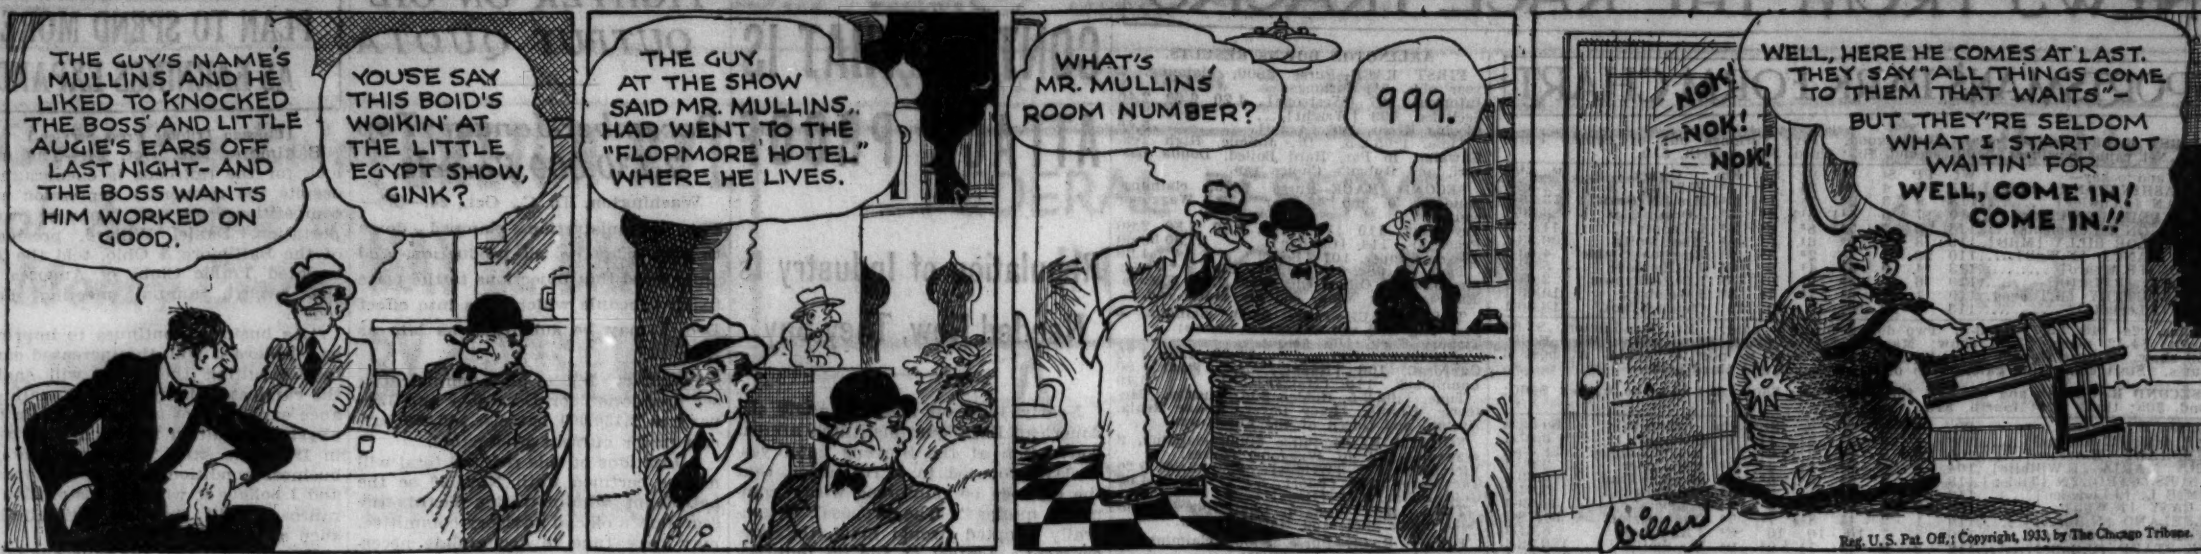

A motion picture entitled "Along Audubon's Labrador Trail" made by the academy in Labrador last year will be one of the features of the program. Preceding this Audubon anniversary observance, the Inland Bird Banding association will hold its annual meeting at which amateur bird banders will report on their activities.

MOON MULLINS—THE ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE

Scout Farrell Takes Boss to Hawks' Camp

BY EDWARD BURNS.

MAJ. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team, yesterday went overland to Champaign to see his boys in training. The trip was made in the major's town car, and without mishap despite the fact that the Hawks' erratic trail rider, Joseph Farrell, was in the vehicle.

Last year Farrell organized a trek to the training camp, then at Duluth, and the hazards of the trip caused most of the riders to lose confidence in automobiles in general and predict the return of the horse.

Just An Old Exhorter. Though Maj. McLaughlin ducked the Duluth trip, Mrs. McLaughlin, a highly sympathetic lady, read bulletins as they seeped out of the northwoods, in which details of suffering from exposure, fright from chafing, and plaintive tales of hunger and thirst were unfolded. She made the major pledge he never would go to the training camp in a caravan directed by the nomad, Farrell.

In the trip a year ago Farrell sought to buoy up the spirits of the training camp travelers by constantly exhorting them to "remember the covered wagon mothers," and the great fortitude they showed in withstanding the hardships of homesteading the great west.

It was only through the hiring of the University of Illinois hall that Maj. McLaughlin could allay the anxiety of Mrs. McLaughlin about the terrors of the Farrell tours.

It Appeared Fool-Proof. "The widest concrete highway in Illinois forms most of the route to Champaign," Maj. McLaughlin explained. "I do not see how Farrell possibly could persuade my chauffeur to try a short cut over hill and vale via clay and sand trail and pontoon bridge."

Taffy Abel, mammoth Hawk defense man, also took a draw on the trip. He had been reported a holdout and the McLaughlin vehicle did not push off until the boss and Taffy had held a protracted conference.

With the arrival of Abel, the Hawk squad will be complete, with the exception of Tommy Cook and Lionel Conacher. Cook is reported ill at his home and Conacher has some professional football contracts that have kept him in Canada. His training for football, however, is said to have put him in excellent physical shape.

19 U. S. BICYCLE STARS ENTERED IN STADIUM RACE

American bicycle stars will outnumber foreign riders in Chicago's 13th international six day bicycle race which starts in the Stadium Sunday night. Nineteen Americans and seven foreign stars are entered. The field is one of the strongest ever to start in a race. Breaking up of the team of Alfred Letourneur and Gerard Debaets, the red devil combination, will add interest to the race. Letourneur will ride with William (Torchy) Peden as his mate while Debaets will have Norman Hill as his partner.

Ruby will be represented by Giovanni Manera and Tino Reboli while Alfred Letourneur will carry the colors of France. Gerard Debaets will represent Belgium; Franz Deuberg will compete for Germany; Cecil Walker for Australia, and Torchy Peden represents Canada.

Inch by Inch They Run; It's Sitting Bull by a Crawl!

That horned toad [phrynosoma cornutum Americanus to you, professor] race that was held last week over at the Edgewater Beach hotel reminds one of the terrapin races they hold in Oklahoma. Perhaps the ingenious soul who invented this amazing rodeo will never be known to posterity, but the chances are that it was devised by a westerner.

For genuine gambling the old time son of the wide open spaces was as inventive as a schoolboy. He offered and accepted the most amazing wagers and would bet anything from eight bits to his horse and saddle, or on which direction a bird would fly or wouldn't fly. He would bet on the future movements of animals and men, the point of the compass toward which the next jack rabbit would hop, the number of drinks a stranger might take in a given time, on whether the number killed in the next Indian skirmish would be odd or even.

The manner in which the phrynosoma cornutum [horned toad] race is almost frightful words race is similar to the terrapin event. A large circle is traced on the ground, the racers are numbered and placed in the center, and the one which crosses the deadline first is declared the winner. So far no radio station has taken the trouble to broadcast a terrapin race. This is the way it probably would sound:

Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. Well, here we are right in the middle of Main street, in the heart of Skiatook, Okla. All the big old men who are not answering federal charges are present, and believe me, folks, they are packing rolls like carpets. Mr. Two-Guns McFlask, the promoter of this terrapin race, tells me that cattle kings from as far away as the Pecos and the Platte are here, ready to back their favorites with money and munitions. What a crowd! What a crowd!

A number of tourists are trying to approach the ring just now, but I don't believe—yes, they are—no—yes.

OILERS SEEK TO EVEN ALL-STAR SERIES TONIGHT

The 29 game winning streak broken, the Diamond Oilers of Tulsa, Okla., national A. A. U. basketball champions, will seek to even the series with a team of former Northwestern players at the 132d armory, Rockwell and Madison streets, tonight. The All Stars won the first game Monday night, 34 to 30.

The Spencers of Chicago, Central A. A. U. women's champions, will have another opportunity to break the long string of victories scored by the Durant Cardinals of Durant, Okla., United States amateur champions, in a game which will precede the Oilers-all-stars contest. The Cardinals defeated the Spencers Monday for their 73d straight triumph.

MOULDINGS FACE BUDWEISERS IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

Followers of the Classic Bowling league are expecting to see a fine place between the Baby Ruths and Moulding-Brownells broken tonight. The Baby Ruths will meet Arlington Bowlers Aid at the P. P. Petersen alleys and the Moulding-Brownells will clash with the Budweisers at the Cinderella Recreation.

Other pairings for tonight are: Lorenz Knitting vs. Edelweiss at Harding alleys, Old Manhattan vs. Olive Can at Madison-Kedzie, and Stevenson Heating vs. A. J. Cernaks at Windy City.

One of them wants to enter a terrapin of his own and the others are backing him up. I'll give you the name of this new racer in just a moment. Ah, here it is: Scampering Suse, ladies and gentlemen, is the name of the new entry.

Bright Ribbons Seem to Bother Terrapins.

Now they are drawing the ring, but there seems to be some difficulty. Some of the backers are pushing him away—the man who is drawing the ring. I mean, O. I see. The man is intoxicated and he is drawing an oval. He, he, they are taking him away. Now the ring is drawn and the terrapins are placed in the center. They look nervous and seem to be bothered by the bright ribbons on their backs. There they go—no, they are being herded back.

The crowd is tense with excitement. They away! They cheer! Ah, another false start. Ha! They are at the barrier—the terrapins, I mean. Hurrah! They're off!

Just look at those terrapins go, ladies and gentlemen. Number forty-seven, a likely looking twenty year old, has scampered a full inch. Listen to the crowd cheer. The favorite is right on his heels and the others are strung out. The crowd has another hour to place bets, so in the meantime we'll return you to the home studio and let you listen to the second act from "Faust."

Back Again! Put in Claim of Foul Play.

Here we are again, radio friends. No, forty-seven carried the odds for the first half hour, but now the betting is going heavily against him. He almost reached the deadline, but for some reason he turned back. His backer insinuated that there was foul play somewhere. Mr. Two-Guns McFlask settled the argument by pointing one of his weapons at the discomfited backer, and now the backer admits that he must have been mistaken.

Look at those rascals go! Scampering Suse is making friends with a dark horse, but the promoter will not permit any interference. O, look! Sitting Bull, No. 13, is making a bee line from the center. He is passing all his competitors. He is headed for Texas and there is no stopping him. We'll conclude this broadcast after we hear another act from "Faust."

Looks Like Winner Will Be Sitting Bull.

Well, folks, it looks as though Sitting Bull is going to win. He has been traveling steadily all afternoon and he is just about over the line. He hesitates—the crowd is going wild—his right front foot moves steadily forward—his left hind leg takes a firm hold—he heaves ahead—his stomach slides over the line—his tail follows—he's wait a moment, friends—he's over! Sitting Bull wins in a crawl.

Pays Own Way to Join Giants; Becomes Star

New York, Oct. 24.—(P)—Last summer, when the sun was hot and the beaches crowded, Steve Owen, coach of the New York Giants professional football team, plays the Chicago Bears at Chicago Sunday, got a letter, postmarked Garden Grove, Ia., from probably the only other fellow in the country who was also thinking about football.

"I think I could be a pretty good back," the letter read. . . . weight 190. . . . Simpson college past three years. . . . led Iowa conference in scoring two years. . . . I'll pay my own expenses east for a tryout. . . . name is Elvin Richards. . . . Steve comes from out that way and he has seen football giants blooming unnoticed in many a small college way station. He wrote back briefly. "Come on along."

He Came Along.

So Elvin [Kink] Richards, a stocky, quiet, drably kind of a boy from Iowa, came along east and has been coming hard and fast ever since. Last Sunday, when the Giants beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, Kink came along from his own goal to the 30 yard line with a kickoff, then scattered the remaining 10 yards to the opposite goal on the next play. He has already been reimbursed for his expenses east.

Kink talked about it today, in a sort of a tooth-pulling way because he naturally has little to say and in addition he's still a bit awed by it all. He's only 22.

"I get a bigger thrill out of pro football than I did in college. It's a grown-up thrill. The crowds are bigger, and this is New York."

Well, Yes, and No. "It's harder than college football, and yet it's easier, too, in a way," he went on. "You have to run harder because you don't need to save yourself. There are plenty more on the bench just as good. It's easier when you get into the clear because you know they're down the field ahead of you mopping up. They don't miss."

It doesn't seem strange to Kink, who taught last year in a high school in Stuart, Ia., that the universities from the small schools provide the backbone of the professional game. "The best football player I ever saw was Lin King, Drake quarter back in 1929," he said. "He could do anything with a football, though he only weighed 155 pounds. The biggest thrill I ever got he gave me watching him run 30 yards in the last couple of minutes of play to beat Iowa State, 21 to 20. They kept hitting him, but he kept going."

Le Van Can Take It. Richards plans to study physical education while playing football so that in three years' time he'll be able to go back home to an important post. In the meantime he's seeing all

"THEY SHALL NOT SCORE" SIGN IS PERIL TO HEADS

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 24.—(P)—Nebraska football men have to duck their heads under a large sign, "They shall not score," in passing from their locker room to the gridiron.

And thus far this season no team has scored against the Cornhuskers, while they, themselves, rolled up a total of 55 points. Only one of their three opponents, Kansas State, pushed beyond the Husker 25 yard line.

Last season Southern Methodist was the only team which succeeded in scoring through the line.

Chastain Finishes Strong to Beat Knowles in Fight

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 24.—(P)—Reaching his peak of effectiveness in the eighth and ninth rounds, Clyde Chastain, 177½, Dallas, Tex., outpointed Carl Knowles, 168, of Rome, Ga., in a ten round fight here tonight. Both judges voted for Chastain.

Chastain, who is a professional boxer, finished the fight with a strong performance, outpointing Knowles in the final rounds.

NEW YORK LEADS PRO ELEVEN IN GROUND GAINED

Statistics compiled by the National Football League show that the New York Giants, Portsmouth Spartans and Boston Redskins are the best ground gainers. The Giants, with 1,465 yards, have a slight edge on their rivals.

The Chicago Bears, defending champions and western section leaders, have the best defensive mark, having yielded only 23 points and 772 yards. The Giants, eastern leaders with 137 points, have scored most often and with 82 completed passes in 67 tosses also lead in the aerial department.

WHISKER WILTING

I've studied it for years W.G. Mennen

LET A SHAVING specialist (who has studied shaving for 25 years) give you a friendly tip. WILT YOUR WHISKERS—that's the thing that counts in shaving. Mennen Lather Shave is scientifically made to do just that. Men tell me they notice the difference the very first time they use Mennen. The blade slips through, cuts clean, without stalling or "bucking." No pull. No yank. No scrape. But sweet ease! And Mennen Lather Shave—because it helps you to clean out pore-impeded dirt deposits—actually leaves your face clearer, healthier!

THE NEW CIGAR...BY THE MAKERS OF LA PALINA

IT'S EASY for Sonny to remember the name—and his Dad wouldn't be happy with anything else. He's one of the army who have tried all the 5c cigars that claim to be "best" and have found Recollection Cigar the nearest to a ten-cent smoke.

This fine cigar is by the makers of La Palina. Its rich, satisfying filler is nearly 50% prime Havana, blended, as only its makers know how, with other choice tobaccos. It is fragrant, mellow, slow-burning—and, of course, full size. We know it's so good that we ask you to try one at our risk.

DOUBLE MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
Buy a Recollection Cigar today. Smoke it slowly. Then, if you don't honestly think it's the best cigar at the price, tell us "why not," sending us the cigar band and the name of the dealer from whom you bought it, and we'll send you double the purchase price, including postage. BY FRENCH LANE.
Real blue bloods of the turf can outrun their rivals at any distance and over any kind of track. This was demonstrated at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon.
Probably the best bred horse at Chicago's popular half mile race track is Sobieha, a 4 year old daughter of Sir Galahad III-Omnard, which rates for Mrs. Ed McCuan of St. Louis. This mare is closely related to Gallant Fox and to many other noted winners. She was one of the starters in the Winnetka race at 3 1/4 furlongs yesterday. The flyer Pancho Lopez was one of her rivals; so were Hoops, Blue Day, Capt. Red, and Frank Ornament.
The crowd seemed to know that Sobieha, on her breeding, should beat these horses. They backed her stoutly until she became the favorite at slightly less than 2 to 1.
Pancho Lopez Breaks in Front.
The feet Pancho Lopez broke in front of the daughter of Sir Galahad III. He outran her by a mile. This Sobieha started running.
She came on the outside and was a length in front heading into the stretch. She galloped on home, winning easily by two lengths from Pancho Lopez, which wilted before her charge.
It was the second time in two days that one of Mrs. McCuan's color-bearers has won the feature race at Sportsman's Park. Her horses all appear to be in excellent condition particularly Sobieha which is perhaps the best horse over distances up to a mile quartered at the track.
Sobieha Returns $7.75.
In the mutuels Sobieha paid $7.75. Most of the 6,000 spectators who shivered as they lined the rails for what the cold weather when they changed their winning tickets into cash.

Dark Pheasant Makes Illinois Debut in 1934

BY BOB BECKER.
In another season Illinois hunters may expect to see a new kind of pheasant in the weed thickets and other coverts. This new bird will be the dark pheasant commonly known as the melanistic mutant. The state game farm at Yorkville has received 42 crates containing 415 of these birds from Bucks, England, according to Lloyd Johnson, superintendent of the farm.
The melanistic mutant [which we saw in a wild state for the first time when we were hunting on a big preserve near Portage, Wis., a few weeks ago] truly is a dark pheasant. The cocks are a greenish purple, rich in color. The hens are a dark, almost chocolate brown. The hen weighs a little over two pounds on the average while the cock weighs about two and one-half pounds or better.
Breeder's Opinion Differ.
Sportsmen who like to hunt pheasants in Illinois naturally are curious about the habits and characteristics of this dark mutant. The question is, should we consider this mutant as just the same old wild wingneck masquerading under new colors, or is it a quite different bird when in the field?
Apparently not all game breeders are agreed on this question. At least we know of two pheasant breeders who do not give the same answer. For example, when we were hunting at Portage, Wis., a short time ago we asked Otto Beyer, who produces thousands of pheasants every year, how he rated the mutant. Beyer bought several hundred of the birds.
Considers Them Typical Pheasants.
Beyer said that as far as he could determine the dark mutants were no different from the pinknecks. They were just as crafty about sneaking through coverts, refused to lie well to a dog and generally speaking were typical pheasants. We had no opportunity to judge the mutant's field characteristics.
Directly contrary to this description is the report which comes to us from Lloyd Johnson, superintendent of the Yorkville state game farm. Johnson states that the mutant comes to Illinois not long after hunters will be able to find out about these new birds from experience in the field.

COMMERCE PROPOSES TIGHTER CONTROL ON OIL OUTPUT QUOTA December-January Top 2,130,000 Barrels.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The administration clamped down tighter today on oil production, and announced that objections to the price fixing schedule which goes into effect Dec. 1 may be submitted as late as Nov. 15.

Secretary Ickes, oil administrator, set production for December and January at 2,130,000 barrels, 200,000 barrels under current production.

Allocations of this reduced total will not be certified until Nov. 30 so the petroleum administration board, the secretary's official advisory committee, may have time to accumulate necessary statistics.

Causes for Objections.
Objections to the price fixing schedule, originally called for by Nov. 1, the board announced, may cover shortage of oil as a whole or directed at any or all prices; differential between sources, grades or marketing methods; relationship between petroleum and commodity prices.

Declares U. S. Control Needed Now.
The future of the petroleum industry depends upon the success of the government's control of crude oil production, but that control should not extend to governmental operation of the industry after present emergency, declared J. B. Byrd, president of the industry, told the producers and marketers.

Tells of Possible Betterment.
Such regulation, if it comes, may continue until we are able to properly adjust the use of oil and the flow of capital, attain more equitable distribution of buying power, expand foreign markets, and through the agreements avoid destructive competition.

OLDEST FARMER 'CO-OP' SPLITS OVER POLICIES

One Factor Sets Up New Association.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The ranks of the oldest association of farm cooperatives in the nation split wide open last night, with indications that where one federation had existed for more than a half century there will now be two representing the farmer-owned grain elevators of the western prairies.

The cleavage developed behind the scenes early Monday morning as the delegates to the Farmers National Grain Dealers' association went into convention at the Fort Dearborn hotel.

It broke into the open yesterday afternoon as the delegates of 500,000 farmer stockholders of grain elevators started to elect officers for the coming year.

Two factions sat in the final session, each intent upon electing its own candidate for president. The retiring president, Thomas Cain of Jacksonville, Ill., declined to serve again.

Rival Candidates for President.

In Cain's place the conservative element in the association, which has for years resisted every effort of state and federal governments to superimpose a large single cooperative upon the small town elevators that dot the grain belts, nominated C. H. Conaway, Starkweather, N. D., for years head of the grain elevators' association of that state. The new faction nominated Oscar Helme, Marcus, Ia.

The Helme group had for some time favored the recognition of the government supported Farmers National Grain corporation.

Under leadership of Cain, has been constantly warning that participation in the federal wheat projects would be as dangerous now as it had been when the U. S. Grain Growers and other national organizations were set up, only to fall and leave debts on the membership.

Differ Over Profit Participation.

Another fundamental issue between the groups was that of the method of participation in profits of grain marketing by stockholders. The farmers' elevators for half a century were stock companies, with the farmers holding stock securing the profits reaped of how much grain they shipped.

In the new federal farm plan, under which the Farmers National Grain corporation was created and is still maintained, each member has one vote and profits accrue on the basis of patronage.

In the voting Conaway was elected president, whereupon the Helme faction arose and withdrew in a body to the privacy of a hotel room to conjure up a new association of their own.

Among others, Charles A. Lathrop, Vostoria, O., secretary of the Ohio elevators' association. The remaining delegates in the convention, when they recovered their breath, sent a messenger to offer Lathrop the vice presidency and invite his associates to return.

Compromise Is Refused.

The proffer was turned down and the convention adjourned in considerable confusion, with both factions preparing announcements of their respective positions for consumption "back home."

Late last night the new farm elevator association was formed, with Helme as president, Paul Peeler of Elk City, Okla., vice president, and Frank Rutherford of Omaha, secretary.

It is to be called the Farmers National Cooperative Elevator association, with members in five states: Oklahoma, Kansas, Ohio, Nebraska and Iowa. The parent group under Conaway will include elevators in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Indiana and Illinois.

JEWEL TEA CO. REPORTS SLIGHT GAIN IN SALES

Sales of the Jewel Tea company for the four weeks ended Oct. 7 totaled $334,194, against $323,454 in the same period last year, a gain of 99 per cent.

In the first forty weeks of this year, sales totaled $7,658,822, compared with $5,445,809 a year ago, a decline of 9.32 per cent.

Jewel Food stores, a subsidiary, reported sales at $214,777 for the four weeks and $2,982,398 for the first forty weeks of the year.

Lambert & Co. Quarter Net Equals 75c a Share

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Lambert & Co. report net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30 of $541,120, equal to 75 cents a share, against $470,937, or 63 cents a share in the preceding quarter and $539,442, or 85 cents a share in the September quarter, 1932.

For nine months the net income was $3,087,087, or $2.44 a share, against $3,207,827, or $2.48, in 1932.

Gold Has Role of Acrobat in Money Circus

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Money and gold continued to monopolize attention in the financial community yesterday and developments in France made it a two ring circus.

Experts were busy trying to guess how the President's currency depreciation and price raising program would be affected by French abandonment of the gold standard.

Leading bankers expressed the opinion that France would sooner or later be forced off the gold standard, but declined to predict when that would happen.

France's abandonment of gold, they believed, would clarify the international money tangle by paving the way for another international monetary conference which "are rendering in better chances of success because all principal nations would be seeking the same goal—a return to gold at a lower level."

France's farewell to gold, the experts say, might complicate America's foreign trade problems by leading to a currency depreciation race between France, Great Britain and the United States. The domestic picture in the United States, however, would not be especially vulnerable.

Today the RFC is scheduled to start its program of pegging the price of gold. In that way a definite relationship between gold and the dollar can be maintained without basing the gold value of the dollar on the value of the French franc.

Despite the fact that the Bank of France holds about $2 billion francs worth of gold, an amount equal to nearly 30 per cent of its total liabilities, including notes in circulation, the French position is being gradually weakened.

The Daladier budget balancing economy plan has caused the fall of that government and a new one is about to be formed. The budget deficit amounts to some six billions of francs. A wave of hoarding has started to drain the nation's gold reserves. France's unfavorable balance of trade is becoming more unfavorable.

In the first eight months of 1933 the gold balance, which more than 7½ billions of francs, compared with less than 7 billions in the corresponding period of 1932. And, more serious, the nation's lucrative tourist business is rapidly drying up, because Americans and other foreigners find that it takes so much more of their own currency to buy francs to spend in France.

Meanwhile the effects of the President's speech announcing the currency depreciation program continue to affect the markets in this country. Speculators and investors are gingerly exploring the markets. They fear drastic day to day fluctuations but they are inclined to believe that the long pull will definitely upward. Again, yesterday's stocks made substantial advances.

Even in conservative banking circles prices are expected to soar "as soon as the public gets uneasy about the depreciation of the dollar," as one well known banker expressed it yesterday.

With the dollar in the pocket scheduled to become gradually less valuable as a buying medium, it is expected to develop. Such a wave came last spring when the dollar was declining in foreign exchange transactions after the United States left the gold standard. It was halted in July when the administration began to expect the public against too much speculation and pointed out the folly of expecting prosperity back all of a sudden. From then on until the President's Sunday night radio speech the dollar was in a state of suspended animation, divided between inflation and stabilization and this uncertainty drove traders out of the market.

The scheme to cheapen dollars by arbitrarily making gold gradually more valuable presents some interesting possibilities for the gold mining industry.

Believing that the administration proposed to keep the price of gold up to an indefinite period until it is worth at least $40 an ounce, the gold mines sell in the early stages of this program or will they hold back their current output until the plan takes its later stages and enables them to reap a larger profit?

If it is sold to the RFC as fast as it is mined there is one opportunity for the RFC to make a profitable investment. By its own pegging operation it may make the gold that it buys for $30 an ounce worth $40 an ounce later on.

Also if the price raising scheme succeeds in boosting commodity prices the RFC can get out nicely on the ten or more loans it is making to southern plantation owners on cotton worth nine cents.

Higher prices for commodities and securities, too, would probably make gold assets out of some of the bad assets that the banks have written down to zero and the recoveries therefrom would help them retire at a comparatively early date some of the preferred stock they are selling to the RFC.

Sherwin-Williams Raises Common Dividend to 50c

Chicago Tribune Press Service.] New York, Oct. 24.—Directors of Sherwin-Williams company voted today to double the quarterly dividend on the common stock. A rate of 50 cents quarterly was declared, compared with 25 cents three months ago. The latest dividend is payable Nov. 15 to holders of record Oct. 31. A dividend of $1.50 was also declared, payable Dec. 1 to holders of record Nov. 15.

FOREIGN RYE MAY BE BARRED BY ROOSEVELT

See First Embargo Under NRA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—President Roosevelt, in an executive order today established the procedure for administering provisions of the national recovery act designed to control imports which "are rendering in effective and seriously endangering the maintenance of codes or agreements under the national industrial recovery act."

The move attracted special attention, coming on the heels of his pledge to the country on Sunday to increase commodity prices by whatever means were deemed necessary. It is thought by government economists that the import duties which are rendering ineffective should domestic prices advance to the 1926 level, in view of the relatively lower price level of foreign exporting nations.

Believe Duty Will Not Suffice.

With the procedure for meeting this obstacle to recovery thus provided, the President faced the question of whether to declare an embargo on rye imports as a result of a finding by the bureau of agricultural economics that a 50 per cent increase in the prevailing duty of 15 cents a bushel would not suffice to keep out foreign grain the latter increase could be imposed under the flexible provisions of the Smoot-Hawley tariff.

While leaving the choice up to Mr. Roosevelt, the report, in effect, places him face to face with deciding whether to impose a tariff or a trade embargo on rye imports into this country to continue.

Officials of the agricultural adjustment administration readily admitted the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt will impose an embargo against shipment of rye into this country in order to protect the present high price of the grain in domestic markets.

Would Welcome Embargo.

The sole function of the farm administration, it was said, is to keep farm prices as high as possible, and it was indicated that officials of the agricultural department would welcome an embargo action by the President.

One report in official circles today was that nearly 6,000,000 bushels of foreign rye, or more than ten per cent of the normal domestic crop, has either been imported already, or is being imported into this country. Today, it was said, a large quantity of German rye was offered at 37½ cents a bushel at the Atlantic seaboard.

With the 15 cent duty, this would be a price of 52½ cents a bushel, the German grain, as compared with the price of 58½ cents a bushel at which rye closed on the Chicago exchange today.

Although the tariff commission yesterday Nov. 23 set the date for a public hearing on a proposed increase in the present duty on rye, it was reported that Mr. Roosevelt, at the urging of farm adjustment officials, will act sooner under his embargo authority to curb the current tide of imports.

Free Cash in Three Weeks.

The administration has promised that the funds will begin to flow into the pockets of depositors by Thanksgiving. Officials here believe that some of the money may be made available here in the next three weeks.

Meanwhile, the work of perfecting a regional organization for the Seventh reserve district went forward yesterday. James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, who was selected by the RFC to direct the liquidation program in this area, was in Washington conferring with government officials. He will return today.

County Board Will Buy Stock of Closed Bank

Ionia, Mich., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The county board of supervisors today voted to purchase $15,000 of stock of the National Bank of Ionia County now being reorganized here.

In return the county will receive approximately $24,000 as the balance of its share of deposits now held in the closed bank. The settlement is about 45 per cent of the county's deposits.

Illinois Speeds Efforts to Get Deposit Money

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Illinois will be among the first states in line for a slice of the billion dollars of easy money which has been earmarked by the administration for depositors of closed banks. State officials are looking for the possibility of securing the seventy-seven banks in Illinois which have been closed since the beginning of the year.

While leaving the choice up to Mr. Roosevelt, the report, in effect, places him face to face with deciding whether to impose a tariff or a trade embargo on rye imports into this country to continue.

DOUBTFUL NATIONAL BANKS HOLD SMALL DEPOSIT PERCENTAGE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—J. F. T. O'Connor, controller of that frozen deposits on Oct. 16 in all national banks whose future status was then undetermined, amounted to only 1.203 per cent of all deposits in all undetermined national banks throughout the country.

Institutions of undetermined status, he said, included banks with disapproved reorganization plans, banks with reorganization plans under consideration and banks with no reorganization plans.

O'Connor said there were 5,048 licensed banks in the United States on Oct. 16, having total deposits of $17,028,441,000 as of the last condition statement on June 30. At the same time, there were 216 undetermined national banks with frozen deposits of $21,132,000 and unrestricted deposits of $16,957,000.

Of the 719 undetermined national banks 381 with frozen deposits of $408,124,000 and unrestricted deposits of $39,795,000 had their reorganization plans approved by the controller; 233 banks with frozen deposits of $111,007,000 and unrestricted deposits of $8,638,000 had had their reorganization plans disapproved; 77 banks with $71,534,000 frozen and $4,947,000 unrestricted deposits had reorganization plans under consideration, and 19 banks with $30,167,000 frozen and $679,000 unrestricted deposits had no reorganization plans.

The speculative flight from the dollar drove it to the lowest price since Oct. 11, wiping out all the gains that had been scored recently when an announcement of the treasury's Liberty loan conversion offer was construed as assuring a sound money policy here. Today's largest discount of 23.25 per cent against the franc, compared with the record discount of 35.39 per cent, reached on Sept. 20.

In accordance with the cheapening of the dollar the treasury fixed a price of $29.80 an ounce for sales of newly mined gold, a rise of 21 cents. This daily treasury quotation, begun on Sept. 8, was posted for the last time today. Beginning tomorrow all newly mined gold will be purchased by the treasury at a price of $29.80 an ounce, plus 21 cents, or $30.01 an ounce.

During the period in which the practice has been maintained, the quotation has ranged from $23.28 an ounce on Sept. 20 to $29 an ounce on Oct. 14.

Sweep by Cross Currencies. Today's dealings in foreign exchange were swept by cross currents of sentiment in which the apprehension over the French ministerial crisis was countered by the concern over the inflationary implications which speculative markets discerned in our new gold policy. As foreign exchange dealers expressed it, however, the weakness of the dollar submerged whatever weakness the franc might ordinarily have displayed under the circumstances.

French exchange was at first soft against all other currencies, but, aided by official intervention and covered by the extreme weakness of the dollar, the franc soared in dollar terms and held its own against European exchange. In Paris much of the fear of a suspension of the gold standard seemed to have subsided, dealers reported.

STANDARD OIL CO. (KAS.) CONSIDERS $2 ANNUAL RATE

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of Kansas announced today the board of directors contemplated placing the stock on an annual dividend basis of $2 a share.

C. B. Wrightman, president, in a letter to stockholders calling a special meeting at Tulsa, Okla., on Nov. 22, for the purpose of retiring 120,000 shares of the company's stock now held in the treasury, said currency earnings, "even under the present drastic curtailment of production, have now reached the point where your board of directors contemplates placing the stock on a $2 per share annual dividend basis."

He said the board believes it necessary to increase surplus by retirement of the 120,000 shares which the company acquired at an average price of $17.55 a share.

Wallace Fixes Processing Tax on Corn at 28 Cents a Bushel

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A processing tax of 28 cents per bushel on corn was fixed today by Secretary Wallace with the approval of President Roosevelt.

The tax is to be levied on one of the seven basic commodities defined by the farm adjustment act, it becomes effective Nov. 5, the same date that the hog processing levy applies.

The tax on corn and hogs is dependent upon the financial production control program for corn and hogs at a maximum cost of approximately $350,000,000.

Bring Floor Price to "Parity."

In making the announcement, Wallace said the rate of 28 cents per bushel of 56 pounds was the difference between the average farm price for field corn and "the fair exchange value of field corn."

The fair exchange value is "parity" price, or the amount which corn must bring to have the purchasing power it had in the period from 1909 to 1914. The question of whether the full difference between parity and the

Bondholders Ask Trustee for Rock Island

Two motions with respect to the Rock Island—one of the nation's leading rail systems—were filed yesterday in bankruptcy court.

One motion, filed on behalf of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and five bondholders' committees representing $300,000,000 in bonds, asked the appointment of an "impartial trustee" to take over the management of the Rock Island.

The other motion, filed on behalf of the Rock Island stockholders, asked that the trustee be appointed to take over the management of the Rock Island.

Elmer Root Jr., son of the former secretary of state, made the principal argument for the appointment of an impartial trustee. Mr. Root, a New York attorney, is counsel for the committees representing $150,000,000 in bonds and refunding mortgage and general bonds.

Root offered several criticisms of the present management. He said it owed its allegiance to the stockholders more or less to the detriment of the creditors, asking "we want somebody who does not owe primary allegiance to the debtor company."

For example, Mr. Root said, the management of the Rock Island paid a dividend in 1930 when it knew "the company was headed for trouble." He stated that the people whom he represented didn't trust the impartiality of the present regime, saying it had paid out $1,000,000 more for coal than was necessary.

"Unauthorized Stock Buying." Mr. Root asserted that E. N. Brown, chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island, purchased 35,000 shares of stock in the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, which is said to be under the control of the Rock Island by virtue of its ownership of a large block of common and preferred stock. He insisted that this purchase was not authorized by the board of directors although it was later approved.

Mr. Root also charged that the Rock Island, through its subsidiary, the Rock Island Industrial Development Corporation, had purchased a large block of common and preferred stock of the Rock Island, which is said to be under the control of the Rock Island by virtue of its ownership of a large block of common and preferred stock.

He insisted that this purchase was not authorized by the board of directors although it was later approved.

During the arguments Judge Wilkeson remarked: "You are asking for a neutral or impartial trustee, and yet I am prescribed by law to select one from a panel already approved by the interstate commerce commission, presumably one who will owe his allegiance to that body."

It developed during the arguments that all the fifteen men in the approved panel are attorneys, and that the closest any of them comes to being a railroad man was through being a railroad counsel.

DODGE SECURITY PERMIT REVOKED IN BREWERY DEAL

The license of Paul C. Dodge and company to sell securities in Illinois was canceled by Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, yesterday. This was the result of the firm's deal involving stock of the Pfeiffer Brewing company of Detroit.

Paul C. Dodge was given a hearing to show cause why his license to do business should not be revoked, but, according to Rupert F. Bippus, the answers to questions asked at the hearing were "incomplete and unsatisfactory."

Dodge could not be reached yesterday. An employee of the company said he was out of town.

STOCKS FOLLOW LURE OF GOLD IN FURTHER RALLY

Trading Expands.

Trading hit the liveliest pace of the renewed recovery movement in the last few minutes of the session, distancing the ticker by more than seven minutes. Virtually the entire active list was carried to new high ground for the advance. The turnover exceeded that of yesterday, running to around 2,116,000 shares.

Final prices showed United States Steel, up 3½; American Telephone and Telegraph, up 1½; General Motors, up 1½; and General Electric, up 1½.

Stocks of corporations most in line to benefit by inflation from inventory accumulation were making prominent gains. The shares of sugar, oil, and rubber companies were particularly liked. Rubber issues had a little extra help in the way of rumors of an impending production curtailment agreement between the Dutch and British.

Repeat Shares Stage Recovery. Repeat shares, which had been under pressure during the early dealings, took fresh heart and virtually the whole list advanced. National Distillers climbed more than 9 points from its forenoon low, finishing the day at 87½, up 4½ over its previous close. U. S. Industrial Alcohol made up a 2 point decline in the forenoon and then forged ahead for a net gain of more than 3 points. American Commercial Alcohol, Schenley Distillers, and other issues of the group met with similar success.

Union Pacific, New York Central, and Atchafalpa were conspicuously strong points in the rally department. Strong recoveries were made by farm implements under the leadership of Case, a role recovered their activity in a number of specialties.

Various preferreds met with vigorous demand and those of Armour (Illinois) and Delaware (Standard Gas, American Zinc, Wilson & Co., and Devoe and Reynolds rose 4 to 7 points or more.

Rise Continues in West.

San Francisco, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The stock market put on a pronounced rally today, carrying on after the Wall Street close to produce a new New York finish. Alaska Juneau closed at 29, up 1½ from the New York close.

STEEL OUTPUT 31.8% CAPACITY

Chicago Tribune Press Service.] New York, Oct. 24.—Telegraphic reports received from companies having 83.1 per cent of the steel capacity of the industry indicate that they are, for the week beginning Monday, Oct. 22, operating at 31.8 per cent of their capacity.

This is the first of a series of weekly reports which the American Iron and Steel Institute will collect under the direction of the Federal Reserve Board. The institute hereafter to issue this report on Monday of each week, and thereby make available a more authoritative figure than has been available to the trade in the past.

DOMESTIC BONDS RISE UNEVENLY IN ACTIVE TRADE

U.S. Governments Easier;
Foreign Liens Gain.

BOND AVERAGES

Domestic	Yest. Net	Chg.
U.S. Govt. Bonds	78.10-11	+1/8
Foreign Bonds	74.50-51	+1/8
Combined	76.25-26	+1/8

New York, Oct. 24.—Further sharp gains in foreign bonds, notably French loans; irregularly higher prices for domestic corporation issues, and weakness in United States government long term obligations characterized active trading in bonds on the stock exchange. The weakness of the dollar in the foreign exchange market prompted the buying of foreign issues, while at the same time it influenced the sale of the treasury issues.

United States government bonds declined 1/32 to 3/32 points in trading which reached $3,045,000, the heaviest since Sept. 21.

Total Turnover $12,024,500. Activity in this group largely accounted for the fact that the turnover for the entire bond market reached $12,024,500. In the over-the-counter market, bids for the new treasury 3 1/2, due in 12 years, callable in 10, slipped below the bid offering price of 100 1/2 for the first time.

Heavy buying of French government bonds lifted prices 4 to 4 1/2 points, while French municipal loans were bid up 1 to 1 1/2 points. Other "gold payment" issues were also favored. Swiss government 5 1/2% climbing 4 1/2 points and Dutch East Indies loans 2 to 4 1/2 points.

Germans Show Gains. In other sections of the list German bonds were up fractionally to 4 points as were many of the Scandinavian issues. Japanese bonds recovered some of the ground lost recently.

Domestic corporation bonds showed considerable irregularity, but in general railroad bonds were a trifle easier on the day and industrial and utility issues slightly higher. The rail issues were by far the most active.

Curb bonds were irregularly lower in moderately active dealings.

Commonwealth-Southern

Reports Drop in Earnings

Net income of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation for the twelve months ended Sept. 30 amounted to $2,284,969, compared with $16,173,559 for the like period ended Sept. 30, 1932. After preferred stock dividends there was a balance of $285,923, or slightly less than 1 cent a share on the common, compared with $7,773,955, or 21 cents a share, for the previous year.

Glidden.

Investors' Guide: Will you please inform me on Glidden?—H. J. J.

Answer: Operations of Glidden company are divided into three phases:

1. Manufacture of paint, which accounts for about 45 per cent of sales.

2. Preparation of food products, which accounts for an equal amount of sales.

3. Manufacture of chemicals and pigments, which contributes about 10 per cent of sales.

Chief food products are hard-cooked butter, coconut oil, nut margarine, and condiments. Sales are made mostly through chain stores.

About 40 per cent of sales of paint products are made at retail. The automobile trade takes another 10 per cent and the balance is split up among the building, railway, farm machinery and other industries. This division normally supplies 10 per cent of profits.

Upturn in the automobile trade and other lines of industry and strengthening of prices since the middle of 1933 have had a beneficial effect on earnings. Sales for the first three weeks of September, 1933, were 27 1/2 per cent better than in the corresponding 1932 period.

Net profit for the 10 months to Aug. 31, 1933, was $1,097,000, while 2.89 cents preferred dividends and equal to $1.11 per common share. For the corresponding 1932 period net profit was $2,000, which was only about one-tenth of preferred dividends.

Net sales of $22,260,000 in the year ended Oct. 31, 1932, hit the lowest point in seven years. Net income, including $260,000 profit on repurchases of outstanding notes and $184,000 refund of prior year's taxes, was $510,000, or 6 cents per common share. For the preceding year sales were $25,000,000 and net income was $172,000, or $2.50 per preferred share. Loss in the 1930 year was $19,000, against net income of $2,842,000 for the 1929 year.

On April 30, 1933, cash of $1,277,000 compared with total current liabilities of $940,000.

The company financed its entrance into the food business primarily with the sale of $6,000,000 of 5 1/2 per cent notes, due June 1, 1935. By April 30, 1933, the issue had been reduced to $4,132,000. There are outstanding 65,000 shares of 7 per cent, $100 par preferred and 650,000 shares of no par common.

Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred, but nothing has been paid on the common since Oct. 1, 1930.

Niagara Share Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Is Niagara Share Corporation of Maryland a class B common or dividend paying?—J. D.

Answer: Nothing has been paid on the B stock since the 10 cent per share payment on Jun. 15, 1933.

THIRD OF BILLION LIBERTY BONDS ARE CONVERTED

Response in Four Days Is Less than Expected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 24.—Figures appearing in the treasury daily statement as of Oct. 19, issued today, show that $356,024,850 of fourth Liberty bonds had been turned in, apparently in offers of exchange for the new twelve year, 4 1/2% per cent bonds which the treasury announced Oct. 11. The figures are given under public debt receipts and expenditures; on the expenditure side the amount appears as retirement of "Fourth Liberty Bonds" while on the receipts side the same amount is listed under "treasury bonds."

Government bond dealers pointed out today that this item probably revealed the extent of conversion of fourth Liberty bonds into the new loan, since the Federal Reserve bank as fiscal agent requires all applications for conversion of bonds to be accompanied by the bonds themselves.

Amount Under Expectations. The amount listed is far below expectations and, though the rush to convert may be accelerated as the day for closing of conversion books draws near, it does not bear out reports of a first day conversion of the new loan. Presumably the amount listed by the treasury includes uncalled as well as called Liberty bonds.

The significance of the $356,024,850 conversions as of Oct. 19 is not necessarily one of poor response, it was pointed out. For conversion offers often draw slowly, especially in a case like the fourth Liberty loan, the large and most widely distributed of the various issues of public debt. At the same time the figures named in much under what financial circles have expected for the first four days in which the conversion offer was open.

Test Comes After Speech. The test of the success of the conversion will come for the five days following the President's speech, it is held, and daily treasury statements will be issued by the treasury to show to see to what extent the President's address influenced minds of bondholders whose attitude at first had been one of receptiveness to what looked like a favorable, sound refunding operation.

Official Weather Report. The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Chicago—Forecast: Partly cloudy; high 70, low 40. Wind: West, 10 to 15 mph. Rainfall: .00 inch.

Yellow Truck & Coach Co. Gets Back on Profit Basis. The Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company, controlled by the General Motors corporation, reported for the fourth quarter ended Sept. 30, 1933, a net profit of $40,262, equivalent to 20 cents a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock. This compares with a net loss of $120,550 in the preceding quarter and net loss of $1,050,922 in the September quarter last year. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, the company had a net loss of $1,148,063.

Group Reports Show Variations. The rubber, chemicals, food and wood products industries reported increased pay rolls, as well as higher employment. Gains in wages payments ranged from 1 per cent for the rubber industry to 1 1/2 per cent for the wood products group. The metals group increased employment 4 1/2 per cent, while reduced wage payments 1 per cent. Working forces of the vehicle group increased 3 per cent, while wages in this industry dropped 10 per cent.

In the nonmanufacturing groups employment in merchandising increased 2.6 per cent. Coal mining employment rose 32.9 per cent. Construction employment rose 3.5 per cent and earnings advanced 13.9 per cent. Public utilities employment advanced 1.5 per cent and earnings declined 1.7 per cent.

DEFICIT GROWS AS GOVERNMENT PAYS INTEREST

Total Is $176,000,000 for Part of Month.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Interest payments on the public debt, coupled with accelerated spending for emergency relief purposes have established a treasury deficit of $176,000,000 for the month up to Oct. 21.

The daily treasury statement, as of Oct. 21, reveals that interest on the public debt thus far paid out this month amounted to $122,000,000 as compared with total disbursements of $208,000,000 for this fiscal year.

Payments String Out. Due on Oct. 15, interest payments on the debt are usually strung out over a period of fifteen days or more, because of laxity of holders in cashing in their coupons.

Emergency relief expenditures for public works have amounted to $13,000,000 this month as compared with $85,000,000 for the fiscal year.

Other Expenditures. In like manner, expenditures for the agricultural adjustment administration amounted to $7,700,000 as compared with $15,000,000 for the fiscal year, 000 for farm credit administration, or exactly half the amount expended during the fiscal year; $18,000,000 for the conservation corps as compared with $86,000,000 for the year.

The amount of $15,000,000 has been disbursed this month as paid in surplus to the Federal Land bank.

Amount Under Expectations. The amount listed is far below expectations and, though the rush to convert may be accelerated as the day for closing of conversion books draws near, it does not bear out reports of a first day conversion of the new loan. Presumably the amount listed by the treasury includes uncalled as well as called Liberty bonds.

Woman Sues H. F. McCormick for $1,500,000—Graf Zeppelin Due Tomorrow—O'Donnell "Advises" Senators

SUED BY WOMAN. Harold F. McCormick, from whom Mrs. Doubleday seeks $1,500,000. (Story on page 1.)

WOMAN SEEKS $1,500,000 IN SUIT AGAINST HAROLD F. MCCORMICK FOR BREACH OF PROMISE. Two pictures of Mrs. Rhea Tanager Doubleday, New York divorcee, whose lawyers filed praecipe of suit in Chicago yesterday. The former wife of Felix Doubleday is to charge that the wealthy Chicagoan proposed marriage to her about a year ago. She has letters which will figure in the trial. (Story on page 1.)

CHICAGO AND WORLD FAIR CROWDS AWAIT VISIT OF GRAF ZEPPELIN; SHOWN LANDING AT MIAMI. The huge German dirigible touching American soil at Miami, Fla., after flight from South America on way to Chicago. The Graf yesterday proceeded to Akron, O., under unfavorable weather conditions and is scheduled to arrive here tomorrow for a visit to the World Fair if weather permits. (Story on page 1.)

WILL BE BRIDE. Elizabeth Bolles, daughter of general, to wed Lieut. Robert Hewitt. (Story on page 18.)
